Fearful Atrocities Inflicted Upon the Jews in Bessarabia--Many Jews Killed

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 9—It is reported that a massacre occurred at Cronstadt last night and that the infantry using machine guns, fired on the people. The city is reported to be in flames. Telephone communication with St. Petersburg is interrupted but the telegraph lines are working.

SAILORS MUTINIED

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A dispatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg, says that the sailors of the Russian squadron at Cronstadt mutinied last night, overpowered the officers and landed and attacked the shops, public buildings and spirit stores. The troops were called out and fighting ensued during which machine guns were used and many persons were killed or wounded. In addition a number of houses were set on fire. The fighting lasted all night long.

KILLING JEWS

FEARFUL OUTBREAKS IN BESSARABIA—MANY KILLED.

ODESSA, Russia, Nov. 9.—Authentic accounts received here from various points in Bessarabia show that the anti-Jewish outbreaks there followed the same lines as at Odessa, varying only in the number of victims. Carrying Ikons and portraits of the Emperor, the mob proceeded to Alexandrovskaia, Pushkinskaia and Gostinkaia streets devastating and pillaging unhindered. Attempts at self-defense were quelled by the troops. Ninety per cent. of the killed and wounded were victims of bayonets and rifle bullets. The looting was accompanied by atrocities similar to those witnessed at Odessa and continued for two days. They stopped so soon as the governor received an order from St. Petersburg. Seventy Jews were killed and one hundred and twenty were wounded. Order is now restored.

A mob at Ismail, Bessarabia, burned alive eleven Jews who had hidden in a hay-rack.

The town of Kalarasch, Bessarabia, was entirely devastated and burned. Fifty-nine Jews were killed or perished in the flames and two hundred fled to neighboring villages where the peasants beat a number of them to death with cudgels and burned three Jews after drenching them with petroleum.

TRADE SCHOOLS

Public Hearing At City Hall Tonight

BEFORE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

A Large Crowd Should Attend the Hearing

The commission on industrial education appointed by the legislature on recommendation of Governor Douglas to visit the different cities of the state and test public sentiment in regard to the establishment of trade schools will give a hearing in the public hearing room in city hall this evening.

Every man who has a son whom he would have learn a useful trade should attend and give his views. If any he has on the matter, or at least attend and hear the views of others. This trade school movement is in no way antagonistic to any of the principles of organized labor and the unions are not opposed to it. There is no free public school in Lowell at which a boy may learn a trade and the movement is in the right direction.

SUPERIOR COURT

Cowley Case Referred to An Auditor

The superior civil court was opened this morning at ten o'clock at the local court house, but shortly after the opening of the session court was adjourned until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, owing to the fact that there were no cases ready for trial.

The case of Rosie Lee against the Tremont & Suffolk mills, for alleged personal injuries sustained while in the employ of the defendant company was taken away from the jury, exceptions being saved for the plaintiff's counsel.

Shortly after the regular session of court yesterday afternoon the counsel in the Cowley cases argued on the matter of appointment of an auditor. Samuel K. Hamilton of Wakefield was directed by the court and a date will be fixed later.

The Palace theatre is playing to good houses this week. They are giving a first class 25c show for 10c; also have the wonderful Frog Boy.

WON THE RACE

Woman Succeeded in Boarding Cymric

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Though the White Star liner Cymric was well out into the stream today on her way to Liverpool, that fact did not deter a young woman who gave the name of Miss Tarbolton, of Australia, from hurrying the steamship and she immediately set out in pursuit.

A carriage was driven furiously down to the end of the pier as the Cymric was passing out this morning and the young woman leaped out of the vehicle.

"Are you a passenger?" Agent Early asked.

"Yes, and I must catch the ship," the woman replied.

Then she hurried to the end of the pier and signalled for a tug. After some moments the boat was at the pier and Miss Tarbolton went on board and began the pursuit of the Cymric. Meantime, the passengers of the big liner had become aware of the young woman's determination to join them on their eastward journey and they were leaning over the railings alert and interested. A long rope ladder was suspended over the steamship's side and finally the tug reached the side of the steamer, Miss Tarbolton grasped the end of the ladder and amid cheers of the spectators climbed slowly up to the deck where upon her arrival she was given a renewed demonstration.

MAN KILLED

BOY WITH FRACTURED SKULL IS IN HOSPITAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—A man, supposed to be George Harmon, a painter, was killed yesterday by falling from a scaffold at 417 West 146th street, and his helper, John Leslie, 15 years old is in the J. Hood Wright hospital with a fractured skull. They were both at work at the second story of a private house owned by John P. Leo and occupied by C. Victor Twiss.

A citizen told a policeman of the accident. By the time an ambulance arrived the man was dead. The boy was unconscious and nobody could tell just how the accident happened. Some one told the policeman that the man and boy had been seen fighting on the scaffold over the result of the election.

Charles Heps of 327 East 70ist street; the contractor who had charge of the building at 417 West 146th street, was arrested yesterday and taken to the West 125th street station, charged with criminal negligence. He was released by the coroner on $1000 bail. No explanation of his arrest was given.

KILLS HIS WIFE

Man Then Tried to Commit Suicide

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Walter Decker, 32 years old, a towerman, employed in the West Shore railroad yards at Weehawken, shot and killed his wife in their home at Morgan street and Hudson boulevard, Union Hill, late yesterday afternoon and then tried to kill himself by sending a bullet into his right temple. Decker was still alive at the North Hudson hospital last night. The bullet came out of his right eye, destroying his sight. The doctors think he has a chance to get well.

Decker had been drinking heavily of late and was in danger of losing his job. He did not report for duty yesterday and spent several hours in a Bergenline avenue saloon. His wife hunted him up in the afternoon and took him home. According to Mrs. Mary Brown, who lives in the house and overheard the conversation, Mrs. Decker asked her husband shortly after 4 o'clock if he had drawn his wages. He replied that he had not and offered to give her an order for the money.

A few minutes later Mrs. Brown was startled by two shots in quick succession. She ran into the dining room and saw Mrs. Decker lying dead on the kitchen floor. She had been shot in the back of the head and died almost instantly. Decker was lying in the dining room with a bullet wound in his head.

It is believed that the tragedy was the result of jealousy aggravated by too much drink.

PAWTUCKET SOCIABLE.

STATUE TO SATAN

Detroit Man Unveils a Monument

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 9.—A monument to Satan erected by an avowed infidel to show his contempt for religion, was the sight that greeted neighbors of Herman Menz, a contracting plasterer, when they passed his home at 95 Stanton avenue, yesterday. People in the neighborhood knew that Menz was erecting something, but had no idea what it was until yesterday, when he unveiled the monument, and many threw up their hands in horror.

Churchgoing people are scandalized. Murmurings of indignation are freely voiced and corrective measures are being discussed. It is not impossible that Menz may wake up some morning to find his cowell in ruins. On the base of the monument is this Latin inscription:

"Homo non est creatio, sed evolutio deus non fecit hominem, sed homo fecit deos."

Translated it reads: "Man is not created, but is developed; God did not mould man, but man made the Gods."

Asked why he put up the monument, Menz said:

"Isn't it as good as anything else in the way of an ornament? Would you have me put the statue of a saint up there? He is my friend," declared the old man, pointing to the statue. "He spoke the first and last truth. I do not believe a word in the Bible. It is a pack of lies from beginning to end, but Old Nick tells the truth."

The monument is about fourteen feet tall. Satan is shown in stooping posture behind a pulpit. His infernal majesty is looking over the landscape with a devilish glare, with his horns protruding from the side of his head. Carved in the stone directly in front is the big ugly fork with which he is supposed to prod sinners in the fire.

The structure is built on the lot line alongside of Menz's home, and from his elevated position Old Nick has a commanding view of the surrounding streets and houses. Around the neck of the statue when it was unveiled was a ribbon of United States flags. Menz explained this by saying it is a Yankee devil.

Menz was born in Germany, but has lived in Detroit twenty-one years. He says his parents were infidels before him and that his wife and two daughters, who live with him, have the same belief. He says he built the house he lives in with his own hands. It bears some striking reminders of his odd characteristics, being decorated on the outside with fierce looking lions' heads and images of strange creatures.

MISSIONARY CIRCLE.

A meeting of the Woman's Missionary circle of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. S. B. Puffer at the corner of School and Middlesex streets. Mrs. H. L. Tibbetts conducted the devotional exercises after which papers were read on "Mexico," the subject of the day's discussion, by Miss Ida Goucher, Mrs. H. C. Fuller and Mrs. Larkin T. Trull. Miss Fannie Trull read a paper on Porto Rico. Mrs. Thompson read letters from her daughter, who is a missionary in Monterey, Mexico. Mrs. O. C. F. Wallace gave a short missionary talk. It was voted to send a barrel to an orphans' home in South Carolina.

Specimens of Mexican work were shown and were much admired by the ladies present.

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

CHELMSFORD FIRE.

A one and one-half story house in Billerica street, Chelmsford Centre, belonging to A. B. Adams, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The house was occupied by Mrs. E. A. Griffin and her five children.

The fire was discovered in a room on the ground floor and in all probability was caused by an overheated stove.

The village aid was effective in removing the furniture, in saving the ell of the house, but the main part was consumed. Mrs. Griffin and family are being cared for at the houses of neighbors. The losses are partly covered by insurance.

HORRIBLE MASSACRE

American Women Clubbed to Death by Rioters

HONGKONG, Nov. 9.—Dr. Machle, the American missionary who escaped the massacre at Lienchow, continuing the previous accounts of the outbreak, adds horrifying details of the atrocities committed on the American women. When the disturbances commenced the mob seized Miss Chestnut and Mrs. Machle and exposed them to public view in the Chinese Temple. Amy Machle, a ten-year-old child, was carried off and flung alive into the river. The rioters stripped Miss Chestnut naked and flung her into the river. While the two were struggling in the water three Chinamen speared them with tridents. Miss Chestnut's body and Amy Machle's head were pierced. Mrs. Machle appealed to the rioters but they stoned her brains out, stripped the body and flung it into the river. The mob then captured Mr. and Mrs. Peale, stripped them naked, exposed them for fifteen minutes, clubbed Mr. Peale to death in his wife's presence and subsequently killed Mrs. Peale in the same brutal fashion.

BOSTON MARKET.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The early Boston market was weak, the selling pressure inaugurated in the late trading yesterday being still manifest. There was a fair volume of trading. Duly West stood alone as the strong card, advancing on western buying orders. The general list was neglected. The loaning rates indicated an increase in the short interest which serves to keep the money rates comparatively low. Trading on the curb was light.

MORSE IS BUSY

Plenty of Street Work On Hand

TRAP ROCK FOR ANDOVER STREET

Oaklands Sewer Work is Being Pushed

The street department is decidedly busy and Superintendent Morse has all that one man can attend to. Men who call at his office looking for work these days are receiving a cool reception because he has not the time to devote to them.

Among the many jobs now on hand is the repaving of East Merrimack street, from the foot of the hill to the bridge.

The job of repaving Middlesex street has been under consideration for some time, but upon investigation Superintendent Morse found that the paving was so rounded that it would not pay to relay it.

The granite blocks in Middlesex street were laid 28 or 29 years ago, and they are "too far gone" to be used again.

In view of this fact it is clearly visible that when Middlesex street is attended to it will mean a big job of new paving. Mr. Morse says the job will have to go over until next year.

The macadamizing of Walker and Liberty streets is being carried on with a rush. Local stone is being used in Walker street, and trap rock in Liberty street.

Andover and High streets will be attended to. They will receive a coating of trap rock.

The department is going along with the Oakland sewer through Rogers street and Wentworth avenue.

Some delay has been experienced because of the fact that iron pipe ordered from New York did not arrive on time. The work, however, will be pushed along as rapidly as possible.

Work on sewers in Parker, Rhodora and Mt. Hope streets is being attended to and Superintendent Morse says that he is feeling badly for his appropriation.

The approaches to the Aiken street bridge over the canal are to be repaired and a portion of the wood block paving relaid on the bridge.

A public hearing on education will be held in the public hearing room at 7.30 tomorrow evening.

SEVERAL RESCUED

MANY OTHERS ESCAPED FROM BURNING BUILDING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—Tenants of the Leroy apartment house at No. 133 West One Hundred and Thirteenth street, were deprived of their extra holiday sleep early yesterday by a fire which filled the upper floors of the house with smoke and threatened some of the tenants with suffocation.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It broke out in the apartment of George J. Frank when no one was at home, and while the two children, Allie, four, and Margery, two, were asleep in the care of Kitty Murphy, their nurse, and Mary Peralta, the other servant of the family. The servants grabbed the sleeping children and rushed out of the flat and downstairs.

They slammed and locked the doors behind them, and the policemen later had to break their way into the apartment. The women alarmed the other tenants, and there was an instant exodus of half-dressed people.

Otto Schutmann, superintendent of the building, was overcome by smoke, and had to be helped out.

Policemen Cosgrove and Whitman helped downstairs several other women and children from the top floor flats.

When the firemen arrived they quickly drowned out the blaze.

BODIES FOUND

Workmen Dug Into a Cholera Graveyard

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—The New York Central excavation for its new yards passes at Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets through the old potter's field in use in the '40s and '50s of the last century. For a year every new cut has brought up rotting coffins, bones, skulls, and in some cases whole bodies. Two weeks ago a coffin containing the skeleton of a woman was dug up. The hair was black and still had some gloss, and it made a tangled mat as far as the knees. One strand, which a workman pulled out and measured for curiosity, was seven feet long. All such bodies which are anywhere nearly intact are sent to High Bridge for reburial.

Last Saturday a steam shovel was put on a new cut at Forty-ninth street, on the western edge of the excavation and near the point where the old New York Central roundhouse stood. It struck a patch of soft earth and began to send up small fragments of bones. These pieces were curiously pitted, and there was not a whole thigh bone among them. A part of a skull was the biggest piece discovered.

The workmen of the O'Rourke Contracting company, who are becoming experts on human bones, began to examine the remains. The pitting was caused by quicklime. Pieces of slacked lime were dug out of the pits. There were only a few fragments of coffins. These bodies must have been buried in a hurry and in a heap. While they were talking this over the shovel uncovered another proof—the rotted shoes of a man, containing a few bones, and a number of coins antedating 1848.

This body had been buried in such a hurry that they had not prepared it for burial. Then some of the Irish workmen remembered what their fathers had told them about the great cholera epidemic of 1849. They had dug into the pits to which the Board of Health used to carry by night the day's harvest of dead and bury them in quicklime. In fact, a proof of these night burials came out of the ground in the shape of a tin torch such as is used now in political processions.

The cholera epidemic of 1849 is nearly forgotten in New York. It struck the city early in the summer, and caused a panic within a few days. Five Points was a pestilence then, and it was the centre of the epidemic. A building at Monroe and Pearl streets was turned into a hospital by a specially appointed sanitary commission.

As the epidemic grew the schools were closed and the buildings became cholera hospitals. In these institutions 1021 persons died before the end of the summer. Many more died in the holes of Five Points. The death list was estimated at about 3000. As in the great London plagues, the authorities took charge of the disposal of all bodies. A feeling against cremation kept the authorities from burning the bodies, as was done in old London.

SAN DOMINGO

REVOLUTIONISTS THREATEN AN UPRISING THERE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A revolutionary movement has developed in San Domingo and an uprising is threatened. News to this effect has reached the government here and the proper steps are being taken by the navy department at the instance of the state department to maintain the peace.

GREAT INTEREST

MANIFESTED IN WASHINGTON IN THE ELECTIONS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Keen interest in the result of yesterday's election was manifested today in administration and political circles generally. President Roosevelt and members of the cabinet were promptly informed of the latest returns. It is not regarded that national issues entered to any considerable extent in the elections, although in Massachusetts the question of reciprocity figures in a material way. Surprise was created by the tremendous revulsion of political sentiment in Pennsylvania and Ohio and by the closeness of the vote for mayor in New York.

AGED MAN

WITHOUT A HOME DIES IN A CELLAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Peter Brown, at sixty-eight a homeless wanderer, without employment or friends, was found dead yesterday in the cellar of the paint store at No. 2149 Third avenue by Charles Lesser, the proprietor. In his prosperous days he bought supplies of Lesser and had a chat with him earlier in the day, when it was noticed that he was in bad shape physically.

Brown disappeared, and late in the afternoon Lesser found his body. Dr. Dimick said the old man died of consumption.

Loaning rates reflected a short interest in U. S Steel common and preferred. Trading on the curb was active. JOHN B. MORAN

Will Prosecute For the Next Two Years

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—John B. Moran, whose election as district attorney for Suffolk county, while running as an independent candidate was a feature of the voting in Massachusetts, defended a client today the last time in two years, according to his announcement. "From now on, I will prosecute," said Mr. Moran, when he was leaving the district court at Dorchester. "This is the last time I will appear in court for the defense for two years." His last case was lost to him, his client, who was charged with stealing money from the Boston Elevated railway company, was convicted and fined.

WITTE'S REQUEST

Wants Support of the Zemstvos

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 8, 1.10 p. m.—Count Witte is continuing negotiations with the Zemstvo constitutionalist party with brighter prospects of at least partial success. He regards their support as being almost vital to the achievement of his task. The count is now conferring with Prince Eugene Trubetsky, brother of the late Prince Serglus Trubetsky and idol of the party whom the count wishes to take the portfolio of education and with Prince Dolgorouikoff, Prof. Milliukoff and M. Stakovich who were summoned from Moscow and M. Struve, editor of the Osvobajdehie, the organ of the "Emancipation" published in Paris who arrived last night after four years exile in the cause of freedom. The conservative wing of the party is becoming less antagonistic in its attitude toward Count Witte although demanding the fulfillment of certain conditions before giving him open support. The members insist primarily on the removal of the "Wolves" of the old regime as they term the governors and police officials of many provinces and cities who are not in sympathy with the new order of things and who are charged with deliberately inciting the worst elements of the population with the full connivance of the police and troops under their control to make attacks upon the "intellectuals" and Jews which recently have filled the country with tales of horror and bloodshed.

This condition Count Witte is anxious to meet as he fully realizes that the obnoxious officials are obstacles in his own path. Prince Trubetskoy is ready to accept office. Another Zemstvo congress has been called to meet at Moscow, Nov. 19, at which the attitude of the party will be defined. There are indications that it will result in a split and that the supporters of a constitutional monarchy will join Count Witte and support his policy while the extremists will lean towards if not unite with the social democrats who will continue the agitation for a democratic republic.

DELEGATES

TO THE IMMIGRATION CONGRESS NAMED.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—At a meeting of the executive council today, Governor Douglas nominated the state delegates to the immigration congress of the national civic federation which is to be held in New York city December 6 and 7. The delegates include Charles Pilgin, Joseph Lee, Frank K. Foster, Harry Abrahams, Max Mitchell, Prescott F. Hall and Frank W. Herrick, all of Boston, John Graham Brooks of Cambridge, August P. Gardner of Hamilton and Frank B. Hall, Worcester.

The governor also appointed George E. Gardiner of Boston to be a member of the commission on uniform legislation.

500 ARRESTS

MANY ELECTION DAY PRISONERS IN PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8—Scores of election day prisoners were arraigned today before Magistrate Einsenbrown at the central police station in the city hall and nearly 500 who were arrested are under bail awaiting further hearings tomorrow.

THE MORMONS

DEFEATED IN THE ELECTION IN SALT LAKE CITY.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 8—The American party founded for the express purpose of overthrowing the influence of the Mormon church in municipal affairs, gained a complete victory in yesterday's city election. Ezra Thompson was elected mayor by a plurality of 925, over Richard P. Morris, (Dem. and Mormon) who was a candidate for re-election. The entire city ticket of the Americans is elected by about the same vote. The Americans will have control of the council.

PRINCE LOUIS

ELECTED A MEMBER OF THE TYPO UNION.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8—At a meeting of the chapel of printers in the composing room of the News office today, Prince Louis of Battenburg was elected a member, it having been developed during his visit to the office of the newspaper last night that his highness learned the printing art when he was a young man.

SECRET CONSISTORY.

ROME, Nov. 8.—It is considered certain that a secret consistory will be held Dec. 11 and a public consistory Dec. 14 and that Monsignor Cagaino de Azevedo, major domo of the vatican, Archbishop Cavallcanti de Albuquerque of Rio Janeiro; Archbishop Shinlon of Seville; Archbishop Samassa of Elan, Hungary, and another prelate whose name is not yet known will be created cardinals.

COTTON REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The census bureau issued a bulletin today showing that up to Nov. 1, 6,493,646 bales of cotton had been ginned in this country. Round bales are counted as half bales.

BETS HELD UP

No Wagers Paid in New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—In the commercial district practically all bets made on McClellan will be held up pending developments. A few Jerome bets were cashed this morning, but the stake holders have decided not to pay the bulk of the Jerome money until the official count is in.

The local shares remained sensitive to discussion in the political situation throughout the morning and the selling of Metropolitan and Brooklyn Rapid Transit was reported to have a considerable political following. One of the Wall street tickers made the statement that there seemed little doubt that the politicians were genuinely frightened by the closeness of the election and Mr. Hearst's demand for a recount.

JEROME'S PLAN

Says He Will Investigate Alleged Frauds

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Whether Geo. B. McClellan or William R. Hearst is to be the next mayor of the Greater New York must be decided by the courts. Full returns from every election district give McClellan a plurality of 3155, but this is so small—only a little more than one-half of one per cent. of the vote cast—that a recount and re-inspection of the ballots might easily sweep it away and show Hearst a winner.

Indignant at what he believed to be suspicious holding back of returns last night, and aroused to keen resentment by stories of violence and outrage at the polls, told at his headquarters by scores of his followers, Mr. Hearst refused to admit defeat, and declared that he would see that every man that voted for him got a fair count of his vote. In his demand for a recount Mr. Hearst is supported by District Attorney William T. Jerome, himself victorious in his single handed fight against the great Tammany machine. Mr. Jerome said today:

"I shall immediately institute an investigation of the frauds perpetrated by Tammany at the polls yesterday. If the facts warrant I shall begin an immediate prosecution against those guilty of crime."

Bird S. Coler, elected president of the borough of Brooklyn on the Municipal Ownership league ticket, also supports Mr. Hearst's contention that he was rightfully elected. Mr. Coler said that Mr. Hearst had been elected by 10,000 votes and accused Tammany of "outrageous, brazen and rotten fraud."

The stock market showed some sensitiveness to the Hearst vote and the fact that the Municipal Ownership league will have representation on the board of estimate and apportionment which controls municipal franchises. Stocks of several local corporations operating under city franchises ran off rather sharply on a feeling that the Hearst representation will be able to influence the city's policy in the granting of future franchises. Mr. Hearst has contended that the city has not been properly compensated for valuable privileges granted to corporations in recent years.

BOSTON POLICE

Will Close Up Illegal Hospitals

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The Boston police received a dispatch from Halifax, N. S., today, asking for a complete description of Mrs. Mary A. Dean, who is wanted here in connection with the death of Susanna Geary, the chorus girl. The telegram added that a woman answering Mrs. Dean's description had been seen in a town not far distant from Halifax. The local police notified the Halifax authorities to keep the suspected woman under surveillance until her identity could be established.

W. H. H. Emmons of the Boston board of police, Dr. Edward B. Harvey, secretary of the state board of registration and medicine, Inspector Snow of the postoffice department and Deputy Chief Geo. E. Neil of the state police were in conference today with reference to clearing the city of the illegal hospital establishments, in one of which the Geary girl is said to have met her death. The work of obtaining evidence will be entrusted to Supt. of Police Wm. Pierce and Chief of Detectives Wm. Watts.

REMAIN OUT

STRIKERS DECIDE TO STAND TOGETHER.

SAYLESVILLE, R. I., Nov. 8.—About 25 of the striking workingmen of the Glendyon dye works, connected with the Saylesville bleacheries, held a meeting today at which they refused to accept a proposition said to have been made by the management of the mill that they return to employment as individuals on the condition that two men previously discharged be reinstated. It was voted at the meeting to stand together and continue the strike. According to strikers more out of town workers arrived at the bleacheries and went to work there today, though in what number was not known.

Today marked the beginning of the third week of the strike.

CITY HALL NEWS.

Both branches of the city council will meet tomorrow evening in special session to take action on the death of the late Councilman John Donohue of ward five who died last night. A call for the meetings was issued by the mayor this morning. It will be the second time since the organization of the present city council that it has convened to hear the formal announcement of the death of one of its members and the fifth time the council has been called together this year on account of the demise of city officials.

PATTISON WON

A Great Democratic Sweep in Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—John M. Pattison, democrat, will be the next governor of Ohio and his party associates on the state ticket have also all been elected, according to the indication of precinct returns and county plurality figures received here up to 11 p. m. The exact figures may not be known today but there seems to be no reason to doubt the success of the entire democratic state ticket by at least a safe plurality which Chairman Garber claims to be more than 40,000 for Pattison and the democratic ticket. Up to 11 o'clock, Chairman Dick had refused to admit officially the defeat of his ticket, but it was understood at republican headquarters that the reports from county chairmen indicated that result. Governor Herrick, Chairman Dick and Elmer Dover of the national committee, were in consultation all morning and a statement was promised later in the day.

Both houses of the legislature will be democratic, the last hope of the republicans vanishing with the report that the Hamilton county delegation was solidly democratic.

DIED AT POLLS

ELECTION INSPECTOR PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Keyed to such a high pitch of excitement, after eleven hours of work, under trying and exciting conditions, that his heart gave way, Matthew Kurtz, twenty-five years old, of No. 318 East Thirty-seventh street, a republican election inspector in the Twenty-second election district of the Twentieth assembly district, at No. 637 First avenue, died suddenly there yesterday afternoon, just after the polls closed.

Hemorrhage from an aortic aneurism broken by the long strain, is supposed to have caused his death. Kurtz was a small, slight young man, and the work was too much for him.

The ballot box had just been closed, and Kurtz and his fellow inspectors were preparing for the count, while a great crowd gathered outside, when he suddenly cried:

"My God, I must have air!" It was very close and stuffy in the voting place, as all the inmates had been smoking all day. Patrolmen Kesselmark and Vandelphi, of the East Thirty-fifth street station, who were on duty at the polling place, heard Kurtz's cry and saw him totter. They hurried to his side and he fell into Kesselmark's arms. The two policemen carried him, white and inert, into the hallway. The crowd, illuminated by a huge bonfire built in front of the place, swarmed about to see what was the matter, and in the glare of the fire and amid the cries of the crowd Kurtz breathed his last.

Kurtz was unmarried and lived with his mother. Another inspector was sworn in to fill Kurtz's place, and the counting of the votes went on.

GIRL'S STORY

CAUSED ARREST OF NEW YORK YOUTH.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—What is expected to prove an unequalled record of criminality is that of Ernest Triesselmann, a nineteen-year-old boy, of No. 629 West Twenty-fourth street, who was yesterday held by Magistrate Walsh in the West Fifty-fourth street court in $500 bail for trial for holding Lillian Wells, a sixteen-year old girl, of No. 574 Greenwich street, a prisoner in a house in West Fifty-fourth street.

The arrest of Triesselmann was made by Detective Hamilton, of Sergeant Costigan's fire squad, who declares he can secure evidence that will show that the prisoner has been holding as prisoners, and taking their money, nearly a score of girls. He has made the neighborhood of West Twenty-third street and Eighth avenue his headquarters.

Lillian Wells, who was rescued from the West Fifty-fourth street house, was in a pitiable condition. She said she knew the boy had injured many other girls, who were afraid to inform on him, just as he had injured her, for fear of their lives. It is probable that a long term in prison awaits this young man, who is declared to be a sample of hundreds of others who infest the district where Bertha Claiche was forced to murder Emil Gendron, her "white slave" owner, to free herself from degradation. Triesselmann admitted that he had imprisoned Lillian Wells.

WAS ROBBED

TAMMANY MAN LOST HIS ELECTION FUNDS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Julius Harburger, leader of the Tenth Assembly District, candidate for coroner on the Tammany ticket, who lives at No. 50 St. Mark's place, reported at police headquarters yesterday that he had been robbed while he slept of $300 and a gold watch and chain.

The money, he said, was that which he had received from Tammany Hall to pay the braves and others. This he had neglected to do and went home with the money. At 2 o'clock, he says, he was awakened by his son, Benjamin, who told him that there were burglars in the house. Mr. Harburger scoffed at the idea and went to sleep again.

When he started to see those who were to receive the bounty he was surprised to find that the money was gone. So also was a watch and chain which he carried.

RECEIVER NAMED.

BOSTON, Nov. 8—Judge Wilfred Bolster of the municipal court was appointed receiver today of the Union Health and Accident company. The decree was entered by Judge Lathrop in the supreme court. Officers of the company consented to the proceedings, which were initiated recently by Attorney General Parker. The attorney general's allegations are that the company has exceeded its rights under its charter and has wrongfully expended its funds and that in 1903 and 1904 it made false statements to the insurance commissioner. Commissioner Cutting examined the books of the company and found that there were not funds enough to meet all the liabilities.

QUARANTINE REMOVED.

HAVANA, Nov. 8—The quarantine against passengers bound for Cuba by way of Florida has been removed.

MANY ARRESTED

349 Alleged Offenders Were Taken In

ON ELECTION DAY IN NEW YORK

Jerome Watchers Were Knocked Out

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—There were 349 arrests for alleged violations of the election law in Manhattan yesterday. Of the prisoners, 31 were held, but of these, only two for trial.

In the great majority of cases the arrests were made through sheer blundering on the part of Morgan deputies. Magistrates hearing the cases, characterized a majority of the arrests as unjustifiable and outrageous.

Dozens of citizens were arrested and taken unceremoniously to court for no reason other than that the election officers had addresses wrong. The Morgan deputies kept the wires to Morgan's office in the Lord's court building hot with reports of violations which proved to be, usually, nothing more than blunders of the deputies themselves.

Slungshots, brass knuckles and general efforts to intimidate Jerome workers figured in the election. H. De Forest Baldwin and Charles Webster, a lawyer, were attacked shortly after noon by thugs near the polling booth at No. 27 Chrystie street, which is in the first election district of the sixth assembly district. Mr. Webster was struck with a black jack and Mr. Baldwin was hammered on the head with brass knuckles.

There had been trouble brewing in the election booth all day. Mr. Webster had been early on hand in the interest of Mr. Jerome. Senator J. J. Fitzgerald was the chief Tammany representative and he and Mr. Webster had frequent clashes. Finally word was sent to the Jerome Union Square headquarters and Mr. Baldwin was sent down.

Mr. Webster then started to go to another polling booth, and Mr. Baldwin started to accompany him some distance away to make sure of his safety. They had gone only as far as the corner when Mr. Webster fell at Mr. Baldwin's feet. He had been knocked down by a blow from behind.

KNOCKED OUT.

The next instant Mr. Baldwin was struck on the side of the head a powerful blow by a man who wore brass knuckles. He was rendered unconscious for a few moments. Mr. Webster recovered and went at his assailants tooth and nail. Mr. Baldwin also jumped into the fray. Word was sent to the Eldridge street police station that a riot was in progress and reserves were sent around. The policemen rescued two Jerome workers and established order.

All through the afternoon complaints flowed into the office of Superintendent of Elections Morgan of attempts at intimidation of Jerome men by Tammany watchers. In some place, it was declared, the Tammany force was strong enough to keep the watchers out of the booths.

Jerome representatives declared that Tammany captains were keeping citizens from voting. Local Chairman Bauer, who has charge of the Jerome watchers in the 33d, telephoned to Superintendent Morgan's office that a crowd of Tammany workers had collected in front of the polling place at Third avenue and 100th street. He declared that nobody who was not known to be a Tammany man was allowed to enter.

Mr. Morgan sent two deputies and later Chairman Bauer sent a call for the reserves to the East 104th street station. Seven arrests have been made for interfering with voters in this district, but it seemed to be impossible to stop the trouble.

Other Jerome watchers sent word that floaters and repeaters were flooding certain sections of the 10th. The conditions at No. 9 Mulberry street were acute. Deputy Rimmer went to that polling place with instructions to call on the Elizabeth street reserves, if necessary.

Deputy Claman telephoned that two arrests had been made at No. 505 East 30th street, a polling place of the 14th assembly district. He said that the repeaters were getting so troublesome there that he was unable to cope with them. He called for more help and got it. In this neighborhood Morgan men dressed as tramps have been sleuthing around, and secured the confidence of some of the would-be repeaters in time to block their plans.

Patrolman Edward J. Hoffman, attached to the East 126th street station, was arrested charged with illegal voting. The arrest was made at the 24th election district of 22d assembly district, the polling place for which is at No. 2569 Eighth avenue. Hoffman lives at No. 142 Edgecomb avenue, in The Bronx.

Attorney General Mayer visited all the police courts in the course of the day.

Hardly any cases of fighting or disorder growing out of the election were heard in any of the police courts.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

BOSTON, Nov. 8—The first annual convention of the Sunday school union of Massachusetts was opened in Trinity church today. Holy communion was celebrated by Bishop Lawrence. An address on the duties of parents to their children in the matter of religion was given by the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity, who said that the natural educator of the child was the parent.

HE SET THE FIRE

Chamberlain Confesses to the Police

LACONIA, N. H., Nov. 9.—George G. Chamberlain of Plymouth, N. H., now in the Belknap county jail, held for trial under an indictment for attempted arson in setting a fire in the basement of the telephone block on Main street in this city Monday night, made a confession at the jail yesterday to City Marshal Guay and Ex-City Marshal Scott, admitting that he caused the fire at the large dry goods store of O. A. Lougee in this city on the night of October 8.

The substance of the confession is that he entered the store through a rear basement window for the purpose of robbery on the night in question, worked his way from the rear annex into the main store with the aid of matches which he lighted, that he finally discovered a fire in the basement of the annex which he first entered, and decided to leave the place knowing that the fire had originated from matches which he had dropped in the basement, that as he left the building the blaze was under considerable headway.

Chamberlain then said he ran across a near lot and to his room on Court street. That soon the fire alarm sounded and that he left his room, called Arthur Gray, a fellow-lineman of his in the employ of the telephone company, and also a member of the fire department, and went to the fire with him.

LARGE EARNINGS

Mutual Life Made $6,624,677 Last Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—After a two weeks' interruption because of the campaign the legislative committee today resumed its investigation of the methods of the life insurance companies. Senator Armstrong announced today that hereafter the committee's sessions would be held from 10.30 to 1 p. m. and from 2.30 to 5 p. m. The first witness was Emory McClintock, actuary of the Mutual Life, who has been under examination several days before. McClintock, submitted today a statement of earnings and dividends of the company for five years, which showed that in 1904, the realized earnings of the company were $6,624,677.

This witness said was exclusive of any loss or gain by the decrease or increase in the market value of securities. The total dividends for this year were $2,714,549 of which $538,594 were annual dividends.

In answer to questions from Mr. Hughes Mr. McClintock said that the apportionment and made up in November, 1903, before it was known that the earnings of 1904 would be $6,624,677.

The earnings of 1903 were $5,563,861 and witness said there was no assumed amount of increase taken into account when the dividends were made up. It was arrived at by taking into consideration the general run of the business.

Assemblyman Cox asked: "But why not give more dividends if the company can afford it?"

"We fix the rate with due regard to the circumstances of the company," said the witness. "If we can afford it, we give more; if not then we give less."

Mr. McClintock said that in 1904, the old policy holders of the Mutual Life paid $4,462,0.5 for expenses incurred in securing new business. He said that the estimated cost of this new business in 1904 was $9,810,753 and that the amount available towards expense was only $5,168,698. The old policy holders paid the butance of the expenses he said.

The witness could not remember a case in which the actuary's department has ever been consulted by the officers of the company as to the amount of money to be expended for new business. He said he had consulted as to the commissions of agents. He thought that the agent's commissions were larger for the endowment policies than on an ordinary life policy with annual dividends. The only justification which Mr. McClintock offered for this method of paying commissions was custom and the liability to disrupt the agency force if it were not followed.

Ten minutes after the report January sold at 11.08 and March at 11.20.

FOR VENGEANCE

Report That the Jews Are Preparing

ODESSA, Nov. 8—Outward calm has returned here but the tension is still great. Reports that the Jews are preparing for terrible vengeance on the Christians are being industriously circulated among the most ignorant classes and it is feared they may lead to a recrudescence of anarchy.

Prefect Neidhardt to whom much of the responsibility of last week's occurrences is attributed is still in office despite urgent demands for his removal.

The prosecutor general has invited all eye witnesses of the outrages to give testimony at the forthcoming investigation. The governor general has promised to place guards at all places where numbers of homeless Jews are now being sheltered. The chamber of commerce has officially announced that the export trade of Odessa has practically stopped as foreign houses have suspended business with the local merchants because of the dangerous situation in the town. Governor General Kaulbars denies the report that he has been transferred to the governor generalship of Finland.

SURRENDERS

CHARLES H. NOWELL GIVES UP TO POLICE.

SANDFORD, Maine, Nov. 8—Charles H. Nowell, for whom the officers have been searching with a warrant, charging him with the abduction of Iola Reed, aged 15, from West Newfield, returned to his home today from Rochester and gave himself up to Deputy Sheriff Frank Preston. He refused to say where he has been since the girl disappeared October 25. The girl, who returned alone last night, leaving a Boston and Maine train at East Wakefield, N. H., also refuses to enlighten the officers.

RESULT IN DOUBT.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8—Additional returns confirm the overwhelming defeat of the proposed suffrage restriction amendment to the constitution, but leave in doubt the state comptrollership and only complete returns will show whether McCullough, republican, or Atkinson, democrat, has been elected. The legislature is also left in doubt by later returns.

INDEPENDENT WON.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 8—The plurality of Everett Colby, independent republican candidate for state senator from Essex county was 19,817. Colby defeated the republican machine at the primaries.

JOHNSON'S PLURALITY.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 8—Election returns from the city are still incomplete. Johnson, democrat, for mayor will have not less than 11,000 plurality.

KOREAN EMPEROR

Made a Threat to Commit Suicide

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 8—Advices from Korea by the steamer Empress of China today tell of the threat of the Korean emperor to commit suicide by swallowing opium because of his anger at Great Britain's attitude to Korea. The emperor complained of the absence of any reference to the independence of Korea in the Anglo-Japanese treaty and said he would not sanction a Japanese protectorate over Korea. Later he informed a Korean princess he would kill himself by swallowing opium rather than bear the threatened loss of Korean prestige.

BURGLAR GONE

HE JUMPED OUT OF A WINDOW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Diamonds valued at $2000 and $100 in money were stolen from the home of William B. McNiece, a New York lawyer in Arlington avenue, in Caldwell, N. J., early yesterday. Mrs. McNiece was suddenly awakened. She saw a tall man in her room rifling the bureau drawers in which she kept her jewelry. She screamed and awakened her husband but before he could arrive from an adjoining room, the intruder had jumped from a window and escaped.

A search through the house revealed the fact that the burglar had cut a pane of glass in a dining room window and effected an entrance.

The thief, prior to robbing Mrs. McNiece's apartments had entered her husband's room and taken $100 from his clothing. The same burglar, it is supposed, robbed the home of William Rickerich, William McChesney and Charles Eiterich.

GETS DECREE

MRS. THAW TO DEVOTE HER LIFE TO HER SON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—Edward Thaw, a son of the wealthy Pittsburg family, has been divorced by his wife, Frieda Marsh Thaw. The papers in the case were signed by Judge Gildersleeve, and were received by Mrs. Thaw just one week ago.

The divorce is the result of some years of incompatibility. Mrs Thaw, upon being granted the divorce, left the Thaw home, in East Thirty-ninth street, and moved into a magnificent apartment in Euclid Hall, Eighty-fifth street and Broadway.

"Yes, it is true that I have divorced by husband," Mrs. Thaw said to a reporter last night. "My decree was obtained last week on statutory grounds. It was granted by Judge Gildersleeve. My only desire is to live here quietly and to devote my life to my little son, Lawrence. I expect to live a quiet and secluded life.

"I have not see Mr. Thaw for a very long time, and his present whereabouts are unknown to me. I have no idea what his present plans are. We are parted forever."

Mrs. Thaw, surrounded by a retinue of men and maid servants, was busy getting the new home in order.

Before her marriage she was Miss Frieda Marsh. In spite of the care and strain she has suffered recently, she is still a strikingly handsome woman, with auburn gold hair and large brown eyes.

The Pittsburg family, of which Edward Thaw is one of the younger members, has long been prominent in society. The wedding, two and one half years ago, of Miss Alice Cornelia Thaw to the Earl of Yarmouth, obtained much social prominence for the family. Henry Kemball Thaw, who was to have given the bride away, balked at the last minute and the wedding was delayed for three-quarters of an hour. He married Miss Nesbit last April.

The marriage of Miss George Lauder Carnegie, eldest daughter of William Thaw, to George Lauder Carnegie, a nephew of the steel magnate, was beset with great opposition.

ARREST LIKELY

Grand Jury Investigates Todd Case

SEVERAL PERSONS WERE EXAMINED

Latest Developments in the Case

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—An arrest will probably be made today in connection with the mysterious death of Mrs. Margaretta Todd, the aged New York woman whose body was found beside a railroad track in Philadelphia on the night of October 27.

The grand juries of New York and Philadelphia have both taken up the case, and all persons who are familiar with the recent acts of the dead woman will be summoned to appear before the district-attorneys of both cities.

Assistant District-Attorney Nott, representing Mr. Jerome, took up the case yesterday and called several witnesses before him.

One of these witnesses was Superintendent Radcliffe, of the Stephen Merritt Burial Association, who is said to have seen, in the possession of Ingersoll Lockwood, a will made by Mrs. Todd in 1903, a year later than the will which Lockwood has placed on file for probate.

While nothing was given out concerning the testimony given by Mr. Radcliffe, it is understood that he told the assistant district-attorney that he had demanded of Lockwood his authority for asking that the body of Mrs. Todd be cremated, and Lockwood showed him a will which gave the name of Mrs. Frank Tousey as executrix. This will was not filed for probate by Mr. Lockwood, but instead a will was filed dated 1902, and it is pointed out by the heirs that it is a criminal offence to file one will when another will of later date is known to be in existence.

It is said that this step on the part of the district-attorney's office will give the authorities of New York an opportunity to investigate the alleged conspiracy to get Mrs. Todd out of the way so that certain persons might enjoy the benefit of her fortune. It is known that Ingersoll Lockwood claims to have $100,000 in trust for the estate, and Miss Paine, a former maid of the dead woman, asserts that, in her opinion, the estate is worth more than $2,000,000.

Assistant District-Attorney Nott will call other witnesses before him. In the meantime the grand jury of Philadelphia has sent word to those who were intimate with Mrs. Todd in her last days, asking if they will be willing to go to Philadelphia and testify. Many of these witnesses have already signified their willingness to go to Philadelphia to tell all they know about the quarrels over Mrs. Todd's fortune, and it is believed that by the time the two grand juries have finished with their investigations there will be enough evidence to justify the arrest of one or more persons.

Professor Mecket, chief chemist of the coroner's office of Philadelphia, called upon Coroner Scholer, of this city, yesterday and requested that the viscera taken from the body of Mrs. Todd be delivered to the Philadelphia authorities. This was after the district-attorney of Philadelphia had said that his office would bear the expense of making a chemical test of the stomach of the dead woman to ascertain if there had been any poison administered which might have been responsible for her death.

From testimony taken by Assistant District-Attorney Nott yesterday, it appeared that Mrs. Todd had gone to Philadelphia in a most mysterious way. She had not told anyone in the Hotel Von Hoffman, which she owned and in which she lived, that she was going out of the city. On the contrary, she had told her maid, Marie Godard, that she was simply going for a ride. To George W. Amory she had said that she going to the law office of George A. C. Barnett, at No. 119 West Tenth street, to make a new will which she intended to keep a secret.

Just as she was about to leave the house Miss Fanny Knight called, and Amory, told the driver to take Mrs. Todd and Miss Knight to the Christopher street ferry. Amory is thought to have done this as a ruse to keep Miss Knight from learning of the new will but when the cabman drove to the Twenty-third street ferry, Miss Knight says Mrs. Todd took the train for Philadelphia, saying she was going to Bridesburg, a small station on the Pennsylvania railroad, ten miles from Philadelphia.

The body of Mrs. Todd was found that night in Fairmount Park, far away from the railroad line to Bridesburg.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Too poor to support her young daughter and forced to work nights after the death of her husband, a year ago, Mrs. Ferdinand Diehl put the child, who was then six years old, in the home of a relative on the West Side.

Now the family which was taking care of the child has moved without notifying her, taking the child along. The mother, who is working in a restaurant as cook, is eager to find the child, which has inherited $50,000 through the death of her grandmother in Germany.

The mother has notified the police and advertised in the papers, but to no avail.

GIRL PERSECUTED

Brothers Seek to Have Her Released

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—A story of persecution which has lasted for sixteen years is told by the brothers of Miss Delia O'Brien, whose home is at 1211 East Eighty-sixth street. They are now trying, through habeas corpus proceedings to have her released from an insane asylum where she has been since last June.

Miss O'Brien came to this country when she was nineteen, and obtained work in a downtown factory. Her beauty attracted a man who has ever since been the shadow on her life. The brothers say this man is Benjamin Stratton, who had a locker on Mercer street and that he used every wile to lure the girl from her home. Then they say, he resorted to strategy for years without success.

According to Michael O'Brien, the youngest brother, who is heartbroken over the fact that he cannot get his sister out of Manhattan State hospital, where, he asserts, she is ill treated, the man who is the cause of it all has been the evil genius of other girls. O'Brien says that Stratton, under assumed names, many of which he has found out through a detective agency and through Attorney Arthur H. Wills, of No. 41 Court street, Brooklyn, has used his base influence in this and other cities.

Miss O'Brien's mind broke down last June and she was sent to Manhattan State hospital. Recently her brothers, believing she was cured, tried to get her out.

"I have never been able to even see Dr. Dent," said Michael O'Brien last night. "I know that my sister has been ill treated, for her hair has been pulled out and the attendants will not explain. I brought habeas corpus proceedings, but even that failed."

Justice Amend has ordered that the girl be examined by two reputable physicians, and the hospital is ordered to produce her in Special Term, Part II., on Monday.

GUM MACHINES

HAVE BECOME THE PREY OF BOY THIEVES.

A new kind of juvenile thief has appeared around the street corner lately and he is giving the police considerable trouble. He is the youngster who forces open the one-cent slot machine that hangs outside a building, and rifles it, taking money, candy or gum as the case may be. The latest theft occurred at the corner of Moody and Hanover streets, where the thieves got both money and gum. Many of these thefts have been reported in a short time.

The day after election found but few of the politicians about town, most of them having bled themselves to some sequestered spot for a rest. One of the earliest down town was ex-Senator James McKinley, who managed Senator-elect Hilton's campaign. Mr. McKinley was about his business duties as though nothing out of the usual had happened. Col. Carmichael was around at noon smiling as ever and not downcast because of his defeat. Rep.-elect Harry shook hands all the way along Central street from Merrimack to Market when he appeared this noon and John J. McManmon received congratulations in Prescott street where he appeared bright and early.

TWO STRONG MEN

The Career of McClellan and Jerome

FORMER ACTIVE IN CONGRESS

Jerome is a Graduate of Amherst

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. The municipal campaign just ended has been one of the most exciting and fiercely contested in the history of the city. It has been unusual in many of its features. The past careers of McClellan and Jerome and the promises to the people on which they made their fight are as follows:

George B. McClellan, son of the Union leader General McClellan, who was afterward governor of New Jersey. Has had a long and varied public career in New York city, although still a comparatively young man. He was educated for the bar at Princeton, and was graduated there in 1886; his alma mater conferred the degree of LL. D. upon him after his first election to the mayoralty. Mr. McClellan has held the following offices: Treasurer of the Brooklyn bridge, 1899-02; president of the board of aldermen, 1903-04; member of the 54th, 55th, 56th, 57th and 58th congresses for the 12th congressional districts of New York city. His energy and educational qualifications made him a prominent member of congress, and it is generally admitted that he made himself distinctly useful to the country while a congressman. He was a member of the important ways and means committee; also a member of the committee on military affairs and that on library of the house of representatives. Mr. McClellan took a firm position as a sound money democrat in congress.

Mr. McClellan was still a member of congress when in 1903 he was elected mayor of New York. As mayor and as candidate for the office, his professed ambition has always been to give the city a "clean business administration," has not laid claim to the title of reformer, nor has he particularly professed independence of Tammany Hall. Some of his department appointments in his first term were so bad that they would have belied any such professions had he made them; in other departments he has selected some good men, and on the whole his appointments seem to evidence in his mind a struggle and compromise between his innate integrity and what he regards as the practical necessities of his political future. His handling of the police department is a nice illustration of the process. He selected an honest and capable commissioner, but in the appointment of deputy commissioners and in the interference of politics with the relations between the commissioner and the captains, much of the good which the commissioner's personal efforts might have accomplished was lost. The mayor has opposed gambling and other forms of city lawlessness.

With the possible exception of his approval of the Remsen gas bill, most, if not all, of Mayor McClellan's decisions on public questions have met with popular approbation. As partly offsetting his action in that matter, he approved in the spring of the current year a bill resulting from the Stevens committee investigation and fixing the price of gas in the city at 75 cents; has also taken a leading part in establishing the municipal street lighting plant now under construction and vetoed a renewal of the Consolidated Gas Co.'s lighting contract approved by Commissioner Oakley, whom he retained in office. He vetoed a volunteer fireman's bill which had met with general condemnation and vetoed the Elsberg bill taking the franchise-granting power out of the hands of the board of aldermen and placing it with the board of estimate and apportionment, largely because of a visit from attorneys of the Pennsylvania railroad, who, he alleged, tried to secure his signature by threats. He strongly supported the cause of municipal ferries for Staten Island and for Brooklyn at 39th street; his attitude toward municipal ownership in general is that "where individual effort and private enterprise can accomplish the same result as government, government has no right to interfere; where, however, public utilities conducted by private enterprise fail in giving the people an adequate service, then I believe it is the duty of government to control."

WILLIAM TRAVERS JEROME—Re-elected to office on his record as district attorney for his first term, has become one of the best-known figures in the public life of the day, not only in this city or the eastern states, but from a national standpoint as well. It was Jerome who first sounded the keynote of the campaign just closed, which has been unmistakably that of renunciation of party allegiance and freedom from rule of the bosses. Mr. Jerome announced that he would run independently as a candidate for office, regardless of the action of the conventions, and pledged himself not to accept an obligation to any man or set of men. While it would be going too far to say that Mr. Jerome gave the campaign as a whole its character, it is admitted on all sides that the fierceness of his onslaught upon bosses led other candidates to lay much more stress upon their independence of boss rule than they would otherwise have done. Mr. Jerome has made no specific promises as to what he would do if returned to office, other than his general statements that he would continue to conduct his office as during the first term, without fear or favor, and with all possible effort to secure the conviction of evidence of high or low degree. Thus his promises have not been so much at issue as his character as a man and an officer of the law, while he has resisted every effort of his opponents to drive him into one or another of the three mayoralty processions.

Mr. Jerome was educated at Amherst college, and studied for the bar at Columbia University, where he was graduated in 1881. He was elected a justice of the court of special sessions in 1895 and his record on the bench brought his ability and integrity to the notice of the good government forces of the community. In 1901, as candidate for district attorney on the Low fusion ticket, he conducted a "whirlwind" campaign that had much to do with the success of the entire ticket. Both republican and democratic leaders refused to nominate Jerome this year, but the former withdrew its own candidate, Charles A. Flammer, after it was too late to get Jerome's name in the place of Flammer's on the official ballot.

Among the notable convictions which Mr. Jerome has secured are those of the following: Robert Atomon, accomplice of "Big per cent." Miller; Albert Adams, the "policy king," head of a gambling syndicate that preyed chiefly upon the poor; Larry Summerfield and several of his associates, veteran flimflammers of great resource; David Rothschild, who looted the Federal bank, and Samuel Parks, Phil Weinsheimer and others who posed as labor leaders and were convicted of extortion. Mr. Jerome and his assistants practically broke up the East Side traffic in girls by sending a number of "cadets" to the penitentiary. His conduct of his office has repeatedly been indorsed by lawyers of the highest standing for its expeditious and impartial methods.

The charge was made during the campaign by Candidate Osborne that Mr. Jerome's candidacy was backed by the life insurance companies, who felt secure against prosecution for irregularities revealed by the Armstrong investigation if Jerome were re-elected. To the questions why he has not moved against the officials of these companies, Mr. Jerome has replied that the success of the cleaning up has depended upon the completion of the committee's search for evidence before the bringing of criminal charges which would enable witnesses to take refuge behind their constitutional privilege of refusing to answer questions which might tend to incriminate them; he has added that a prosecution begun during or just before the campaign would have been received as a "play to the galleries." Not the least interesting feature of Mr. Jerome's re-election is the fact that grand jury business of the greatest magnitude and highest importance awaits his attention.

GRAND CARNIVAL

Started in Aid of St. John's Church

Grand Street Parade Preceded Opening of Festivities in Town Hall—Mayor Casey in a Runaway Accident

The carnival in aid of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, opened most auspiciously in the town hall of the village, last evening, with over 500 persons present. A grand street parade preceded the exercises in the hall, participated in by the different societies of the town and church. The carnival will continue for three nights and judging from the crowd present and the business done on the opening evening the affair will be the most successful in the history of the parish.

In the parade were the members of St. John's T. A. society and Court Wannalancit, M. C. O. F., Samuel P. Seymour was to have been chief marshal but was unavoidably absent and James F. Leahey officiated in his place. The parade was led by the North Chelmsford band, under the direction of Hubert Hearce.

The route was from St. John's hall in Branch street, to Church street. As the parade came to the parochial residence of St. John's church, it halted for a few minutes. Mayor James B. Casey of Lowell was an invited guest for the opening of the carnival, and he arrived in North Chelmsford during the latter part of the afternoon, and was the guest of Rev. Edmund T. Schofield for supper. There were two barouches in the parade.

In the first rode the mayor, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, Rev. John McNamara and John E. Sherlock, the general manager of the carnival. In the second barouche rode Col. James B. Carmichael of Lowell, Dr. O'Hearn of Lowell, Selectman James P. Dunigan and Frank A. Mallory, chairman of the reception committee. The marshal for the St. John's T. A. society was John E. Harrington, and the marshal for Court Wannalancit was James B. McQuaid.

From the parochial residence the parade passed along to Main street to Princeton street to the town hall. As the barouche containing Mayor Casey the two clergymen, and the general manager stopped in front of the hall door, the horses became frightened at some red fire that was burning close by and they made a dash to run away, but they ran only a few feet when they were stopped, and the only damage done was to the harness of one of the horses, which was broken.

All along the line of the parade, red fire was burned, and gave the village a lively appearance.

Seats on the stage were taken by the clergymen and invited guests and the carnival was formally opened by Selectman James P. Dunigan, who welcomed all in a neat address. He also took occasion to thank his fellow-townsmen for the handsome vote given him in Chelmsford. Brief remarks were then made by Rev. Fr. Schofield, Rev. Fr. McNamara, Mayor Casey and Col. Carmichael. The guests were then entertained at the refreshment table after which the following concert program was enjoyed:

James E. Donnelly, song; William F. Thornton, reading; John Drury, song; Miss Marie O'Donnell, violin solo; Miss Blanche Kelly, song; Miss Veronica Lowe, reading; Miss Lizzie Honan, song; Frank Dolan, cornet solo.

The visitors from Lowell then visited all the tables and were very liberal in their patronage.

The interior of the hall was very handsomely decorated for the occasion. Large streamers of red, white and blue bunting were strung from the cluster of electric lights in the centre of the hall, to the side walls. The stage decorations were red, white and blue in the back part, while in the front of the stage were red, white and blue, together with green and white bunting.

The first table on the left of the entrance was the candy table, which did a fine business. The next table to attract one's attention was the St. John's Total Abstinence Society's table, which looked beautiful. Next to the temperance table was the Young Ladies' Sodality table, which also presented a striking appearance. Besides the sodality table was the fishing pond.

On the right side, near the stage, was the parish table, and it looked very pretty. Next to the parish table was the table of Court Wannalancit. One of the side features was the Japanese ping pong table, and the other side feature was the novelty table.

Those in charge of the affair were: Chairman of general committee, John E. Harrington; secretary, James F. Leahey; treasurer, William H. Quigley; general manager, John E. Sherlock; assistant general managers, Stephen T. Ward and Mrs. William J. Quigley.

Soliciting committee: Samuel P. Seymour, Frank A. Mallorey, John E. Harrington, Stephen T. Ward, J. Henry McCoy, James P. Dunigan, Mrs. Nellie Remmes, Miss Kitty Knight, Miss Josie Remmes, Miss Rosanna McManomin, Miss Josie E. McCabe.

BOGUS "LORD"

SAID TO HAVE BEEN MARRIED TO SEVERAL WOMEN.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 9—Whether the charming "Lord Birtie Cavendish," who, after a two days' courtship, convinced Miss Gladys Simmons of this place that he loved her, and after a ceremony took her away into Central Mexico, since which she has not been heard from, is the notorious "Lord Douglas," known to have victimized at least five women into marriage, all of whom are living, is what the detective bureau and the young woman's friends are trying to decide.

Lord Birtie, who later told of his name being Cavendish, of gold mines in Mexico and of diamond mines in South Africa, of fighting on the Boer side in the war, and of being prevented from inheriting an English estate, registered at a local hotel and in just 48 hours led Miss Simmons to the altar.

With her entire possessions, amounting to several hundred dollars, they started, ostensibly to visit the "lord's" mines in Mexico, but they have not been heard from since.

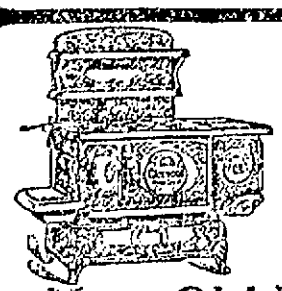

A Scotland Yard picture looks suspiciously like Lord Cavendish and Scotland Yard detectives have sent word that it is a photo of a bogus lord who is frequently known as "Douglas."

The girl's friends fear for her safety, as it is quite certain that they crossed the border into Mexico, and it is feared she may have been deserted and robbed of her money.

HAD BEEN MISSING FOR FOUR MONTHS.

NEWTON, Nov. 9—After having been missing from his home at 402 Langley road, Newton Centre, since June 25, Dennis Keating, a gardener employed by Richard M. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill, has returned to this city to his family, who feared that he had met foul play.

Aided by the police of this city and Boston members of the family scoured the large cities and hospitals in the state, hoping to find some trace of it's whereabouts, but to no avail.

Last week, however, Keating's son received a letter from his father stating that he was in a hospital at Bridgeport, Conn., and desired to come home. He closed by asking his family to forgive his extended absence.

The son immediately went to Bridgeport and returned bringing the elder Keating with him. The family were not inclined to talk about the cause of the man's disappearance. How he reached Bridgeport or why he went to that city is not known.

8000 Ballot Boxes Taken to Election Headquarters

Hearst Men Presented Order of Judge Gaynor—The Police Immediately Produced the Ballot Boxes and Confusion Followed—Wild Reports Conciliated by the Hearst Men

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Aided by an array of legal talent in which are lawyers of great prominence not only as masters of their profession, but also as leaders in more than one movement for good government in this city, Wm. R. Hearst has begun his fight in the courts for the mayoralty, which he believes he won on Tuesday, and his first step has created a situation apparently without precedent. Last night he obtained an order from Justice Gaynor of the supreme court directing the police to turn over all ballot boxes to the board of elections at once. The police obeyed the order as far as they could, but when they proceeded in the after-midnight hours to the election board's office there was none there to take charge of the boxes and the policemen had to remain in the street for hours guarding the repositories of the people's vote. Later, John R. Voorhis, president of the board, declined to accept responsibility in them after pending advice from the corporation counsel. Mr. Voorhis is a democrat, and when his decision was made known the Hearst men turned to Charles W. Page, a republican member of the board, but he also declined to act and then the police were left in the strange position of trying to carry out the court's orders, but unable to do so. The street in the vicinity of the election board offices presented a strange sight as hundreds of policemen stood on guard around the patrol wagons and other vehicles in which the boxes had been conveyed from the precinct station houses.

Mr. Hearst's order was obtained from Justice Gaynor after the circulation of a story that a printing firm had been turning out large numbers of fac-simile of the official ballot and that these were to be marked for McClellan and placed in the ballot boxes in place of Hearst ballots to be removed. The moment this rumor reached the Hearst headquarters it was decided that the ballots ought not to remain longer in the station houses and the application to Justice Gaynor was made as quickly as the papers could be drawn up. Among the attorneys aiding Hearst is Wm. M. Ivins, the republican candidate for mayor in Tuesday's election. Mr. Ivins volunteered his services to Mr. Hearst and the offer was accepted. Another attorney acting for Hearst is John F. Dillon who was at one time judge of the supreme court of Iowa.

COURT'S ORDER

WAS OBEYED BY THE NEW YORK POLICE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Sensational developments followed rapidly this morning in the fight of Wm. R. Hearst to contest the mayoralty election of George B. McClellan. Having secured last night an order from Justice Gaynor in Brooklyn, directing the police department to deliver the ballot boxes to the board of elections forthwith, the Hearst men lost no time in despatching fifty automobiles carrying men armed with the court's order to the various police stations where they demanded the ballot boxes. In most instances the officers in charge at police stations directed that the boxes be placed in patrol wagons and each lot guarded by five policemen hurried to the office of the board of elections at 107 West Forty-first street. Meantime other Hearst men had gone to the home of John R. Voorhis, president of the board of elections, at 756 Greenwich street, arousing him, asked him to immediately go to his office and receive the ballot boxes as fast they reached his office. President Voorhis was surprised at the peremptory demand and was quickly informed of the court's order. Later he appeared at a window and addressing the Hearst men, who fairly surrounded the house, said that he would not go to the office of the bureau of elections at such an unreasonable hour, but that he would appear at his office and open the same at 9 o'clock, the usual hour today. At 8 o'clock, this morning, wagons and automobiles filled with ballot boxes, police officers and Hearst watchers began to arrive at the office of the board of elections and an hour later, West Forty-first street in that vicinity, was fairly impassable. Unable to get rid of their charges there was nothing for the police to do but to await the opening of the office and as every twelve or fourteen boxes were guarded by five policemen, a most impressive array of officers were soon in evidence. As the morning advanced the balance of the 8000 boxes continued to arrive and Hearst watchers as numerous as the police helped to swell the crowd which was further added to as the report spread that some startling political move had been made necessitating a great body of officers at the office of the board of elections.

When they failed to secure the presence of President Voorhis, Hearst men called upon A. C. Allen, chief clerk of the board at his home on 80th street. Mr. Allen could do nothing for them and expressed the opinion that the court order had resulted from a misunderstanding. He said that a literal compliance with the order would be impossible as the 8000 ballot boxes used in Greater New York could not by any means be gotten into the room occupied by the board. His understanding of the law, he said, was that the boxes should remain in the possession of the police for six months following an election. He could give no advice as to the immediate disposition of the fast accumulating boxes and thought that there was nothing to do but to await the opening of the board's office and let President Voorhis decide what to do with the 8000 ballot boxes.

It was said this morning that the sudden move made by Mr. Hearst last night followed a report received by him that a printing company had been at work Tuesday night printing ballots. The report was further to the effect that the ballot boxes were to be opened while in the hands of the police and stuffed. Mr. Hearst decided to act at once.

The order secured from Judge Gaynor directed the police commissioner and all his subordinates in the five boroughs to turn over to the board of elections forthwith all ballot boxes containing ballots and stubs of ballots, and also to file with the county clerk before noon today all envelopes containing tally sheets, inspectors' returns, defective ballots and ballots marked for identification.

The order was issued on the affidavit of Mr. Hearst himself. The affidavit states Mr. Hearst's belief that he received a plurality of the votes, but that according to the returns, 3000 more votes than he himself received were counted for Mr. McClellan.

Captain Cruise, in charge of police headquarters, read the order to Commissioner McAdoo, over the telephone. The commissioner's reply was an order to the captain directing him to read the Gaynor order over the telephone to the captains. Mr. Hearst and Max Ihmsen left the Hoffman house for their homes as soon as the last of the men had left for the police stations. The headquarters were then closed.

Mr. Voorhis is a democrat and president of the board of elections. After he had declined to leave his home and go to the board's offices to accept custody of the ballot boxes, an appeal was made to Charles W. Page, a republican member, but he too, was unwilling to take custody of the boxes. Mr. Voorhis told the representatives of Mr. Hearst who called at his home that he construed the order of Justice Gaynor to mean that in directing the delivery of the boxes by noon today, opportunity was left to the Tammany forces up to that hour to seek to obtain an order to show cause why the boxes should not be delivered.

When the drivers and policemen guarding the wagons found that the unwillingness of President Voorhis to open the office meant a long wait out in the cold for them, they were angry, but they made the best of it. Col. Alexander S. Bacon, one of Mr. Hearst's lawyers, who played a prominent part in the doings of the night made a plan for the police to get breakfast in a nearby restaurant. Police Captain Becker of Brooklyn who came over with the load of ballot boxes from his station, to make sure that they were cared for and who was the senior police officer, present, assumed charge of the situation, and did what he could to bring order out of the confusion caused by the unusual situation.

John R. Voorhis, president of the board of elections, refused early today to receive the official ballot-boxes. Before refusing he consulted Police Commissioner McAdoo, Atty.-General Mayer, corporation counsel Delaney and Supt. of Elections Morgan were notified of the situation and the boxes were kept in the police-wagons in front of the office of the board of elections, pending a decision by the corporation counsel.

Mr. Voorhis said, that the New York state supreme court had held in a recent decision that the board of elections is not the proper custodian of the boxes but that the police are.

When Mr. Voorhis refused to accept the ballot boxes he ordered that they be returned to the police station houses. At that time twenty-five police wagons were lined up in front of the office of the board of elections and policemen were unloading some of them. When they learned of the order of Mr. Voorhis they placed the boxes in the wagons again but did not at once return them to the police stations.

Mr. Voorhis said he had asked the corporation counsel for an opinion as to whether he should receive the boxes and would not accept them until he had received that opinion.

President Voorhis said that even if the legal decision should be that his board must receive the ballot boxes, he would have them sent under police guard to some strong place other than his office, which was too small for the purpose.

In Brooklyn also, the ballot boxes were not accepted by the board of elections. Here however: the board permitted the police to carry the boxes into its rooms in the Temple Bar building. The police had to guard the ballots because the clerks of the election board were instructed by election commissioner Michael Dady not to give any receipt for the boxes. By six o'clock this morning all the ballot boxes were in the offices under guard and Mr. Dady had gone to New York to confer with Confmissioner Voorhis upon the situation.

It was reported that many of the ballot boxes in Brooklyn were not properly sealed and that their covers were merely pasted down, making it possible for any person to open the box and close it again without detection. The law requires that the boxes be closed with sealing wax.

Shortly before noon extra police to keep order in the vicnity of the ballot boxes in Manhattan were called. For three blocks near 41st street, Sixth avenue was lined with ballot box wagons and extra lines were forming east and west of 41st street.

TWO NIGHTS' FAIR

Opened at Y. M. C. A. Last Evening

IN AID OF THE BUILDING FUND

Woman's Auxiliary is in Charge

The two nights' fair in aid of the new building fund, under the direction of the Women's auxiliary of the local Y. M. C. A. was opened in the association building last evening and was a tremendous success. Over 1000 tickets have been sold for the affair, which extends over this evening and hundreds were in attendance last evening, including a most fashionable gathering. The ladies had worked untiringly to carry out elaborate plans and they met with complete success. The hall and adjoining rooms in which the festivities were held were picturesquely decorated, while the many young women in charge of the different features and booths were charmingly gowned.

The fun opened with supper which was served from 6 o'clock until 8 and several hundred partook of the bountiful menu provided. Mrs. Burton A. Kinney was mistress of ceremonies and she was ably assisted by Mrs. J. H. Blake.

The wants of the patrons of the dining hall were attended to in faultless manner by the following named young ladies who served as waitresses: Misses Alice J. Fleming, Jessie McAdams, Jennie M. Walker, Jessie Fraser, Mary R. Campbell, Bertha E. Walker, Anna E. Irving, May Irving, Lena Danforth, Mattie Harris, Ina Jamieson, Blanche Fleming and Faith Doty.

The sale was on from 7 o'clock until 10 and during the evening French's orchestra furnished an agreeable concert program. Perhaps the most popular table last evening was the Japanese pagoda in the centre of the hall, and in charge of Miss Grace Hatch and a charming corps of young ladies. This table had many innovations in the way of novelties, but the best attraction was the Chinese laundry, where a miniature "Chink" manipulated by the nimble fingers of Miss Hatch, was the inducement for one to spend money. The Chinaman's proposition was something similar to the fish pond and grab bag ideas and so great was his business that he sold out long before closing up time arrived.

The fancy table, in charge of Mrs. C. E. Meader, was well patronized, and Mrs. Henry Fuller's flower table was a financial success. The apron table was in charge of Mrs. N. W. Peabody. Mrs. Eugene F. Ferrin had charge of the souvenir table, and Mrs. W. E. Morse of the candy table. These ladies were ably assisted by a large corps of ladies.

The fair continues this afternoon and evening. Special arrangements have been made by the management for the entertainment of children this afternoon. An entertainment of interest to the little folks will be given, and ice cream and other goodies will be available. This evening supper will be served again, followed by the sale and a concert.

HEROE'S ACT

TWO SEAMEN COMMENDED BY SECRETARY BONAPARTE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Secretary Bonaparte has written letters to two enlisted men on the battleship Ohio, commending them for their heroic conduct in rescuing a fellow bluejacket from drowning. While the Ohio was off Taku, China, recently, J. Clegg and A. I. Froman, ordinary seamen, were thrown into the water by the breaking of a staging rope. Froman attempted to rescue Clegg, but the latter seized him around the neck. Frederick W. Klaus, another sailor, jumped overboard and saved Clegg, Froman saving himself. The bravey of Froman and Klaus has been personally recognized by the secretary.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

To say that the popular comedy, "When We Were Twenty-One," which is being played this week at the Academy of Music by the members of the Huntington-DeDeyn Stock Company, is good, is putting it in a very light manner and does not do justice to either the author or the members of the company now playing the piece. The piece as well as the rendition is excellent and the pen cannot bring forth the good qualities of the piece or the manner in which it is played. The only way to appreciate the production is to witness one of the performances.

To those who are unfamiliar with Nat Goodwin's great success, it might be well to mention the plot of the play—that is, if it might be called a plot. A young man, called The Imp, is left to the care of a Richard Carew, who undertakes to guide the young man along the right path, but naturally he strays away and though engaged to a young lady of excellent character, marries a burlesque queen. Carew and his friends do their best to prevent the marriage, but arrive too late. The actress upon finding that the Imp hasn't any money casts him aside for a former lover.

Phyllis, whom the Imp was to marry, prefers Carew with the result that a marriage takes place and matters are straightened out to the satisfaction of everybody. For the benefit of the hundreds of patrons who were disappointed at not receiving tickets last week owing to the large houses, it might be well to advise them to make an early application at the box office, or have their names placed on the subscription list.

PRINTERS' MASS MEETING.

HE OWES $85,800

Coachman Has Gone Into Bankruptcy

BOSTON, Nov. 9 There are few families that can have a coachman able to go into bankruptcy with liabilities to the tune of $85,814.81, as John J. Merrigan, coachman to Mrs. Louisa A. Kohl of 62 Marion street, Brookline, has just done.

There is a certain amount of mystery about the affair that those who could seem indisposed to explain, but according to Mr. Merrigan himself, in an interview with a reporter, he has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the U. S. district court, admitting that he has assets to the extent of only $200, and these in the form of household furniture, which, being exempt, he professes to be unable to pay the $30 fee for filing the petition.

Mr. Merrigan was for many years coachman for the late John A. Kohl, vice-president of the Houghton brewing company of Roxbury, and he still fills that useful and responsible position for Mrs. Kohl, who lives in a costly and beautiful house in Brookline, not far from the village.

Of Mr. Merrigan's total liabilities $75,600 is secured, $3606 unsecured and $608 is for taxes. The unsecured claims are for small amounts, for merchandise, repairs and money loaned. The largest secured creditors are Mrs. Louisa Kohl and her daughter, executors under the will of the deceased brewer, who had some sort of financial dealings with his coachman that is said to have led up to the present situation.

The claim just referred to is for $26,000 and is secured by mortgages on property on Aspinwall avenue and Harvard street Brookline, some of which mortgages have become overdue and have been foreclosed.

Other secured creditors are H. M. Spitze of Brookline, $24,000; the Boston Penny savings bank, $4700; D. W. Chevers, 70 Court street, Boston, $7500; all secured by mortgages on the property above referred to.

That there is apparently the best of feeling existing between the coachman and the principal creditors appears in the fact that he is at his duties about the Kohl place every day.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Central Congregational church of Chelmsford opened its annual fair in the vestry last evening under circumstances most auspicious.

From 6 to 8 an excellent supper was served and at 8 o'clock an entertainment was given by the Oxford quartet, consisting of Miss Kimball, mandolin, Miss Wotton, piano, Miss Herrig, violin, Miss Raynes, mandolin, gave a concert from the platform in the vestry, that was very much enjoyed.

The sale will continue this evening, the entertainment provided being a three-act comedy, "The Man in the Case." From 6 to 8 an excellent oyster supper will be served. The different tables with those in charge were:

FOR THE GOOD OF LOWELL

WHAT IS MOST NEEDED

In order to make our city prosperous we want a greater diversity of industries; we want industries that pay higher wages than do the cotton mills; and to induce such industries to locate here, we should offer the most liberal terms in regard to sites, buildings and railroad facilities.

Too long has the prosperity of our city been linked with that of the cotton mills. Now that we are a city of about 100,000 inhabitants with unrivalled facilities and resources for manufacturing industries of every description, we should bend our efforts to the establishment of new lines of industry so that a depression or a temporary shutdown of the cotton mills may not be regarded in the nature of a calamity.

In regard to new industries let it be remembered that enterprise and public spirit are needed on the part of our own citizens. If we cannot induce a sufficient number of new industries to come here, let us establish new industries for ourselves. Do not mind if the beginnings be small; some of the best industries in Lowell today arose from small beginnings.

In spite of having re-elected McClellan mayor of New York, Tammany was hit hard in Tuesday's election, having let the board of aldermen pass into republican control. Besides it lost a large number of state assemblymen while the election of Jerome is a guarantee that for Tammany there are lively times ahead.

John B. Moran's victory over Sughrue for district-attorney of Suffolk county was one of the surprises of the Boston election. Sughrue was endorsed by both parties and was regarded as a most able and popular man, but his opponent came out as a second Jerome, promising to stop bribery, corruption and vice and to drive out the murderous malpractice dens that infest the city. With the indignation caused by the Geary case the game worked like a charm and so it is that John B. Moran will be district attorney for the next two years.

THE OVERSEERS AND THEIR SUCCESSORS.

For better or for worse the overseers of the poor and every official and employe of the pauper department, are elected to go out of office on the fifteenth day of next January.

It is not always easy to foretell just how any new act will work in practice; but here is the guarantee that the new method of conducting the business of the pauper department will not be a failure—to wit, that the public is aroused upon the question and determined to see that the poor of the city shall be properly looked after without such extravagance as has been shown in the management of the pauper department for many years past.

The expense of the farm itself, and the unreasonably large amount expended for outdoor relief would suffice to condemn the institution in the estimation of every honest citizen; but the wrangling among the overseers, the exhibitions of asinine folly and the continuous dickering and trading over the offices, so disgusted the people at large that they longed for the opportunity to wipe the entire board out of existence.

That they did with a whoop, as it were, and so we move forward to new conditions. At present the cost per capita of the inmates is the largest in the state and the new board while providing necessary relief for the poor will be expected to reduce expenses, to cut off all unnecessary grafts and run the department upon an economical basis.

That the five members of the board are to be appointed for from one to five years need not worry anybody as they are all removable at the pleasure of the mayor and the mayor, whoever he may be, will find it mighty uncomfortable if he permits any abuse to lift its head in the department.

The full term will be reserved only for the member of the new board who does his full duty. To use the place for the purposes of graft would be a proper cause for removal by the mayor.

The public will look to the mayor alone for results as he has absolute control of the new board to be known as the board of charities.

It is the first time in which such an important department shall have been placed in charge of a body subject entirely to the pleasure of the mayor. The experiment will be watched with interest. The principle is new to Lowell, and we contend that it is necessary to place such authority in the hands of the mayor as agent of the people so that they can tell where the responsibility rests. With the board just abolished, the body was responsible only to the people and though they betrayed the people's interests there was no remedy. The new method will place the responsibility on the mayor's shoulders, and if he abuses it; if he uses the power thus vested in him for selfish or political purposes, his tenure of office will be brief and he will go down on the first opportunity in ignominious defeat. The people do not want this department to be the football of politics and they will not have it such. It is just to prevent such condition that the old board was abolished. The new board so far from taking power away from the people brings the power more close to the people by placing it entirely and absolutely in control of the mayor, their chief executive and agent, and if they cannot trust him is there anybody who can be trusted?

As to the character of the new board, the members should be above suspicion—men and women of probity, tolerance and humanity. They should be possessed of that spirit of christian charity which revolts at the idea of leaving the deserving poor to suffer while a lot of official red tape is being evolved. The members in order to carry out the wishes of the public in regard to economy and the proper care of the poor, should possess sufficient business capacity to ensure the successful performance of the work. We believe that the board should have at least two women and that it should have no clergymen for the reason that if one denomination were represented on the board, the others would claim an equal privilege. We believe also that public sentiment is opposed to the employment of any of the present or past executive officials of the department as to the appointment on the board of any former overseer. The public demands an entirely new administration and this we believe is necessary to the successful application of the new law.

SEEN AND HEARD

The excitement over the state election has almost subsided at the present time and now every one turns his thoughts to the city election.

The six days' race will be on in another month and while Lowell has been represented in the great international race for the past three years it looks as though we would be out of the running this year owing to the fact that Spickerville will be the home of Pat Keegan during the race.

What is more annoying than to go to a theatre and sit in front of a person who has seen the performance before and who keeps telling in advance what is going to happen?

"Murder! Murder! Help! Police!" were the cries which startled the writer as he passed through Hildreth street the other evening. With an incentive for news the reporter rushed up the street in the direction whence the dire shrieks emanated, expecting to find two or more people in a deadly struggle with the result that there would be a good story for the following day, but investigation proved that it was nothing more or less than a family quarrel. It is needless to say that drink was the cause.

The Manchester Union thus describes the cosmopolitan character of New York:

It has often been asserted of London that it contains more Irish than Dublin, and the idea has been expanded and applied to New York, which is declared to have more Germans than Dresden, more Italians than Naples, more Scandinavians than Stockholm, "and there as many Jews as can be found in any other city on earth." Five-sixths of the voters are foreign born or the sons of the foreign born. During the campaign, political speeches have been delivered in nineteen different languages and fifteen distinct dialects.

HOW TO SUCCEED

Practical Hints for the Ambitious

The assistant manager, after an investigation, recommended that the new department be installed at once, but in his report he ventured the opinion that it would be no easy matter to find a suitable man for the executive position.

The company employed more than 50 well-paid men in their administrative work, and many of these had been with the company five, ten or fifteen years. Did the assistant manager look among these for a David to tackle the new giant in their work? I do not know, but the incident made an impression on me, writes S. Roland Hall in the Business Man's Magazine.

In these days we hear much about the way promotion is earned, of how big concerns are always ready to give responsibility to the man who has manifested ability to shoulder it. It is logical reasoning, but does it always prove true in practice? Is it not a common sight nowadays when a big company desires to expand to see the managers mount the ramparts and with powerful telescopes search the horizon until a new man is found not a whit better fitted for the proposed work than one or more already within their own walls—often not nearly so well qualified? But he is secured at a large salary, creating jealousy and dissatisfaction among old employes longing for a chance to show what they can do in a larger sphere.

HONOR IN BUSINESS.

"A little incident came under my observation a few years ago," said a well-known insurance man the other day, "which illustrates the qualities of character necessary for success in business. At the time of which I speak, the Hon. William T. Cobb, now governor of Maine, was at the head of the Cobb Lime Co. in the city of Rockland. The company had a fire in a lime kiln or trestle connected with its business, and a claim was made against the insurance company carrying the risk for the loss. The adjusters of the companies met Mr. Cobb, went over the matter and figured it up as best they could but owing to the nature of the property it was difficult to estimate the damage closely, but an adjustment entirely satisfactory to both sides was arrived at. The adjusters went away assuming that this would be the end of the matter. Mr. Cobb went about the work of repairing the burned property. When the repairs had been completed he found it did not cost so much as he and the insurance men had estimated by, as I recall, more than a thousand dollars. Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Cobb and his family were the largest owners in the burned property, he did what I have never, in an experience of thirty years in the insurance business, heard of being done before. He voluntarily wrote each company and returned them a check for the unused balance, saying in the very brief letter accompanying the checks that he was only entitled to money enough to cover the actual damage. It was a most unusual surprise to the insurance companies."

BUSINESS SUCCESS.

"A fortune cannot be built up around any fixed idea, or, in other words, without the exercise of plain common sense. I buy when things are low and no one wants them. I keep them, just as I keep a considerable number of diamonds on hand, until they go up and people are anxious to buy. That is the general secret of business success."—Mrs. Hetty Green.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Who is the best football player in the country? One way at which to arrive at an opinion on this subject is to consider which man plays his position best; another, to consider which combines to the most extent football brains with the necessary physical qualifications; still another, to deal with the question from the standpoint of the greatest all around ability. And the question of the player's value as a unit in team work cannot be overlooked. Football brains, or instinct, or whatever one is a mind to call it, the knack of being able to cope with emergencies on the field and if necessary assert individuality and get away from the requirements of a cut and dried policy, are mental qualifications without which no footballist could ever be considered in the best class. One difficulty in arriving at a conclusion is that much of the very best work in football is done in the line where it does not come under general observation, as does the work of the backs, who sometimes get all the glory when the forwards do all the work.

Shevlin, the Yale end and captain, comes pretty near being the best football player in the East. Blessed with a physique that makes him not only very strong but very fast, he is also a player who uses his head to good purpose. He has shown ability as a leader, and while sensible enough to follow out the policy of the coaches and advisers, has just the right amount of self dependence to make whatever departures are necessary to deal with situations that cannot possibly be foreseen. In short, he has football instinct, is not so well pleased with himself as not to abide by the advice of older and wiser heads, but yet has enough assertiveness to handle situations when they are up to him. Defensively and offensively he is the best end in the country and by his individual ability is conspicuous in every game. He knows when to take a chance and when to cling religiously to orthodox tactics. He is one of eleven or an individual as the occasion requires. In addition to all this he comes as near being an all around player as any football player. He has played tackle and full back with success and is heavy enough to play guard or centre in a pinch. Then again, his all around ability in his position is equalled by few contemporaries. Whether carrying the ball, breaking up plays, tackling or getting down under kicks he does them all well.

Hurley, the Harvard halfback and captain; Cooney, the Princeton tackle and captain; Stevenson, the Pennsylvania quarterback, and Eckersall, the Chicago quarterback, are other players whose work makes them worthy of consideration. Hurley knows the game from A to Z, plays the halfback position in first class style, is thoroughly game and makes as much out of his position as any player in the country. Cooney, like all of the other men mentioned, is greatly in evidence in games, and that because his high grade play warrants it. He is a fighter, like all of the others, and a man whose natural attainments on the checkerboard made him an inspiration for others to do their best. He may not be as good an all around man as some, but his spirit and his proficiency as a tackle put him in the first rank of players.

Stevenson is a great player in his position. His generalship, betokening instinctive knowledge of the game, and his individual prowess, making him at all times dangerous to the other side, and his ability to get work out of his players put him in the top notch class; but he is overscrappy and needs to acquire better control of his feelings before he can be classed as the best. Eckersall, while a small man, is as good a quarterback, as football ever produced, if not the best. He is a wonderful kicker, swift runner, fine dodger, good general, sure tackler. To call him great is not laying it on too thick. He is an important factor at all times, as much so as any other one man in football, despite his comparative small size, and it is close between him and Shevlin as to which is the best player in the country.

FOR CONGRESS

Gov. Douglass May be a Candidate

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Gov. Douglas was at the state house early yesterday morning and the business of the day proceeded as if there had been no cruel war of ballots.

Today his excellency leaves for a week's absence. During that week of absence he will go to Washington with the members of the executive committee of the national association of boot and shoe manufacturers and he will plead before the chief executive of the nation for the removal of the duty on hides and sole leather.

That the governor is impressed with the vote of Tuesday cannot be doubted. No matter what the recount on lieutenant governor, if there is, may show, his excellency still believes that the citizens of the state are unmistakably in favor of the sort of tariff revision which he has advocated publicly for over a year.

Not only that, but it is stated that his excellency will enter on a systematic and strenuous campaign in this matter. It will begin with his visit to the president next week.

It will be continued without cessation and the fight will be made all along the line next year at the congressional elections.

It is also predicted by the friends of Gov. Douglas that his excellency himself will be a candidate for congress, and some of these friends do not think it a bit too early to make known the fact.

The governor has received numerous letters from different parts of the country asking him if any steps have been taken toward organization for reciprocity and tariff reform. And these letters are not from near home.

DENS OF MURDER

Officials Intend to Wipe Them Out

CONCERTED ACTION TO BE TAKEN

By Federal, State and City Officials

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Judge Emmons, representing the Board of Police, combined with Deputy Chief Neal of the state police, Postoffice Inspector W. H. Snow and Dr. Edwin B. Harvey of the State Board of Registration in Medicine, began at noontime today a war on "medical offices" in Boston where, it is declared, at least six girls a week are sent to their doom.

Today's war, growing out of the "suit case" crime, where Susan Geary was killed and cut up, will be waged relentlessly until malpractitioners' establishments cease to exist in Boston. Deputy Neal declares that none exists in near-by cities.

Deputy Neal declares that it is very difficult for the police to secure evidence against the proprietors sufficient to put them behind prison bars, but believes that something can be done to force the closing of many establishments.

Judge Emmons said yesterday that a thorough investigation will be made, and hopes that something will be accomplished.

Postoffice Inspector Snow says that he will keep right after these offices, and prophesies that the "malpractitioner will be exterminated."

He has a complete list of all offices in Boston, and will submit unlimited information to the police regarding the names of the owners, the proprietors and consulting physicians.

Valuable assistance is expected from the newly-elected district-attorney, John B. Moran, who about a week ago vowed that if he were elected he would close malpractitioners' offices.

Speaking of the proposed war, Inspector Snow said yesterday: "The federal government, the state police and the local police, all combined, can drive malpractitioners out of business in this city. We hold a conference tomorrow in Judge Emmons' office. We shall proceed with an avowed determination to rid this city of these murder dens.

"In one Tremont street office we learned that 83 cases were treated in one week. This represents a conservative average.

"Deaths occur by wholesale in these places. The case of the Geary girl was no exception.

"Moreover, unfortunate girls are swindled in these places.

"One patient paid $1600 in one week for treatment.

"It is hard to get evidence, but not impossible.

"One establishment readily furnishes damaging information against another. I have already cut off a certain branch of the advertising business which lures girls into the net from little New England towns. The business of many of those dens has already been crippled. What we have done will save country girls from death and ruin.

"These places are hard to fight. The proprietors secure the ablest lawyers for defence, but much can be done. They have even lobbied at Washington. The 'Dr. Jane Bishop office' netted $100,000 a year.

"Others are far less powerful, and when the proprietors are arrested they do not generally put up a hard fight, as many of the malpractitioners have criminal records.

"The test comes in securing incriminating evidence.

"One way we can cripple Boston's 30 dens is to terrify the 'reputable' physicians who act as consultants, and others who receive patients who are destined to die. By sending fatal cases to these physicians the dens have been guarding themselves against the police."

Deputy Chief Neal says: "Many of these dens thrive in Boston. We know where they are. I am willing to cooperate with the local police."

WILL BE THOROUGH.

Judge Emmons said: "It is hardly possible to tell what we shall accomplish; but investigation begins today, and it will be thorough."

Dr. Harvey's part will be to furnish data regarding registered physicians in Boston and in near-by places.

Sample bottles of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, are being distributed here from house to house. If by chance you have not received one write Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who will gladly send you by mail a sample bottle absolutely free.

GOLD ORE FOUND

Was Dug Up in the Green Mountains

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 9.—What is believed to be a vein of rich gold ore has been discovered in the Green Mountains near this place by Aldos Vondette of West Rutland—an old and experienced quarryman and prospector, who yesterday brought in several pieces of quartz containing heavy deposits of virgin ore.

Vondette, who has been in the mountains for some time, guards his secret carefully, but he showed the specimens to several business men here yesterday and declared he has uncovered a vein of gold containing untold wealth.

The news circulated rapidly last night and has caused considerable excitement in this city. It is probable that several parties will be organized this week to make a search of the mountains.

CALL SPECIMENS GENUINE.

Those who examined the specimens pronounce them genuine and of great value.

Vondette has been a prospector for years and has made a reputation in this line among quarrymen in this vicinity. The truth of his story is not doubted by those who know him best.

Vondette is enthusiastic over his find and makes no effort to conceal his jubilation. "I will yet become a rich man," he said yesterday.

Gold in small quantities has been discovered in the Green Mountains at several points during the past few years, but no one as yet has cared to try the experiment of installing machinery and sinking a shaft.

PRETTY GIRL

OFFERS TO SELL HER BODY FOR $25.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 9.—A pretty girl of 18 or thereabouts, neatly dressed, having the appearance of a girl reared in comparative comfort, and who said she is Rose Rau of West Liberty street, tried to sell her body yesterday to the doctors at the city hospital.

"You see, I need the money so much, and I don't care what they do with my body after death, and I have heard that you pay $25 for bodies, so I wanted to sell mine," she explained.

Investigation showed she had tried to get work, had failed and could not bear to live at home in idleness and be supported by her father, who has a number of children to support.

LOSES HANDS.

MAN WAS PLAYING WITH A GUN.

GLOUCESTER, Nov. 9.—Benjamin Lynn, 19, of West Gloucester, lost two fingers of his left hand and one of his right hand, and had both hands terribly lacerated yesterday, while gunning on the Essex river. Lynn placed his hands over the muzzle of the loader gun when the charge exploded. A companion rowed him to Essex, where he was attended by Dr. Towne, and later came to this city, where the fingers were amputated at the Emergency hospital. Both hands are so badly lacerated that the doctors doubt whether they can be saved.

FOR GRAND OPERA

Superb Theatre Will be Erected

IT WILL COST ABOUT $2,000,000

Wealthy New Yorkers Subscribe to Fund

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—With a subscription in all of $[illegible],000 from the city's wealthy New Yorkers, prominent in finance, patrons of art and staunch supporters of grand opera at the Metropolitan; with the presence of the entire block front from Sixty-second to Sixty-third street, facing Central Park west; with plans ordered for a superb theatre to cost $2,000,000 containing an immense foyer, enriched with treasures making it the greatest art gallery of New York, with the exception of the Metropolitan Museum of art; with a committee of women, who are leaders in New York society and who are to decide who shall be accorded boxes in this artistic and social rival to the "Golden Horseshoe" of the Metropolitan; with these and other details quietly arranged, America's national theatre, long dreamed of, has been founded in New York, with Heinrich Conried at its head.

The plans, aims and general details of the establishment of a theatre to do for the drama in this country what the theatre Francais has accomplished for France, or the Burg theatre for Germany, were explained yesterday by a well-known financier whose patronage of artistic efforts in America has caused his name to be widely known. He said:

"For some years there has been much and earnest talk about the founding of a national theatre, which has been sadly needed but its worthy promoters were not equipped with financial means toward its accomplishment.

"I and other men, blessed with means and an inclination to bring about a dramatic consummation devoutly to be wished, met Heinrich Conried and talked it over with him.

"To make a long story short, a number of gentlemen were approached and it was at once found that they were heartily interested in the project. I need not mention them but may say that among them were Clarence Mackay, Henry Morgenthal, James Speyer, James Stillman, Daniel Guggenheim and many others.

"The plan was that thirty gentlemen should subscribe $100,000 each, and for their investment, they should have as collateral as it were, a site to be purchased for about $1,000,000 and the theatre to cost $2,000,000 more. The thirty were readily found. The theatre will be begun next spring and will take over a year to complete. No one will be permitted to own a box unless accepted by the committee.

"The company will be the best that unlimited money can command. The theatre will be an authority in its acting. It will aim at purity in English pronunciation, passed upon, where there is difference of opinion, by a committee from Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Princeton. A committee of artists will be consulted as to the scenery and costumes.

"The season will be thirty weeks. There will not be any long runs. Ten plays will be produced the first year; ten each year following. And on two nights each week, there will be opera comique—not "comic opera," as Broadway unhappily knows it, but genuine, delightful opera comique with artists drawn from Paris, Berlin, Vienna and other foreign cities, as well as home singers and a contingent from the Metropolitan opera house."

COUNTRY QUIET

Peace Party Won in San Domingo

SAN DOMINGO, Nov. 9.—The country is perfectly quiet. The municipal elections held Nov. 1, deciding which party shall conduct the next presidential elections, were orderly throughout the republic, which is unusual.

The peace party won overwhelmingly victorious. The rumors that a revolution had broken out in Santo Domingo probably resulted from some wild talk on the part of unsuccessful candidates which resulted in a few arrests.

The alarming reports in circulation in the United States are not understood here. Business is improving. Large importations are being made. Two hundred European immigrants have just landed here.

Have you seen Eugene G. Russell's ads. in today's paper? They are full of bargains in Real Estate. Read them.

WOMAN HURT

WHILE RIDING TO HOUNDS IN VIRGINIA.

RICHMONDTOWN, Va., Nov. 9.—Riding to hounds is rivalling football as a strenuous sport.

That those who are thrilled by the music of the pack and exhilarated as they bound along meadow, upland and hedges on the back of a hunter are not immune from danger has this season been frequently evidenced.

Mrs. Thomas L. Pierce of Boston fell off her hunter at the fourth meet of the English hounds in the Middlesex-Grafton hunt yesterday, knocked out a tooth and sustained scratches and bruises about the face.

Mrs. Pierce was not the only rider to take a cropper. Mrs. Grafton Abbot of Concord and Mrs. Ladenburg came to the ground with a thud when their steeds failed to clear difficult jumps.

Several of the men also fell, but they were in such good training that no bones were broken.

"I thank the Lord!" cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 6 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. WILLIAM HICKEY

The Noted Ball Player Passed Away

VICTIM OF SPOTTED FEVER

Died at the Lowell Hospital Yesterday

William Hickey, the well known local ball player, died Tuesday night at the Lowell hospital, death being due to cerebro-spinal meningitis. The deceased was 23 years of age and resided at 65 Willie street. He had not been feeling well for some time, but Tuesday morning he was seized with severe pains and Dr. Frye was summoned. The doctor advised the young man's removal to the hospital but the sick man's people were unwilling to have this done.

Dr. Frye called in the afternoon and became convinced that his first diagnosis of the case as spotted fever was a correct one. On the second visit the doctor ordered Hickey's removal to the hospital and this was done without delay.

Upon arrival at the hospital, Dr. Simpson verified the diagnosis by Dr. Frye, and little or no hope was entertained for his recovery.

The suffering was relieved as far as possible, the only help that could be given, but Mr. Hickey died before midnight.

The case was reported to the board of health yesterday and the usual directions customary in this disease were given, that the burial be made as soon as possible, and that no persons be allowed to attend.

Deceased was the most promising amateur baseball player in the city last season. During the earlier part of the summer he played with several of the teams of the New Hampshire towns, and later, when the New England league baseball team went from this city he came here and became associated with the Ketchup club, and it was largely through his splendid work as a pitcher that that club won the honors of the championship of the city.

His sudden death will be learned with profound sorrow by all who knew him.

The funeral took place at 10 o'clock this morning, Rev. Mr. Jenkins of St. Anne's church officiating at the grave. The bearers were Thomas and William Roddy, Thomas McGovern, William Martin. Burial was in the Edson cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Welnbeck.

TO AILING WOMEN

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Lowell

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Lowell woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. L. A. Clifford, of 31 Northern st., Lowell, Mass., says: "I had quite a severe attack of kidney trouble seven years ago. Sometimes the pains were so severe that it was difficult for me to attend to my work, and when I found relief through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store I was so delighted that I gladly recommend them through our local papers. Ever since then I have used Doan's Kidney Pills whenever I felt any symptoms of kidney troubles coming on and they have always given me the same prompt and complete relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE MAN WHO WILL STUDY THE CURIOUS AFRICAN PYGMIES

PROFESSOR FREDERICK STARR, the well known and rather erratic anthropologist of Chicago university, who sailed recently for Africa, expects to spend a year in the intimate study of the [illegible] yellow men and cannibals who are to be found in the mysterious interior of that continent. A few of the early discoverers who penetrated the heart of Africa reported the existence of a race of dwarfs in the far interior, but for some reason their accounts of these strange people were believed to be akin to those of the imaginative Marco Polo in point of veracity. Even the testimony of so recent an observer as Paul Du Chaillu was discredited, although it was corroborated by so reliable a witness as the late Henry M. Stanley.

Now that the existence of these remarkable Lilliputians is no longer a matter of speculation, bands of them having been exhibited in Europe and at the St. Louis fair, Professor Starr hopes to throw additional light upon their origin and ancestry by making a series of plaster casts, physical measurements, phonographic records, moving pictures and hundreds of photographic negatives. For this purpose he took with him Manuel Gomez, an expert young Mexican photographer.

For the study of the pygmies Professor Starr has made the most careful and elaborate preparation. It is his intention to dwell with them in their forest retreats and to maintain a vigilant observation on their methods of living. He is of the opinion that they are an unchanged race from the time of their creation and that they have not suffered degeneration. It is also his intention to investigate the peculiar yellow and copper colored races of Africans made known recently by Samuel Verner, the missionary scientist, now in that country. The traditions of these curious yellow people indicates no white ancestry. They seem to be perfectly distinct from the black tribes and are their superiors in intelligence and are averse to marrying among them. It is believed that these yellow folk number about the same as the negroes of the United States. They are scattered among various tribes, and the theory has been advanced by scientists that they are the survivors of a people that emigrated centuries ago from the region of the Nile into Africa's interior.

The field is a rare and fascinating one for an ethnologist, and Professor Starr will undoubtedly make the most of his opportunity. His headquarters will be 2,100 miles in the interior of the continent, at Ndombe, in the Belgian Congo protectorate, the capital city of King Ndombe. That powerful African potentate will aid him in conducting his researches and has engaged to safeguard him in all his undertakings. Large bands of the Batwa pygmies live in King Ndombe's territory and are under his protection. They pay him tribute in the shape of meat and game supplies for his large household. King Ndombe is of the copper colored race and is a majestic savage six feet six inches in stature and of herculean physique. He has a decidedly intelligent and kindly face, and his eyes are brown and soft. His domain is about the area of the state of New Jersey, and he is the husband of thirty-one wives and the father of forty children.

Samuel Verner, whose long residence as a missionary among these strange tribes qualifies him to speak authoritatively, says that a band of about 300 of these pygmies lives on the outskirts of King Ndombe's town in beehive-like huts formed of bent twigs and forked sticks covered with palm fiber and leaves. There is an opening in the bottom of each of these diminutive structures just large enough for its occupants to crawl through, and this cramped interior shelters a man and his wife and sometimes half a dozen children. A full grown man could neither stand erect nor lie at full length in one of these small dwellings.

Farther in the interior and remote from any settlement is to be found another race of pygmies, the tree dwelling dwarfs. Scarcely anything is known of these curious beings from actual observation, but it is Professor Starr's purpose to unravel the mystery which has always enshrouded these small specimens of humanity. With pygmy guides and armed attendants provided by King Ndombe he will penetrate the forest inhabited by the tree dwellers and gather all the information concerning them that is obtainable. They are reputed to be exceedingly shy even of other Africans, and they are also said to be expert archers and to use poisoned arrows of an especially deadly character.

All of these little people live by hunting and fishing and never till the soil. This accounts for their proficiency with the bow, which is frequently longer than the body of its owner. The poison with which they tip their arrows is vegetable and so effective that it kills almost immediately. A slight scratch with one of these poisoned darts will cause convulsions and sometimes insanity, and there is no antidote. The average stature of the men of the race is four feet. A few of them are a trifle taller and many are less. The women are a few inches shorter than the men. They appear to be monogamists, although that point is not well established. They do not intermarry with the other African races even though they live in the same community, nor do they seem to adopt the customs of their neighbors. Strangely enough, they are sun worshipers and build "spirit houses." Their language is extremely ingenious, the names of animals, for instance, being formed from the sounds made by the animals themselves. A special effort will be made by Professor Starr to secure a full record of this odd speech on the phonograph.

Professor Starr is prepared to make himself a very acceptable visitor at the court of King Ndombe. He is provided with a large number of lantern slides which he will exhibit at the royal palace, some of them showing the pygmies at the St. Louis fair and how they were lodged in the African village at that international show. He also took with him a large and varied assortment of the especial trinkets that are dear to the heart of the African monarch, and it is likely that he will be a person of great influence at court as long as the gewgaws hold out. The result of his explorations will be awaited with great impatience by the scientific world, now that it has been compelled by actual demonstration to accept the fact of the pygmies' existence.

Professor Starr was born in Auburn, N. Y., in 1858, and was graduated from Lafayette college in 1882. He taught scientific subjects at several colleges after graduation and in 1889 had charge of the department of ethnology at the American Museum of Natural History. Professor Starr has done much field work in ethnography and physical anthropology, especially in Mexico. He is a frequent contributor to magazines and has lectured on his travels and anthropological investigations.

The professor is a devotee to his profession and has never found the time to marry. He is reputed to be a woman hater, but he declares that he has no well founded aversion for the sex, but has had absolutely no time to acquire a proper knowledge of the cult. He is one of the best informed men on the subject of the American Indian now living. He has been adopted regularly as a member of the Onondaga tribe and is known among them as Hatesatha (Wisest Speaker of the Council).

NEW MONUMENT TO A GREAT FRENCH HISTORIAN

The noble monument herewith pictured has recently been unveiled at Vouziers, the birthplace of Hippolyte Adolphe Taine, the famous historian and critic. No modern French writer has been more successful in gaining English literary appreciation than M. Taine. His "Notes on England" and "History of English Literature" have had an immense popularity in English speaking countries. Even when one cannot agree with him it is possible to obtain the greatest pleasure from his admirable diction.

SECOND DOCTOR

Was Called in the Susan Geary Case

SUCH IS THE BELIEF OF POLICE

Knew Nothing of the Girl's Death

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Another young doctor of excellent standing and reputed to be a capable surgeon, will probably be brought into the Susanna Geary case.

He may not be charged as one of the principals, but it is likely that he will appear, at least, as a witness.

The connection which this physician has with the case of Miss Geary, the "Shepherd King" dancer, is alleged to be as one of the surgeons who performed the operation of laparotomy a few days before the girl died, the operation being undertaken as a desperate means to save her life.

It is not claimed that this doctor was present at the dismemberment of the body, or that he knows anything about the case beyond what he has been told since the body was disposed of.

The fact of this doctor's probable participation in the abdominal operation came the day Dr. Percy D. McLeod was arrested. At that time it appeared probable that he had been called in to treat Miss Geary when peritonitis developed to a critical point.

Investigation since then has shown, however, that this physician was not the first regular practitioner summoned, that he was not the doctor in charge of the case. But when the heroic operation was decided on by the physician in charge, alleged by the police to have been Dr. McLeod, this physician was taken to the house at 68 Winthrop street, Roxbury, to assist.

This man, according to the information received, did all he could to save the girl's life. After the operation there seemed to be a chance of Miss Geary's recovery, although a slender one.

This second physician left the house after the operation and was not called in afterward. Miss Geary lived four days after that operation. The doctor was not present when she died; nor did she know of her death until several days afterward.

That he did later learn the fate of the girl and the disposition of the body there is little doubt.

The doctor in question has, it is alleged, treated other patients convalescing in the Winthrop street house.

Friendship is said to have been one of the reasons for this doctor's presence the night he tried to save the girl's life. He and Dr. McLeod have been intimate for several years.

This physician lives in Roxbury and in an emergency it would not take him long to go from his office to the house where Miss Geary died.

It was not this doctor's duty to sign a death certificate, that being the business of the physician in charge who treated Miss Geary before and after he and the other performed the operation. But he knew the character of the initial operation which had resulted in peritonitis, knew it was a criminal one, and he was under as great obligation as was the physician in charge to notify the authorities.

As far as is known, only two occupants of the house at 68 Winthrop street knew of the presence of this second doctor at the operation. One is Mary S. Dean, in charge of the house, and the other is the physician in charge of the case.

The Roxbury doctor's name was not given to Supt. Pierce or Chief Inspector Watts by William E. Howard or Louis W. Crawford in New York. Neither Howard nor Crawford knew of the Roxbury physician's connection with the case, and evidently were not told.

The Roxbury physician is attending to his practice as usual. He was questioned yesterday about his connection with the case. He denied that he knew anything about the operation on Miss Geary, and said he was not called in consultation to attend her or any other patient at 68 Winthrop street.

He admitted he and Dr. McLeod had been warm friends for years and had consulted each other about their patients.

Supt. Pierce and Chief Inspector Watts waited in vain last night for word from Halifax, N. S., regarding the woman the police of that city have under surveillance, suspecting she is the missing Mary S. Dean for whom the Boston police have a warrant.

FUNERAL OF VICTIM.

BOSTON, Nov. 9—The body of Susanna Agnes Geary, the suit-case victim, will be taken to Leominster for burial, after it is turned over to the family by Boston authorities.

Mrs. Geary is on the verge of collapse at her home, 55 Main street, Cambridgeport. She was ill, pale and nervous yesterday when seen by a reporter.

She said she did not know yet regarding the details of the funeral, because Capt. Dugan had not yet told her when she could have her daughter's body.

MADE BIG GAIN

Financial Report of Catholic University

Bishop O'Connell May be Coadjutor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The trustees of the Catholic University held a session yesterday afternoon and another last evening, when the reports of various committees were considered.

Cardinal Gibbons, the chancellor, presided. The other directors present were Archbishops Williams of Boston, Ryan of Philadelphia, Farley of New York and Bishop Maes of Covington, Foley of Detroit, Harkins of Providence and the rector, Mgr. O'Connell.

The treasurer, Michael Jenkins of Baltimore, was present at the morning session, and presented the financial report recently embodied in the letter which Cardinal Gibbons issued in regard to the annual collection to be taken up for the university. This report shows an encouraging gain since the last meeting.

The question of endowing a chair with the fund recently bequeathed by Miss Gardiner of Baltimore, and the election of a successor to Mgr. P. J. Chappelle, a charter member of the board, will be considered today.

Last night a special committee conferred in regard to the present needs of the institution, and took up a number of reports submitted by various members of the faculty. The conclusions of the board regarding certain radical changes in the conduct of the university will probably be announced today. These pertain in part to the permanent duties of the vice-rector and a stricter enforcement of the terms of the constitution.

Yesterday afternoon the trustees and faculties of the university were the guests of Trinity college, and participated in the presentation of the $10,000 scholarship by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. This scholarship is only open to members of the order, and then by competition in every part of the country. Delegates from every section where the order is established were here to take part in the ceremonies. Among those from out of town were James O'Sullivan of Philadelphia, who, in the absence of the national president, James E. Dolan, made the presentation; Mrs. Mary E. Quinn of Joliet, Ill., national president of the Ladies' Auxiliary; Miss Anne Malia of Pennsylvania, national secretary; Miss Katherine Sheridan of Randolph, Mass.; Miss McCann and Miss O'Donnell of Connecticut and Miss McWhorter of Chicago.

Archbishop Williams, accompanied by the Rev. F. X. Dolan of the Cathedral, occupied a seat on the stage, and afterward manifested his interest in Trinity college by being presented to the present graduating class. Four out of six of the prospective graduates are from the Bay state. They are Miss Mary Agnes Kennedy of Charlestown, Miss Sara Treanor O'Neil of Somerville, Miss Anna Ivins Collins of North Adams and Miss Mary Elizabeth Doherty of Worcester.

The appointment of the coadjutor to the archbishop of Boston is of much interest among the prelates now at the university. The opinion prevails that Bishop Harkins of Providence, who was first on the list both of bishops and priests, is not very desirous of the appointment, and that he so informed the Roman authorities during his recent visit. Bishop Harkins would like an assistant in his present field if he continues there.

It is said that Bishop O'Connell of Portland, who has been a candidate for the coadjutorship from the beginning, stands a good chance of winning. Archbishop Williams, however, is committed to Bishop Harkins.

TRIED SUICIDE

MALDEN MAN DRANK CROTON OIL.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—N. B. Lavers, 28 years old, of Malden, attempted suicide about 10.15 last night by drinking croton oil because of unrequited love. The act was committed in front of the home of Miss Grace Hutchinson of 1 Hull row, off Mill street, Charlestown, to which the young man had been refused admittance.

After Lavers had rung the doorbell and found that he could not see Miss Hutchinson, he sat on the step for some minutes.

Suddenly he arose and in desperation smashed the plate glass door window, and then drank five drams of croton oil from a bottle.

The young man was taken to the police station, and Dr. Duff ordered his removal to the City hospital relief station. There he was treated, with good results, and at an early hour this morning he was resting comfortably.

$5000 LOSS

BRANCH OF BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY DAMAGED BY FIRE.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The old Every Day Universalist church in Shawmut avenue, between Canton and West Brookline streets, now occupied by the South end branch of the Boston public library, was damaged by fire, which was discovered at a few minutes after 2 o'clock this morning. The loss is placed at about $5000.

The blaze gave the firemen one of the hardest battles they have had for a long time, and on account of the surroundings it was necessary for Chief Cheswell to sound three alarms. At 2.45 o'clock the fire was still burning, but practically under control.

1400 MILES BY WIRELESS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The navy department has been informed that the wireless telegraph operator at San Juan, Porto Rico, read signs which were being sent from a wireless station in the vicinity of New York. The distance as computed at the navy department is approximately 1400 miles.

This encourages the belief at the department that it will be possible to establish wireless telegraphic communication between San Juan and the Washington navy yard in the near future.

ROYAL ARCANUM

Attorney General May Give Decision Today

BOSTON, Nov. 9—Atty. Gen. Parker still has before him the application for the use of his name in a bill in equity to enjoin the officers of the Royal Arcanum from putting into effect the new rate schedule.

Present indications are that the attorney general will not grant the use of his name.

He gave several hearings to counsel representing those who protest against the new rate schedule and to counsel for the supreme officers of the order.

Counsel for the order urged, in the first place, that the attorney general had no legal right to grant the use of his name for the extraordinary remedy proposed, and that the situation did not call for an injunction. It was further argued that the insurance commissioner had made no complaint.

Finally it was suggested, also by counsel for the order, that the bringing of a bill in equity for injunction would hurt the order, and perhaps destroy it.

The attorney general, therefore, had the legal question to settle first. Then, if he found he had the legal right to grant the use of his name, he would still have to decide whether, in view of all the facts, he should do so.

Yesterday the insurance commissioner was considering the Royal Arcanum matter under section 19, chapter 1139, revised statutes.

This section provides, in brief, that if the insurance commissioner on investigation is satisfied that a corporation organized or conducting business under the provisions of that chapter has exceeded its powers, or has failed to comply with any provisions of law, etc., he shall report the fact to the attorney general.

That the insurance commissioner is at work under this section is regarded as indicating that the attorney general has not found that, as a matter of law, he has the right to lend his name to the petition for an injunction.

The insurance commissioner has already practically approved the new rate schedule in his annual report, by explaining its necessity.

Senator Foraker on the Ohio Election

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 9—Following the defeat of Gov. Herrick and the republican party in this state and city at the election Tuesday, Senator Foraker last night authorized the following statement:

"The defeats we have sustained in the city and state have no relation to national politics, but are due solely to local and other causes. Whether right or not, the belief obtains that the great mass of voters have not had any proper representation in nominating conventions, and that a man with an ambition to engage in the public service had no opportunity unless he was fortunate enough to be put on a prearranged slate. It was natural to expect that sooner or later this would be resented. In large part that is what the defeats of yesterday meant.

"It will be easy to cure this trouble. The way is to return to the old-fashioned practice of having real conventions, at which all who aspire to nominations will have an equal chance. There were other causes that contributed to our defeat that will occur to every one familiar with the situation, but I do not care to discuss them, for they will pass away with this election."

That John M. Pattison, democrat, of Cincinnati, has been elected governor of Ohio for three years by a plurality running above 40,000, over Gov. Herrick, republican, is settled, as also is the democratic working majority in both houses of the legislature, but there is still some uncertainty as to the rest of the state ticket.

Earlier returns were apparently from sections favorable to Gov. Herrick, for he had a lead over the remainder of the republican ticket until today, when fuller returns from country regions cut into Herrick's vote severely.

Chairman Garber of the democratic committee last night figured a plurality for Pattison that aggregated close to 45,000. If these figures hold true, the entire democratic ticket is elected.

The republicans have given out no later estimates than that of Chairman Dick, conceding the election of Pattison by 25,000 plurality.

Among the officers present were Supreme Commander James S. Ready of Worcester, Supreme Auditor A. F. Forten of Winchester and State Secretary James J. Gallagher.

TEXTILE NOTES

Interesting Items From Mill Centers

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 9.—The same interests which have been identified with the successful Queensbury Mills in Worcester, Mass., with spinning mills in Somersworth, N. H., and with a lining plant, the Alexander Silk Mills, in Passaic, N. J., are about to start another novelty yarn plant for the spinning of mohair, worsted and novelty yarns in Providence, R. I. W. S. Hodgson, Sr., the manager of the new plant, states that most of the machinery, which was all specially imported from England, has arrived and it will be ready to start by Nov. 9. Several varieties of yarns will be made in the new plant, including bourette, boucle, flakes, spots, spirals, etc., in white and colors.

Walter Huby, formerly overseer of the twisting department of the Cranston Worsted Mills, and Fred Latham, boss machinist of the same plant, have connected themselves with Mr. Hodgson in the new enterprise.

MILL OPERATIVES RETURN.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 9.—The Attawaugan Co., operating the cotton mills at Pequot, has now fully recovered from the effects of the recent strike among its weavers. Gradually, since the 15 striking weavers left their looms, their places have been filled by others. The mills have never stopped in consequence of the strike, but have been running, although several of the looms were idle for a time. There was never any reduction of wages in the mill.

MILL CONSOLIDATION.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 9.—Preliminary steps have been taken toward the consolidation of the Estes Mill and the Seaside Mill of Fall River, Mass. Although no details are given out, it is understood that the Seaside Mill will be abandoned and the machinery transferred to the Estes Mill. The two companies in question are large manufacturers of absorbent cotton to be used for medical purposes. William J. Dunn is the owner of the Seaside mill, while J. H. Estes and his three sons control the Estes plant, which was recently incorporated with a capital of $250,000.

TO INCREASE HANES PLANT.

WINSTON, N. C., Nov. 9.—A big enlargement will be undertaken by the P. H. Hanes Knitting Co. of this town and the output of the plant will be increased by 100 dozen garments daily. It is now 300 dozen garments men's fleeced and ribbed underwear. The improvements will include the erection of a five-story, 30x50-foot building, and the installation of new knitting machines and complement of sewing machines, etc. In the mill now operating there are 30 knitting machines with complement of sewers, etc., employing 150 persons.

WORKING FULL NIGHT FORCE.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Nov. 9.—Forty looms in the Silver Lake Mills of the W. E. Tillotson Manufacturing Co., Pittsfield, Mass., have been started on a night schedule, and this number will be increased as fast as additional weavers can be secured.

MADE RECORD

ED. BRYAN WENT THREE MILES IN 7.03¼.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—The final races of the season over the Point Breeze race track yesterday were most successful from every viewpoint, and Ed Bryan, 2.16¼ added another world's record to his credit by covering three miles to wagon, unpaced, in 7.03¼.

In 1857 a gelding by the name of Prince stepped three miles to a high-wheel wagon in 7.53¼. Ed Bryan's miles were to a modern bike wheel wagon, but the performance, nevertheless, establishes a new world's mark for the distance. Ed Bryan also holds the two-mile world's wagon record. He finished the last quarter of his record-breaking trip yesterday in the remarkable time of 36½s. or at a 2.26 gait.

The match race between The Friend, 2.05¼, and Harry L, 2.08¼, drew a large crowd. The event was well contested and furnished plenty of excitement. Harry L. drew the pole, and the pair were sent away on the first score down on good terms. The Friend, however, made a break on the turn, but came up quickly. Coming down the stretch he gained, but Harry L won the heat by a head in 2.08¾, just equaling his former mark.

The pair were again sent away on the first score for the second heat. The Friend made a break on the first turn, which left him no chance for the heat, and Harry L won the heat in a jog. The time was 2.12¾.

They got away well again in the third heat and were well bunched all the way around. The Friend forced Harry L to the half at a 2.05½ gait, and, finishing good and strong, won the heat by a nose in 2.07¾.

The fourth and final heat found The Friend again unsteady, and Harry L won, pulled up in slow time, although the three-quarters was paced well below a 2.10 gait.

LIKE A LUNATIC

Chinese Emperor Held Prisoner Cries Wildly

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 9.—Telegrams from Pekin to Japanese papers say movements to overthrow the present Chinese dynasty are developing with incredible rapidity.

Advices from Pekin published by Japanese vernacular papers received by the steamer Empress of China state that when the Empress Dowager of China returned hastily from her summer palace because of the bomb outrage at Pekin, she summoned the emperor and asked what he knew of the outrage, whereupon the emperor showed much confusion.

At a signal from the empress a party of guards appeared and led the emperor to a hall, where he has been since confined, no one having access to him and food being thrust in through a window. The Hochin Shinbun says the emperor occasionally raises shrieks like those of a lunatic.

CLUB SOCIAL MET.

A well attended meeting of Club Social de Centralville was held last night in West Sixth street, the affair being in honor of Representatives-elect Joseph H. Hibbard and Charles J. Wier.

Mr. Wier was unable to be present, but Representative Hibbard was on hand and delivered a hearty speech of thanks and gratitude to his loyal supporters. He was enthusiastically cheered and warmly congratulated.

Refreshments and cigars were passed and a rousing program of songs was given by Hector Houde, president of the club; Hector Monotte, Ernest Landry, Mr. McKinnon and other members present.

BRITISH FLEET

Joined American In New York Harbor

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The squadron of Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, consisting of six armored cruisers, passed in Sandy Hook at 7.15 o'clock this morning. The flagship Drake was in the lead followed by the Bedford, Berwick, Cornwall, Essex and Cumberland in that order.

As the ships neared the quarantine station the flagship Drake lowered her small storm color and hoisted in its stead, the large white ensign which she immediately dipped in salute to the British steamer Atrato lying at anchor. The flagship's example was followed in order by the remainder of the cruisers. As the warships steamed up the bay they were constantly saluted by passing craft.

As the British squadron passed Governors Island, the headquarters of the army of the east, each cruiser gave the national salute of twenty-one guns which was answered by the guns of Governors Island. The cruisers then passed up the Hudson river and dropped anchor in the stations assigned to them north of 34th street, beside the American squadron.

PERSONALS

Messrs. Joseph and Wilfrid Normandin of Manchester, N. H., have been the guests of their brother, Mr. Z. A. Normandin.

Mrs. P. W. Farrell very charmingly entertained the Cercle Allant last night at her home in School street.

Dr. Henri E. Langis, Mr. Stephen Rochette, Mr. Fortunat Pelletier, Mr. Ovide E. Ledoux and Mr. Joseph Roy formed a theatre party who heard "Faust" at the Boston theatre last night.

Mrs. Edwin Farnham of Milltown, N. H., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas McPhail, of 52 Franklin street.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Silk of 607 School street, Monday.

Mrs. Charles Clark of Washington, D. C., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clark of Stackpole street.

Mr. Isaac Blanchard, formerly of this city but now of Wilton, N. H., was a visitor in town yesterday. Mr. Blanchard has entered in the poultry business, and has large houses erected just outside of Wilton Centre.

A large number of people visited the Day Nursery of Kirk street yesterday afternoon, the occasion being a pound party given for the benefit of the Nursery. Each visitor brought a pound of some useful article which is much needed in supporting the home. Twenty-eight children were present and entertained the visitors with songs and recitations which they are learning at present for Thanksgiving. No special preparation was made for the occasion, the purpose of which was to give the people of Lowell a chance to see the nursery as it is ordinarily run, and to get them interested in its support.

SEVERE TYPHOON

CAUSED GREAT DAMAGE IN GUAM.

GUAM, Nov. 9.—A severe typhoon, accompanied by a deluge of rain, took place here yesterday. The damage done to property is considerable, but its extent is unknown. The towns of Agana and Piti were inundated. No lives were lost.

POLITICAL NOTES

Fred Evans at the request of his friends is going to run for the common council in ward nine on the republican ticket. As the state election figures indicate that ward nine has passed body and boots into the democratic column Fred will have to stay out late o'nights to overcome the adverse majority.

In Captain Fairweather's "ad" in a morning paper today, the writer says that the captain has a record at city hall that his opponents cannot bring under the limelight. The writer evidently meant just the opposite of what he wrote for a record that won't stand the glare of publicity is hardly worth talking about.

The "ad" writers of both Hill and Fairweather call attention to the big vote that each received when running for aldermen. Col. Carmichael's vote showed that there is a big difference in votes received when running in a field of nine and when running in a field of two or three.

Michael Quinn, the well known electrician will be a democratic candidate for alderman.

Even the 1905 red book forgets to mention that James G. Hill was once acting mayor of the city of Lowell and during a very strenuous period, the height of the wood famine. The red book mentions Ex-Alderman Badger but omits mention of Mr. Hill.

WET WEATHER

HAS HELPED LUMBER INDUSTRY IN MAINE.

WATERVILLE, Maine, Nov. 9.—The past three days of inclement weather has been of incalculable value to the lumber industry of the state and the industrial plants located along the Kennebec river. Water in the great at storage basins had become very low and the ground along the river watershed dry. In the Moosehead Lake region rather more than one foot of snow has fallen. It is expected to melt during the next few days if warm weather prevails as expected and the drought will be greatly relieved. This followed by the average wet weather due between now and the first of the new year is believed to make certain sufficient water to save the mills and factories along the Kennebec river for the entire winter. Hunting conditions have been ideal.

SPECIAL MEETING

Of City Council Tomorrow Evening

A special meeting of both branches of the city council has been called for tomorrow evening to take action on the death of Councilman John Donohue of ward five. Councilman Donohue was one of the most popular members of the democratic minority and his death will be widely mourned. He was a steadfast friend and a staunch democrat.

Both General Shields and John McManus have announced themselves at city hall as candidates for positions on the board of charity under the incoming mayor. They don't say which mayor, but claim that with their experience as friends of the poor any mayor should be glad to appoint them regardless of politics.

POLICY HOLDERS

Will be Fully Protected Says Counsel

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—"The policy holders in Missouri will not be hurt by the action of Insurance Commissioner Van Diver in suspending the license of the New York Life to do business in this state. We will see that their interests are protected to the fullest extent. The attorneys will hold a meeting today, but until then we cannot tell what we will do to meet the emergency," said Edward C. Crow, former attorney general and one of the attorneys for the New York Life when informed of Commissioner Van Diver's action.

"They had to do it at night," remarked Attorney F. N. Judson, also counsel for the insurance company, when told. Neither of the attorneys would state what would be the next step of the company to meet the emergency.

NATIONAL LIBRARY HEADQUARTERS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—E. C. Hovey, of Boston, a member of the American Library association, is here in the interest of a fund which it is proposed to create for the establishment and maintenance of national headquarters to raise $100,000 to start with, and to supplement this with $1,000,000 for permanent endowment. Men of wealth are being appealed to in furtherance of the plans.

CRUISER DENVER

Was Dispatched to San Domingo City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The navy department has been advised by cablegram that the cruiser Denver left Guantanamo yesterday for San Pedro Marcoris, San Domingo, to which place Rear Admiral Bradford was ordered to send a warship because of reported trouble. The Denver should reach there today. The department, also, has been advised that Rear Admiral Bradford sailed yesterday with his flagship, the cruiser Olympia from Guantanamo for San Domingo City.

The gunboat Eagle, which has sailed from Newport News for Monti Christi has been temporarily assigned to Rear Admiral Bradford's division in Dominican waters.

The war department has received a cablegram from Colonel Colton, who is chief of the government agents in San Domingo dated at San Domingo, Nov. 8, which says:

"Everything perfectly quiet."

SECRETARY TAFT'S REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—While Secretary Taft is away officials of the war department are preparing data for his annual report to congress. It has not yet been determined whether the report will embrace the Panama canal but it is supposed that the canal will be considered in a separate department. As to army matters, it is known that the secretary does not intend to make very many recommendations, but will strongly renew his recommendation for an increase of the medical corps and for legislation which will increase the efficiency of the ordnance corps, which is now short of officers. Various recommendations have been made by various officers for increases in the army.

MAY BE MURDER

Man Lured to a House and Killed

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Lying in a pool of blood, the body of a man was found yesterday in a room on the second floor of a house in the southern part of the city. The skull was crushed and the body gave other evidence to warrant the police in believing the man had been murdered.

The authorities decline to make known the identity of the man, beyond saying that he is supposed to have been an Italian tailor of New York.

Two men and two women, all Italians, who occupied the room in which the body was found, disappeared yesterday, and the police are making a search for them.

The authorities believe the unknown man was lured to the place and then assaulted and robbed.

HEGEMAN TESTIFIES

Says $250,000,000 Could Not Buy Metropolitan Life

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life, was the first witness before the insurance investigating committee today. Mr. Hughes, counsel of the committee, first, however, called the name of L. E. Mullaney, who upon responding to his name, was requested to remain in the room. Mr. Mullaney is the care-taker of the house in Albany, which has been brought in previous testimony as maintained at A. C. Fields, an employe of the Mutual Life, and occupied by him during sessions of the legislature. The expenses of the Metropolitan Life were again taken up with Mr. Hegeman and it was shown that in 1904, $1,940,044 was paid for salaries of which 16 officers received $303,105. Previous to 1892, the peresident of the company received a salary and commissions but in 1892 Mr. Hegeman's salary was fixed at $50,000 without commissions and in 1905 this was raised to $100,000. Vice-President Haley Fisk's salary is $75,000.

The salary of George H. Gaston, second vice-president, is $37,500, and of Frank O. Ayers, third vice-president, $16,250. Mr. Hegeman said that 35 years ago less than $250,000 would have bought out the company, while today $250,000,000 would not do it.

It was brought out that the average salary of an agent in the field is $11.62 a week. An assistant superintendent's salary averages $18 a week, which with commissions may run to $25 weekly. The average salary of superintendents is from $25 to $50 a week. These officers are in the direct charge of the agents in the field.

Mr. Hegeman said that although the finance committee in 1901 increased his salary from $50,000 to $100,000, he had not drawn it and did not intend to do so.

"You were complaining yesterday of the great expense of the industrial insurance. Was this matter of expense taken into consideration when the salaries were increased?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"Everything was taken into consideration."

"Are you making any serious effort to reduce expenses?"

"We are always doing so."

Mr. Hegeman was unable to answer many questions of detail and James M. Craig, actuary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company was called. He described the various forms of policies issued by the Metropolitan.

SAVED CHILD

BUT WOMAN WAS INJURED UNDER A TRUCK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Knocked down and run over by a heavy tank truck of the Consolidated Gas company, yesterday, at First avenue and Ninety-second street, Mrs. Abraham Jacobs, of No. 402 East Ninety-third street, saved the life of her eight-months-old baby by pushing its carriage clear as she fell under the horses.

The driver of the truck whipped up his horses and escaped. According to the police the truck was No. 403.

Mrs. Jacobs was taken to the Presbyterian hospital with her child, which fell out of its carriage when it struck the curb. The mother was suffering from serious contusions and the baby from slight bruises.

Mhs. Jacobs waited for a horse car to pass, and had started for the other side of the avenue, not noticing the truck.

The driver sawed on his reins and was unable to restrain the horses before they struck Mrs. Jacobs. As she fell she pushed the baby carriage ahead with one last effort. The next moment she was under the horses' feet and the heavy wheels passed over her legs.

She was taken to the Presbyterian hospital by Policeman Darrell of the East Eighty-sixth street station, who thought she had been mortally wounded. It was found, however, that, while she had received serious contusions, no bones had been broken.

The troops were called out and fighting ensued during which machine guns were used and many persons were killed or wounded. In addition a number of houses were set on fire. The fighting lasted all night long.

KILLING JEWS

FEARFUL OUTBREAKS IN BESSARABIA—MANY KILLED.

ODESSA, Russia, Nov. 9.—Authentic accounts received here from various points in Bessarabia show that the anti-Jewish outbreaks there followed the same lines as at Odessa, varying only in the number of victims. Carrying Ikons and portraits of the Emperor, the mob proceeded to Alexandrovskaia, Pushkinskaia and Gostinkaia streets devastating and pillaging unhindered. Attempts at self-defense were quelled by the troops. Ninety per cent. of the killed and wounded were victims of bayonets and rifle bullets. The looting was accompanied by atrocities similar to those witnessed at Odessa and continued for two days. They stopped so soon as the governor received an order from St. Petersburg. Seventy Jews were killed and one hundred and twenty were wounded. Order is now restored.

A mob at Ismail, Bessarabia, burned alive eleven Jews who had hidden in a hay-rack.

The town of Kalarasch, Bessarabia, was entirely devastated and burned. Fifty-nine Jews were killed or perished in the flames and two hundred fled to neighboring villages where the peasants beat a number of them to death with cudgels and burned three Jews after drenching them with petroleum.

SUPERIOR COURT

The superior civil court was opened this morning at ten o'clock at the local court house, but shortly after the opening of the session court was adjourned until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, owing to the fact that there were no cases ready for trial.

The case of Roslo Lee against the Tremont & Suffolk mills, for alleged personal injuries sustained while in the employ of the defendant company was taken away from the jury, exceptions being saved for the plaintiff's counsel.

Shortly after the regular session of court yesterday afternoon the counsel in the Cowley cases argued on the matter of appointment of an auditor. Samuel K. Hamilton of Wakefield was directed by the court and a date will be fixed later.

OHIO VOTE

SOME REPUBLICANS MANAGED TO PULL THROUGH.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 9.—Patterson's plurality for governor is 41,705, according to the official returns, all counties being included.

Scattered reports on the minor state candidates indicate that at least some of the republicans pulled through by a safe plurality and it is possible that the republicans have chosen all state officers below governor.

The legislature, however, is democratic in both branches.

NEGRO CHASE

CROWD THREATENS TO LYNCH THE FUGITIVE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Aroused to anger by a brutal attack made upon Mrs. Belle Lippincott, housekeeper for James Robinson, a Quinton (N. J.) farmer, by a negro, who beat and robbed her, the entire countryside, headed by the sheriff, and all armed with shotguns, passed the night searching the woods nearby for the guilty man, who is believed to be surrounded and unable to escape.

Threats were made of an unmistakable nature, and it is considered not improbable in the event of the man's capture he will be lynched.

Mrs. Lippincott, now near death, was attacked during the absence in the fields of Robinson and his men. The negro walked into the house without knocking. He asked the frightened woman where the men were, and, then, without waiting for an answer, struck her a terrific blow on the head with a club. She fell to the floor, but the brute continued to strike despite her moans and pleas for mercy. When he had satisfied his fiendish cruelty the negro jerked rings from her fingers and walked out of the house. Robinson found Mrs. Lippincott unconscious when he came to the house, and immediately gave an alarm. Everybody living in the vicinity immediately started out in pursuit. Mrs. Lippincott could give no more detailed description of her assailant further than that he was about twenty-five years old and very black.

MAN IS MISSING

Friends Fear That He Was Slain

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A disappearance which has every aspect of being the sequel to a crime has been reported to the police after the family of the missing man have quietly but vainly worked on the case.

John N. Tisdale, a wealthy Western mining man and president of the Alaska-Snettisham Gold Mining company, with offices in this city, left his hotel, the Seville, at Madison avenue and East Twenty-ninth street, Monday at 3 o'clock, and has from that time not been seen by any one who knew him. When he left the hotel he told his wife he was going for a walk before dinner.

The missing man wore no jewelry, but had $200, according to his stepson, N. W. Corlett, a Harvard university student, now with his mother at the Hotel Seville. It is believed he was killed for his money. He intended going to Boston Tuesday to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the mining company, and had in his pocket at the time of his disappearance his ticket for that city. His trunk was packed and all his papers carefully placed there with his clothing.

Every hospital in New York has been searched by Mr. Corlett, who has also seen all the bodies at the morgue. Mr. Tisdale's habits were temperate, and as is not known to have had any enemies who would seek to injure him. His interests were large and took him to the West and South on many occasions. A week ago he returned from Georgia, where he had attended a business meeting of one of the companies in which he was interested, but at no time had he ever told his wife of any business difficulties that could be used as a clue to this disappearance.

His New York office was with De Billier & Co., No. 20 Broad street, but at that place he has not been seen since his disappearance. Mr. Tisdale was fifty-six years of age, five feet and nine inches tall and weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds. He wore a Van Dyke beard.

"My father has never before been away from home over night, except on business of which my mother knew," said Mr. Corlett, "and we have come to the conclusion that he has been murdered. There can be no other explanation of his disappearance. He never drank with strangers and was an unusually temperate man always."

STOLE FOR SON

WOMAN'S PLEA SECURED HER DISCHARGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Mary Johnson, of No. 254 East One Hundred and Twenty-second street, had been observed making frequent visits with her ten-year-old son to the dry goods store at One Hundred and Eighteenth street and Third avenue, and yesterday she was followed into the retiring room, where she had gone with the boy.

According to the police, there was found in a bag carried by the boy two boys' coats, stolen from the store.

Mrs. Johnson is suffering from consumption and has not long to live. She pleaded so pitifully to be allowed to go on account of the boy the charge against her was withdrawn and she was discharged.

MONEY IS DEAR

An Advance of 15 Per Cent Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Money on call went to 15 per cent. today, the highest rate for several years. Last Saturday's bank statement showed the surplus reserve to be almost exhausted and since then large sums have been sent from New York to the interior, leaving practically nothing to be lent. Secretary of the Treasury Shaw was in New York today and it was reported that he intended to deposit several million dollars of government funs with the banks to relieve the situation, but this report could not be confirmed.

BEEF PACKERS

U. S. Court Must Decide Their Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—U. S. Attorney Morrison of Chicago, special assistant Attorney-General Pagin of the department of justice, and Commissioner of Corporations Garfield, of the department of commerce and labor, were in conference with Attorney-General Moody today on the subject of the plea set up by the alleged beef trust to the effect that it was granted immunity from punishment by Mr. Garfield during the investigation of the alleged beef trust some months ago. The question as to whether the plea should be sustained or not is a question for the United States court. The department of justice will appear before the court and oppose the plea as soon as given an opportunity.

LOSES SUIT

WOMAN OF 80 SUFFERS THROUGH LAWYER'S LAPSE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Mary A. Stevens, an octogenarian, called at the Federal building yesterday asking for advice in a litigation which has been pending for three years, and which was thrown out of court on Monday owing to the failure of her lawyer to appear and letting judgment be entered against her by default.

At the time the suit was filed against the Metropolitan street railway, the lawyer's office was on lower Broadway, but since that time, Mrs. Stevens says, he has moved many times, and the last address she had of him was No. 132 Nassau street. No trace of him could be found there.

For three years the case has been on the calendar, slowly working its way to the top, which it reached on Monday. Even if it could be reopned now it is said that another three years would have to elapse before it would again be reached.

On January 11, 1902, Mrs. Stevens, who then lived with a widowed daughter at Spring and Courtland streets, Hoboken, was run down by a car at Fourteenth street and Ninth avenue. She sustained fractures of the collarbone, of the left ankle and the left leg. She was in the hospital for nine months and while there, she says, the lawyer obtained permission to bring suit.

Agents of the company, she says, offered to compromise, but, she says, the lawyer persuaded her to refuse.

A lawyer was secured for Mrs. Stevens and an effort will be made to have the case reopened and, if possible, restored to its place on the calendar in order that justice may be done the neglect of her lawyer.

SIX TENEMENTS

Looted by Thieves Yesterday Afternoon

SOME JEWELRY WAS STOLEN

The Thefts Occurred in Broad Daylight

Slick second story workers visited Lowell yesterday and made a big haul in the tenement house districts.

They operated in the afternoon while the heads of the families were at work and the children at school and in each case got away without being seen.

Six tenements were entered and several watches and other articles of jewelry were taken.

The places entered were the tenements of Oscar Cognac, Aiken street; Daniel Paquette, 21 Hancock ave.; Ivory D. Desrochiers, 130 Aiken street; Peter St. George, 65 Ford street; Daniel D. Murphy and Andrew Crowe, two tenements at 138 Cross street.

GOT HIS MAN

A DETECTIVE DROPPED FOUR FLOORS WITH PRISONER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Detective William O'Brien had the dizziest chase of his career yesterday when he shot down four floors with an alleged forger, who forced him to jump 15 feet out of a first story window.

The prisoner is Frank Gundler of No. 158 East One Hundred and Thirteenth street, whose pretty wife tried her best to foil the detective by giving her husband a tip which almost enabled him to get away.

Gundler was wanted on the complaint of Charles Thone, of No. 1490 First avenue, who charges Gundler with having signed his (Thone's) name to a $15 check. The police had been looking for Gundler for several weeks, and when they learned yesterday that he was living in East One Hundred and Thirteenth street, O'Brien was sent to arrest him.

Mrs. Gundler evidently surmised the detective's mission when he appeared at her door, despite the fact that he was in plain clothes, and she slammed the door in his face. She opened it again later in response to the detective's vigorous knocking, but in the interim she had warned her husband, who was just entering the dumbwaiter when O'Brien forced his way in.

The detective took a flying leap and landed on his quarry, and both shot to the bottom, four floors below, with a swiftness which nearly deprived each of his breath. The waiter was too narrow to allow O'Brien to get a hold on the fugitive, who leaped out of the enclosure as soon as he struck the bottom, and, running to a window, leaped into the yard, 15 feet below.

O'Brien, although somewhat dazed, followed and succeeded in landing his man.

RUSSIAN CZAR

Has Made Another Surrender to People

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 9—Both Count Witte and the emperor have made another surrender. General Trepoff has been removed from the powerful position which he occupied (governor general of St. Petersburg and assistant minister of the interior) and Russia's premier has agreed to immediate universal suffrage. Count Witte has been fully aware of the intense hated Gen. Trepoff's retention in office was causing but he never questioned the sincerity of the governor general's co-operation in the introduction of the new regime. Nevertheless he recognized the necessity of Trepoff's removal and the governor general himself agreed that only his retirement would appease the popular wrath. The emperor at last yielded on the condition that Trepoff should become commandant of the palace, where his sole duty will be to take measures to protect the life of his majesty. The position of governor general of St. Petersburg ends with Trepoff's retirement, but the place of commander of the Imperial Guard has been assumed by the Grand Duke Nicholas. The series of consultations which Count Witte has been holding with leaders of the constitutional democrats and even the Zemstvoists convinced him that it was useless to hold out longer if he was to continue seeking to secure the sympathy of the parties of center. He therefore practically promised an immediate extension of the suffrage to include all classes of the population. Even upon these conditions however, the constitutional democrats finally decided not to hold office in the present ministry. Prof. Milliukoff advised Count Witte to take a ready made constitution like that of Belgium to Peterhof and insist that the emperor promulgate it. The democratic constitutionalists until the people have spoken through a body elected by universal suffrage will refuse all connection with bureaucracy.

HALIFAX POLICE

Are Looking for Mrs. Mary Dean

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 9.—Inquiries are being made in this vicinity for Mrs. Mary S. Dean, wanted by the Boston police on the charge of being the proprietress of an institution in which Miss Susanna Geary, the Cambridge chorus girl victim of the suit case tragedy is said to have met her death. Circulars containing a description of Mrs. Dean have been received from the Boston police with the request that the Halifax authorities cooperate with the Boston officials in locating the woman. It is thought that Mrs. Dean may have taken the name of O'Brien and attention at first was directed towards Hammond Plains in this county but no woman answering Mrs. Dean's description could be located. So far as could be learned there were no families by the name of Dean or O'Brien in that town. It was thought that Mrs. Dean had come to this province to join relatives when disclosures in the suit case mystery began to come to light.

CHARITY WORKERS MEET.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Charity workers from all over the state were present in Tremont Temple today, to continue the three days conference begun there last evening by the state conference of charities. The topic of the forenoon discussion was "Needy families in their homes." Associated charities officers from Fall River, New Bedford, Springfield and Boston gave accounts of their experiences and progress on this line in their respective communities. In the afternoon the conference considered "un-paid boards and visitors in public charity" with a report by the chairman of the committee on this matter, Jeffrey R. Brackett, Ph. D., of this city and an address by Miss Julia C. Lathrop of Hull house, Chicago, formerly one of the state commissioners of public charities of Illinois.

SENATOR ELKINS

Says Railroad Measure Will be Passed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Senator Elkins, chairman of the committee on inter state commerce of the senate, had a talk with Pres. Roosevelt today. After the interview Senator Elkins said that he had not discussed with the president railroad legislation. He said that his committee would convene on the 21st instant to take up that subject.

"Will congress, in your opinion, pass a railroad rate measure?" he was asked.

"I am quite sure it will," replied Senator Elkins, "but just what character of measure it will be, nobody knows at this time. The railroads will have to be law-abiding but that is as far as anybody can go now."

RELATIONS ARE CORDIAL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—At the Italian embassy it was said that the relations between Secretary Root and the Italian ambassador are most cordial, and that there is no foundation for the statement that the ambassador is to leave Washington for good. Baron des Planches sailed from New York Tuesday for Europe. For several months he has been suffering with a severe throat trouble, and for many days he could not leave the embassy. The attaches who remain in charge say that if the ambassador does leave his post it will be solely on account of his health. They have, however, heard no intimation that the ambassador will not return to Washington at the end of his leave of absence, which will be in about eight or ten months.

Fred C. Church had the insurance on Amos Adams' house, Billerica street, Chelmsford Centre, which was burned yesterday.

$1000 REWARD

For Evidence of Murder in Todd Case

THE DEAD WOMAN'S LETTERS HELD

$100,000 Trust Fund Not in Cash

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A reward of $1000 was offered yesterday "for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of any person or persons implicated in the murder of Mrs. Margaretta Todd in Philadelphia on October 25, last." The reward is offered on the responsibility of Sinclair Tousey and Mrs. Rosalie Tousey. Circulars giving public notice of it will be sent out today.

The verbiage of the circular expresses correctly and succinctly the belief held by Mr. Tousey, his attorney, Mr. Hastings, and inferentially by their detectives that Mrs. Todd was murdered. They have abandoned all other theories of her death, and they are working on clues that they think may disclose the murder plot and reveal the guilty parties. The murder theory has been accepted by the police of Philadelphia and has made a profound impression upon Assistant District-Attorney Nott, if indeed he is not thoroughly convinced of its correctness."

Detective Gallagher of Philadelphia worked in this city all day yesterday. He was following out clues under the direction of the district-attorney of Philadelphia. Gallagher is familiar with the case. He was working on it on the days immediately following discovery of the body, and it was to him and to another Philadelphia detective, Johnson, that the wife of Cabman O'Hara declared, as he says, that her husband told her a woman had been murdered in his cab. Both O'Hara and his wife have since denied the statement, but the cabman, who was away for two days subsequent to October 27, is still considered a man capable of giving important testimony.

Dr. G. H. Meeker, a pathologist, who is city chemist in Philadelphia, was also in this city yesterday. He came here to take the viscera to Philadelphia for analysis. He conferred with Coroner Scholer at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and there arose a question of divided jurisdiction that was only solved by division of the viscera. Dr. Meeker took the stomach back to Philadelphia with him. The heart, larger and smaller intestines, liver and other organs remained in this city.

Sinclair Tousey, it appeared, had decided to have an analysis made by Dr. Hodenpyle, pathologist of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, this city. Mr. Tousey had notified Coroner Scholer to that effect, and the coroner considered that Mr. Tousey, as the representative of Mrs. Rosalie Tousey, had a right to direct the disposal of the organs. There is a grave question regarding the validity of the coroner's view, but the question was eliminated later in the day when Sinclair Tousey, hearing of the visit of Dr. Meeker, directed that the remainder of the organs be sent on to Philadelphia as well as the stomach.

Dr. Hodenpyle and Dr. O'Hanlon, coroner's physician, were with Coroner Scholer during Dr. Meeker's stay. All the physicians, it is said, concurred in the belief that either portion of the organs would be sufficient to establish the presence or absence of drugs or poisons.

Assistant District Attorney Nott continued his investigation of the case yesterday. The allegations of conspiracy to secure control of Mrs. Todd's property were considered again, and there was also, it is believed, considerable work in development of the murder story.

It may be stated with a great degree of certainty that there will be most important developments in the criminal prosecution of the case today. For obvious reasons the exact nature of these developments cannot be stated, but it need surprise no one if at least two arrests are made on charges either of conspiracy, perjury or larceny. Important developments in the way of new documentary evidence are also expected.

All of the mail addressed to Mrs. Todd has been held in the Madison Square branch post office since her death. The superintendent of the office, it was stated yesterday, was requested by a man who has figured as conspicuously as any other in the case to deliver the mail to him. The request was made on the day after Mrs. Todd's death. It was put on the ground that the person demanding the mail had legal authority. The superintendent replied that it would be delivered only to an executor or administrator who had qualified as such.

A little more confusion has been injected into the tangled network in which Mrs. Todd's property has been enmeshed by Lawyer Lockwood's documents. Mark Alter, Mr. Lockwood's lawyer, said that he had made a mistake in stating on Monday that Mr. Lockwood held $100,000 in cash by virtue of the mysterious trust deed.

"The $100,000 is not in cash," said Mr. Alter, "but is principally in stocks, bonds and mortgages. Only $600 is in cash. The property came into Mr. Lockwood's possession in 1903, when the trust deed was executed. Mr. Lockwood was designated trustee. Mrs. Rosalie Tousey was the donor of the trust and the trust was to terminate on the death of either of them. Mr. Lockwood's only benefit from the trust consisted in the commissions he was entitled to charge for handling the property."

Mr. Alter stated that Mr. Lockwood and Mrs. Todd did not meet after the breach between them last July. He had his information to this effect from Mr. Lockwood direct, he said.

CORONERS CONFER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Coroner Dugan of Philadelphia was in conference here today with Coroner Scholer of New York relative to the mysterious death of Mrs. Margaretta Todd, the wealthy New York woman recently found dead on the railroad track in Philadelphia. Coroner Dugan said he has at no time ever believed this case to be one of murder but only that he believed it demanded an investigation and that there would be one, especially in Philadelphia.

BROKEN HEART

LED SOCIETY GIRL TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—After seeking in religion comfort for a broken heart, Miss Beatrice Russell, daughter of Henry E. Russell, a wealthy retired manufacturer of New London, Conn., committed suicide yesterday by drinking poison. Her body was found in her room by a nurse maid employed to take charge of the girl's mother, Mrs. Russell, who has been an invalid for years.

Just what romance caused the young woman to end her life is not known to the public. She was twenty-three years old, attractive, had plenty of money and a very happy home. Her father idolized her and gave her every luxury that money could buy. A short time ago Miss Russell began to lose interest in the social life of New London, where she was widely known. She declined many invitations, always giving as her excuse that her mother was very ill and needed her care. It was quietly rumored that she had fallen in love with some one who had not returned her devotion.

At first she sought comfort in religion. She became a devout member of the church, attended every service and volunteered on various committees.

Yesterday Miss Russell attended to her usual duties calmly and quietly. She drank the poison after writing a letter to her father, in which she told him of the reasons for her death. This letter is said to have caused a profound sensation in the family.

NOVEL PLEA

GETS VERDICT OF $1 A DAY FOR LIFE FOR PLAINTIFF.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—A novel plea and suggestion to a jury in determining the amount of a judgment their client should receive was made in Judge Bishop's court by Judge Shepard Barclay and Attorney Richard F. Ralph, and the verdict which was rendered showed that the suggestion had not been in vain.

The case was that of Mrs. Sarah J. Westervelt, who was suing the St. Louis Transit and United Railways companies for $30,000, alleging that she had been permanently injured due to the negligence of street railway employes.

In making his address to the jury, Judge Barclay did some figuring with insurance actuaries' tables and the expectancy of life. He called the attention of the jurors to the fact that Mrs. Westervelt is now fifty-four years old, and that taking her injuries into consideration she could not be expected to live more than fifteen years longer. He argued that a verdict of $1 a day for the remainder of her life, estimated at fifteen years, would not be excessive. The verdict was for $6000.

Mrs. Westervelt alleged in her petition that she was a passenger on a Bellefontaine car which was wrecked at Virginia and Bowen avenues, on December 19, 1899, and that she sustained internal injuries from which she has never recovered.

The case was tried three times before, each time resulting in a hung jury. The first trial was at Clayton in October, 1900; the second at St. Charles in October, 1902, and the third at St. Charles in October, 1903.

At first the suit was against the St. Louis Transit company only, but an amended petition was permitted, making the United Railway company a party to the suit after the street railway's property passed into the ownership of that company.

In instructing the jury Judge Bishop stated that in case a verdict for the plaintiff was reached it should be against both companies.

TAFT STRONGER

Took His Stand Against the Machine

CABINET PLEASED WITH RESULTS

Of the Elections Held on Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—While all the higher officers of the administration, with the exception of Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte, are preserving a discreet silence as to the election results in New York and elsewhere, it is within the bounds of safety to say that the outcome in several of the big cities is not displeasing to them.

Secretary of State Root was asked to say something about the result in New York, but he declined to make any comment whatever, and Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who had worked in Ohio to save Gov. Herrick from defeat, was just as reticent. Secretary of War Taft, whose views concerning the result in Ohio would be of great political interest, is on the Caribbean Sea and does not know that Gov. Herrick has been defeated and that George B. Cox, the head of the Ohio republican machine, who came in for criticism at Mr. Taft's hands in the campaign just closed, has announced his retirement from politics.

No word of comment has come from the White House, but those persons in Washington who think they ought to know a thing or two about the views of the administration with regard to the state and municipal elections are of the opinion that the president and most of the members of the cabinet are not disappointed about the way things have turned out in those cities where bossism was an issue. Mr. Root's letter to Judge Flammer apparently left no doubt of the sympathy of the administration with Jerome's fight, and the communication which he sent several months ago to Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia condemning the ringsters, who, he said, were masquerading as republicans, was also taken here to express the sympathy of the administration with Weaver's fight for reform, although Mr. Root was not then a member of the cabinet.

Many people here express the belief that Secretary Taft's Akron speech, in which he supported Gov. Herrick's candidacy, but condemned the republican machine in Cincinnati, had a considerable effect upon the result in that city, and many others hold that this attack upon municipal bossism by a member of the president's cabinet also had a part which Mr. Taft did not intend toward helping to defeat Gov. Herrick. Mr. Taft's views are therefore very much desired, but it is doubtful if he will have anything to say when he gets back to this country. Upon his return from Ohio, after delivering his notable speech, he declined to make any comment whatever upon the stand he took. He made no secret of the fact, however, that he had not spoken hastily or without mature consideration. It is in Ohio, and to some extent in Washington, generally believed that he presented the president's views in his criticism of the methods of the Cox machine.

The most interesting topic of conversation in Washington yesterday concerned the effect Mr. Taft's part in the Ohio campaign would have upon his political future. According to information that has been received here, some Ohio republicans hold that Mr. Taft did great injury to the republican state ticket by attacking Cox, and that Mr. Taft will not receive any support from his party in his own state in any movement to secure for him the nomination for the presidency in 1908. These republicans maintain that Senator Foraker will now have no trouble in getting the indorsement of Ohio in the 1908 national convention.

On the other hand, the contention is made that Mr. Taft has helped himself immeasurably with the people of his state and the country by his frank stand against machine politics and now has a better chance of becoming a big factor in the contest for the presidential nomination than he had before. Mr. Taft has declared that he was not a candidate for the nomination, and would not become a candidate, but that has not kept people from saying that he will be a powerful factor in the party's campaign for the choice of standard bearers three years hence, whether he wants to or not.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Taylor was one of the few administration officials who were willing to comment on yesterday's results. He expressed the opinion that the way things turned out in New York, coupled with last year's victory for municipal ownership in Chicago, made it certain that in the next presidential campaign the democrats would nominate candidates on a municipal ownership and anti-trust platform.

"The results of yesterday," said Mr. Taylor, "are healthy signs of a crusade against graft and corruption in office. It is a sort of protest against machine rule. The people are getting independent and tired of political bosses. I do not think the result forebodes any disaster to the republican party, but will tend to purify the party and strengthen it. By 1908 the party will be in line to win the next campaign easily."

Silvestrelli, who is now ambassador to the court of Spain, will probably succeed him.

CANAL BOARD MEETING.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Chairman Shonts of the Isthmian canal commission will meet this afternoon. Boulger, sang the Gregorian mass, and during service appropriate selections were rendered by members of the choir. Miss Carolyn White presiding at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes; testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held and expressing the profound sorrow felt at her sudden demise. Among them were: A large pillow inscribed "Mother," from the family; large standing cross on base inscribed "Grandma," from grandson, Leo St. Ledger; spray, Mrs. Thomas Diniey; spray, James J. McManimon; spray, Mrs. Mary Callahan; spray, Furlong Bros.; large wreath, from the Sparks family.

The bearers were John, Michael and Patrick Sharkey, Timothy Dunn, Felix Ingoldsby and Mark Conmee. At the grave Rev. Fr. Mullen conducted the final obsequies and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

There was a large attendance at the funeral as the deceased was highly esteemed as an old resident, having resided there for about 50 years. She leaves six sons and one daughter, all well and favorably known. She was a native of Roscommon, Ireland, and belonged to a well known family. She was 70 years of age and those who knew her assert that her life was a long struggle for the right, fruitful in good deeds and the promotion of virtue and charity.

HE SET THE FIRE

Chamberlain Confesses to the Police

LACONIA, N. H., Nov. 9.—George G. Chamberlain of Plymouth, N. H., now in the Belknap county jail, held for trial under an indictment for attempted arson in setting a fire in the basement of the telephone block on Main street in this city Monday night, made a confession at the jail yesterday to City Marshal Gray and Ex-City Marshal Scott, admitting that he caused the fire at the large dry goods store of O. A. Louges in this city on the night of October 8.

The substance of the confession is that he entered the store through a rear basement window for the purpose of robbery on the night in question, worked his way from the rear annex into the main store with the aid of matches which he lighted, that he finally discovered a fire in the basement of the annex which he first entered, and decided to leave the place knowing that the fire had originated from matches which he had dropped in the basement, that as he left the building the blaze was under considerable headway.

Chamberlain then said he ran across a near lot and to his room on Court street. That soon the fire alarm sounded and that he left his room, called Arthur Gray, a fellow lineman of his in the employ of the telephone company, and also a member of the fire department, and went to the fire with him.

HORRIBLE MASSACRE

American Women Clubbed to Death by Rioters

HONGKONG, Nov. 9.—Dr. Machle, the American missionary who escaped the massacre at Lienchow, confirming the previous accounts of the outbreak, adds horrifying details of the atrocities committed on the American women. When the disturbances commenced the mob seized Miss Chestnut and Mrs. Machle and exposed them to public view in the Chinese Temple. Amy Machle, a ten-year-old child, was carried off and flung alive into the river. The rioters stripped Miss Chestnut naked and flung her into the river. While the two were struggling in the water three Chinamen speared them with tridents. Miss Chestnut's body and Amy Machle's head were pierced. Mrs. Machle appealed to the rioters but they stoned her brains out, stripped the body and flung it into the river. The mob then captured Mr. and Mrs. Peale, stripped them naked, exposed them for fifteen minutes, clubbed Mr. Peale to death in his wife's presence and subsequently killed Mrs. Peale in the same brutal fashion.

KILLS HIS WIFE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Walter Decker, 32 years old, a towerman, employed in the West Shore railroad yards at Weehawken, shot and killed his wife in their home at Morgan street and Hudson boulevard, Union Hill, late yesterday afternoon and then tried to kill himself by sending a bullet into his right temple. Decker was still alive at the North Hudson hospital last night. The bullet came out of his right eye, destroying his sight. The doctors think he has a chance to get well.

Decker had been drinking heavily of late and was in danger of losing his job. He did not report for duty yesterday and spent several hours in a Bergenline avenue saloon. His wife hunted him up in the afternoon and took him home. According to Mrs. Mary Brown, who lives in the house and overheard the conversation, Mrs. Decker asked her husband shortly after 4 o'clock if he had drawn his wages. He replied that he had not and offered to give her an order for the money.

A few minutes later Mrs. Brown was startled by two shots in quick succession. She ran into the dining room and saw Mrs. Decker lying dead on the kitchen floor. She had been shot in the back of the head and died almost instantly. Decker was lying in the dining room with a bullet wound in his head.

It is believed that the tragedy was the result of jealousy aggravated by too much drink.

RICHEST WOMAN

DENIES ATTEMPT TO BREAK FATHER'S WILL.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Anne M. Weightman Walker, known as the $75,000,000 heiress, and the richest woman in the world, yesterday filed her answers to the charges of Mrs. Jones Wister, her sister-in-law, and society leader. Mrs. Wister is trying to break the will of her father-in-law, the late William Weightman, the famous chemist, on the grounds of undue influence upon Mrs. Walker's part and lack of testimentary capacity.

There are some ugly assertions in Mrs. Wister's court charges, and these Mrs. Walker denies entirely. Some of the denials are:

That Mr. Weightman became possessed of an insane and morbid suspicion, hatred and jealousy of Mrs. Wister and that his mind was so poisoned by malicious misrepsentations that he allowed himself to be induced to draw up the will leaving his estate to Mrs. Walker.

That the will outrages common feeling and gives no reason why his grandchildren should be disinherited.

That the aged testator had sought the hand of Mrs. Wister in marriage after the death of her first husband, his son, and that when she married Jonas Wister he was sorely disappointed.

That this disappointment, through the influence of Mrs. Walker, was changed into the suspicion and hatred mentioned.

BEFORE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

A Large Crowd Should Attend the Hearing

The commission on industrial education appointed by the legislature on recommendation of Governor Douglas to visit the different cities of the state and test public sentiment in regard to the establishment of trade schools will give a hearing in the public hearing room in city hall this evening.

Every man who has a son whom he would have learn a useful trade should attend and give his views, if any he has on the matter, or at least attend and hear the views of others. This trade school movement is in no way antagonistic to any of the principles of organized labor and the unions are not opposed to it. There is no free public school in Lowell at which a boy may learn a trade and the movement is in the right direction.

NO REVOLUTION

Garrison at Santa Cruze Has Mutinied

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 9.—The garrison of the fortress of Santa Cruze at the entrance of the bay has mutinied. It is believed that the mutiny will be quickly suppressed. The city is perfectly quiet. There is no revolution.

The mutineers in the fortress of Santa Cruze surrendered to the authorities this morning.

The mutineers prior to their surrender killed and mutilated a lieutenant.

QUIET AT RIO JANEIRO.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Rothschild banking house today received a dispatch from Rio Janeiro as follows:

"The garrison of the fortress of Santa Cruze has revolted. So far the revolt is without political motive. The Brazilian government is acting energetically. Public feeling is calm. Exchange 161-32."

Lord Rothschild says there have been no disturbances at Rio Janeiro.

The Palace theatre is playing to good houses this week. They are giving a first class 15c show for 10c; also have the wonderful Frog Boy.

MAYOR GONE

MOB WRECKED HIS NEWSPAPER ORGAN.

MADISON, Ill., Nov. 9—Mayor Patrick Coyle, the deposed boss, has sought refuge in Missouri. The anti-Coyle forces celebrated all night long with parades, brass bands and bonfires. Shortly before midnight the crowd went to the offices of the Tri-City Advocate in the Knights of Pythias Building, on Madison street. The doors were forced, the plate glass windows smashed and the interior wrecked. Desks and type racks were overturned and the type scattered over the floor, and the motor and presses damaged.

Sam Hewitt, who keeps a saloon in the building, heard the wreckers talking about burning the building. He appeared among them and pleaded with them "not to put the old man on the bum," as he expressed it, and they decided not to apply the torch.

The Tri-City Advocate was managed by the Independent Publishing company. It was established six months ago. It supported Coyle and was regarded as his personal and official organ.

STATUE TO SATAN

Detroit Man Unveils a Monument

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 9 A monument to Satan, erected by an avowed infidel to show his contempt for religion, was the sight that greeted neighbors of Herman Menz, a contracting stonemason, when they passed his home, at 308 Stanton avenue, yesterday. People in the neighborhood knew that Menz was erecting something, but had no idea what it was until yesterday, when he unveiled the monument, and many threw up their hands in horror.

Churchgoing people are scandalized. Murmurings of indignation are freely voiced and corrective measures are being discussed. It is not impossible that Menz may wake up some morning to find his conceit in ruins. On the base of the monument is this Latin inscription:

"Homo non est creatio, sed evolutio deus non fecit hominem, sed homo fecit deos."

Translated it reads: "Man is not created, but is developed; God did not make man, but man made the Gods."

Asked why he put up the monument, Menz said:

"Isn't it as good as anything else in the way of an ornament? Would you have me put the statue of a saint up there? He is my friend," declared the old man, pointing to the statue. "He spoke the first and last truth. I do not believe a word in the Bible. It is a pack of lies from beginning to end, but Old Nick tells the truth."

The monument is about fourteen feet tall. Satan is shown in stooping posture behind a pulpit. His infernal majesty is looking over the landscape with a fiendish glare, with his horns protruding from the side of his head. Carved in the stone directly in front is the big ugly fork with which he is supposed to prod sinners in the fire.

The structure is built on the lot line alongside of Menz's home, and from his elevated position Old Nick has a commanding view of the surrounding streets and houses. Around the neck of the statue when it was unveiled was a ribbon of United States flags. Menz explained this by saying it is a Yankee devil.

Menz was born in Germany, but has lived in Detroit twenty-one years. He says his parents were infidels before him and that his wife and two daughters, who live with him, have the same belief. He says he built the house he lives in with his own hands. It bears some striking reminders of his odd characteristics, being decorated on the outside with fierce looking lions' heads and images of strange creatures.

A PROTEST

AGAINST PRES. ROOSEVELT'S RAILWAY POLICY.

DECATUR, Ala., Nov. 9.—The Alabama commercial and industrial association in its eleventh annual convention yesterday protested indirectly against President Roosevelt's policy of federal regulation of railways, characterized railways as the greatest developers of the country and defeated by a decisive majority the passage of a resolution that condemned alleged discriminations in Alabama freight rates.

James H. Patton of Boston, assistant secretary of the immigration restriction league, addressed the convention.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—In addition to the claim made by Wm. Ellis, the Australian bookmaker, on the property of Milton Franklin Andrews, who killed his female companion and committed suicide on Monday last, when about to be arrested for alleged murders in the east, two other claimants have appeared. One is his wife, living at Holyoke, Mass., and the other, his brother in blood, Alvin E. Andrews, who lives at Hartford, Conn. The chief of police at Holyoke, Mass., has wired the local authorities to that effect. The property consists of clothing, diamonds worth about $800, a valuable watch and $125 in cash.

WON THE RACE

Woman Succeeded in Boarding Cymeric

BOSTON, Nov. 9 Though the White Star liner Cymric was well out into the stream today on her way to Liverpool, that fact did not deter a young woman who gave the name of Miss Tarbolton, of Australia, from boarding the steamship and she immediately set out in pursuit.

A carriage was driven furiously down to the end of the pier as the Cymric was passing out this morning and the young woman leaped out of the vehicle.

"Are you a passenger?" Agent Early asked.

"Yes, and I must catch the ship," the woman replied.

Then she hurried to the end of the pier and signalled for a tug. After some moments the boat was at the pier and Miss Tarbolton went on board and began the pursuit of the Cymric. Meantime, the passengers of the big liner had become aware of the young woman's determination to join them on their eastward journey and they were leaning over the railings alert and interested. A long rope ladder was suspended over the steamship's side and finally the tug reached the side of the steamer. Miss Tarbolton grasped the end of the ladder and amid cheers of the spectators climbed slowly up to the deck where upon her arrival she was given a renewed demonstration.

MATRON'S STORY

Told at the Prison Investigation

WINDSOR, Vt., Nov. 9.—The state prison investigation by the special legislative committee was resumed here today after a week's adjournment. It has been expected that Mrs. Mary A. Rogers, under sentence of death for the murder of her husband Marcus, would take the stand to testify as to certain alleged irregular proceedings in the institution, but it was the opinion today of many of the committee that her testimony would not be necessary. The first witness called today was Miss Durkee, the matron, who testified about the alleged confession made by Mrs. Rogers concerning implied relations with Vernon Rogers, a convict. It has been said that Mrs. Rogers had confessed verbally to Miss Durkee and then, at the latter's request, had written a confession. It has been charged that Miss Durkee had kept back in her report of the confession certain statements concerning Warden E. D. Harpin. This Miss Durkee denied.

Mrs. Georgia Loukes, one of the employes at the prison, gave testimony to conversations Mrs. Rogers held with Attorney General Clark C. Fitts in regard to the confession. Statements dealing with the alleged laxity of discipline in the institution were made during the morning session by Mrs. Carrie Foster and Mrs. Lydford, two cell-mates of Mrs. Rogers. Each testified to seeing Mrs. Rogers on different occasions entering the room of Miss Kimball, formerly an assistant matron, where the witnesses testified Mrs. Rogers would remain for some time.

Among the other witnesses heard before the noon adjournment was taken were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barry. Barry at one time was a prisoner at the Windsor institution and his wife was an employe. Their testimony dealt with alleged improper proposals said to have been made to Mrs. Barry by Warden Harpin. Harpin took the stand before adjournment and denied that he had ever improper relations with or made improper proposals to Mrs. Barry.

NEW LORD MAYOR

Was Inaugurated in London Today

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Alderman Walter Vaughan Morgan was inaugurated lord mayor of London today, succeeding Sir John Pound, with all the time honored ceremonies. The procession to the law courts where the oath of office was taken was imposing and the route was lined by immense crowds. Among the floats was one typifying peace that was draped with immense American flags, a tribute to President Roosevelt's success in ending the war in the Far East.

PERILOUS TRIP

OF THE AUXILIARY CANADIAN CRUISER NEPTUNE.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 9—The auxiliary Canadian cruiser Neptune arrived here today after a perilous voyage into Hudson Bay which the cruiser entered later in the season than any other vessel is known to have done. The Neptune entered there October 3. On board the cruiser was Major Moodie, governor of Hudson Bay. He made the trip to supply winter stores to the remote police posts in the Hudson Bay country. Twice the Neptune struck against rocks and was leaking badly on arriving here. The Neptune was formerly a whaler.

Two magistrates will alternate on the bench in the disposal of the election cases. There are 288 defendants charged with fraud at the polls and beginning today a full investigation will be made of every case.

MAN KILLED

BOY WITH FRACTURED SKULL IS IN HOSPITAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 A man, supposed to be George Hannon, a painter, was killed yesterday by falling from a scaffold at 417 West 140th street, and his helper, John Leslie, 16 years old is in the J. Hood Wright hospital with a fractured skull. They were both at work at the second story of a private house owned by John P. Lee and occupied by C. Victor Twiss.

A citizen told a policeman of the accident. By the time an ambulance arrived the man was dead. The boy was unconscious and nobody could tell just how the accident happened. Some one told the policeman that the man and boy had been seen fighting on the scaffold over the result of the election.

Charles Hess of 727 East 34st street, the contractor who had charge of the building at 417 West 140th street, was arrested yesterday and taken to the West 125th street station, charged with criminal negligence. He was released by the coroner on $1000 bail. No explanation of his arrest was given.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY

OF THE A. G. POLLARD & CO. BENEFIT ASSOCIATION.

The second anniversary of the A. G. Pollard & Co. Mutual Benefit association was marked by a social and dance at Prescott hall last evening. The affair was very largely attended and a genuine good time was enjoyed by all present. Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Pollard, Miss Libby Dunlap, and Mr. Harry Pollard were in the receiving line as special guests. The orchestra gave a concert from 8 to 8.30.

The dance order contained 20 numbers, each of which was thoroughly enjoyed. The intermission came at 10.15 and refreshments were served.

RAILROAD STRIKE

INAUGURATED AT VIENNA DELAYS TRAFFIC.

VIENNA, Nov. 9.—The "Passive resistance" strike movement became effective on the railroads today at the Vienness stations. Already the traffic delays are serious. Reports from Bohemia say the situation is serious and rapidly growing worse. The government is preparing for possible disorders. Troops are being got in readiness for active service and further reinforcements are being sent to Prague where a general strike is threatened in support of the demand for universal suffrage.

MISSIONARY CIRCLE.

A meeting of the Woman's Missionary circle of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. S. B. Puffer at the corner of School and Middlesex streets. Mrs. H. L. Tibbetts conducted the devotional exercises after which papers were read on "Mexico," the subject of the day's discussion, by Miss Ida Goucher, Mrs. H. C. Fuller and Mrs. Larkin T. Trull. Miss Fannie Trull read a paper on Porto Rico. Mrs. Thompson read letters from her daughter, who is a missionary in Monterey, Mexico. Mrs. O. C. F. Wallace gave a short missionary talk. It was voted to send a barrel to an orphans' home in South Carolina.

Specimens of Mexican work were shown and were much admired by the ladies present.

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

CHELMSFORD FIRE.

A one and one-half story house in Billerica street, Chelmsford Centre, belonging to A. B. Adams, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The house was occupied by Mrs. E. A. Griffin and her five children.

The fire was discovered in a room on the ground floor and in all probability was caused by an overheated stove.

The village aid was effective in removing the furniture, in saving the ell of the house, but the main part was consumed. Mrs. Griffin and family are being cared for at the houses of neighbors. The losses are partly covered by insurance.

BOSTON MARKET.

BOSTON, Nov. 9—The early Boston market was weak, the selling pressure inaugurated in the late trading yesterday being still manifest. There was a fair volume of trading. Daly West stood alone as the strong card, advancing on western buying orders. The general list was neglected. The loaning rates indicated an increase in the short interest which serves to keep the money rates comparatively low. Trading on the curb was light.

TWO STRONG MEN

The Career of McClellan and Jeromo

FORMER ACTIVE IN CONGRESS

Jeromo is a Graduate of Amherst

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 The municipal campaign just ended has been one of the most exciting and fiercely contested in the history of the city. It has been unusual in many of its features. The past careers of McClellan and Jerome and the promises to the people on which they made their fight are as follows:

George B. McClellan, son of the Union leader General McClellan, who was afterward governor of New Jersey. Has had a long and varied public career in New York city, although still a comparatively young man. He was educated for the bar at Princeton, and was graduated there in 1886; his alma mater conferred the degree of LL. D., upon him after his first election to the mayoralty. Mr. McClellan has held the following offices: Treasurer of the Brooklyn bridge, 1892-93; president of the board of aldermen, 1893-94; member of the 54th, 55th, 56th, 57th and 58th congresses for the 12th congressional districts of New York city. His energy and educational qualifications made him a prominent member of congress, and it is generally admitted that he made himself distinctly useful to the country while a congressman. He was a member of the important ways and means committee; also a member of the committee on military affairs and that on library of the house of representatives. Mr. McClellan took a firm position as a sound money democrat in congress.

Mr. McClellan was still a member of congress when in 1903 he was elected mayor of New York. As mayor and as candidate for the office, his professed ambition has always been to give the city a "clean business administration," has not laid claim to the title of reformer, nor has he particularly professed independence of Tammany Hall. Some of his department appointments in his first term were so bad that they would have belied any such professions had he made them; in other departments he has selected some good men, and on the whole his appointments seem to evidence in his mind a struggle and compromise between his innate integrity and what he regards as the practical necessities of his political future. His handling of the police department is a nice illustration of the process. He selected an honest and capable commissioner, but in the appointment of deputy commissioners and in the interference of politics with the relations between the commissioner and the captains, much of the good which the commissioner's personal efforts might have accomplished was lost. The mayor has opposed gambling and other forms of city lawlessness.

With the possible exception of his approval of the Remsen gas bill, most, if not all, of Mayor McClellan's decisions on public questions have met with popular approbation. As partly offsetting his action in that matter, he approved in the spring of the current year a bill resulting from the Stevens committee investigation and fixing the price of gas in the city at 75 cents; has also taken a leading part in establishing the municipal street lighting plant now under construction and vetoed a renewal of the Consolidated Gas Co.'s lighting contract approved by Commissioner Oakley, whom he retained in office. He vetoed a volunteer fireman's bill which had met with general condemnation and vetoed the Elsberg bill taking the franchise-granting power out of the hands of the board of aldermen and placing it with the board of estimate and apportionment, largely because of a visit from attorneys of the Pennsylvania railroad, who, he alleged, tried to secure his signature by threats. He strongly supported the cause of municipal ferries for Staten Island and for Brooklyn at 39th street; his attitude toward municipal ownership in general is that "where individual effort and private enterprise can accomplish the same result as government, government has no right to interfere; where, however, public utilities conducted by private enterprise fail in giving the people an adequate service, then I believe it is the duty of government to control."

WILLIAM TRAVERS JEROME—Re-elected to office on his record as district attorney for his first term, has become one of the best-known figures in the public life of the day, not only in this city or the eastern states, but from a national standpoint as well. It was Jerome who first sounded the keynote of the campaign just closed, which has been unmistakably that of renunciation of party allegiance and freedom from rule of the bosses. Mr. Jerome announced that he would run independently as a candidate for office, regardless of the action of the conventions, and pledged himself not to accept an obligation to any man or set of men. While it would be going too far to say that Mr. Jerome gave the campaign as a whole its character, it is admitted on all sides that the fierceness of his onslaught upon bosses led other candidates to lay much more stress upon their independence of boss rule than they would otherwise have done. Mr. Jerome has made no specific promises as to what he would do if returned to office, other than his general statements that he would continue to conduct his office as during the first term, without fear or favor, and with all possible effort to secure the conviction of evidence of high or low degree. Thus his promises have not been so much at issue as his character as a man and an officer of the law, while he has resisted every effort of his opponents to drive him into one or another of the three mayoralty processions.

Mr. Jerome was educated at Amherst college, and studied for the bar at Columbia University, where he was graduated in 18—. He was elected a justice of the court of special sessions in 1902 and his record on the bench brought his ability and integrity to the notice of the good government forces of the community. In 1901, as candidate for district attorney on the Low fusion ticket, he conducted a "whirlwind" campaign that had much to do with the success of the entire ticket. Both republican and democratic leaders refused to nominate Jerome this year, but the former withdrew his own candidate, Charles A. Flammer, after it was too late to get Jerome's name in the place of Flammer's on the official ballot.

Among the notable convictions which Mr. Jerome has secured are those of the following: Robert Ammon, accomplice of "Big Six" Miller; Albert Adams, the "policy king," head of a gambling syndicate that preyed chiefly upon the poor; Larry Summerfield and several of his associates, veteran flimflammers of great resource; David Rothschild, who looted the Federal bank, and Samuel Parks, Phil Weihsheimer and others who posed as labor leaders and were convicted of extortion. Mr. Jerome and his assistants practically broke up the East Side traffic in girls by sending a number of "cadets" to the penitentiary. His conduct of his office has repeatedly been indorsed by lawyers of the highest standing for its expeditious and impartial methods.

The charge was made during the campaign by Candidate Osborne that Mr. Jerome's candidacy was backed by the life insurance companies, who felt secure against prosecution for irregularities revealed by the Armstrong investigation if Jerome were re-elected. To the questions why he has not moved against the officials of these companies, Mr. Jerome has replied that the success of the cleaning up has depended upon the completion of the committee's search for evidence before the bringing of criminal charges, which would enable witnesses to take refuge behind their constitutional privilege of refusing to answer questions which might tend to incriminate them; he has added that a prosecution begun during or just before the campaign would have been received as a "play to the galleries." Not the least interesting feature of Mr. Jerome's re-election is the fact that grand jury business of the greatest magnitude and highest importance awaits his attention.

GRAND CARNIVAL

Started in Aid of St. John's Church

Grand Street Parade Preceded Opening of Festivities in Town Hall—Mayor Casey in a Runaway Accident

The carnival in aid of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, opened most auspiciously in the town hall of the village, last evening, with over 500 persons present. A grand street parade preceded the exercises in the hall, participated in by the different societies of the town and church. The carnival will continue for three nights and judging from the crowd present and the business done on the opening evening the affair will be the most successful in the history of the parish.

In the parade were the members of St. John's T. A. society and Court Wannalancit, M. C. O. F., Samuel P. Seymour was to have been chief marshal but was unavoidably absent and James F. Leahey officiated in his place. The parade was led by the North Chelmsford band, under the direction of Hubert Bearce.

The route was from St. John's hall in Branch street, to Church street. As the parade came to the parochial residence of St. John's church, it halted for a few minutes. Mayor James B. Casey of Lowell was an invited guest for the opening of the carnival, and he arrived in North Chelmsford during the latter part of the afternoon, and was the guest of Rev. Edmund T. Schofield for supper. There were two barouches in the parade.

In the first rode the mayor, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, Rev. John McNamara and John E. Sherlock, the general manager of the carnival. In the second barouche rode Col. James H. Carmichael of Lowell, Dr. O'Hearn of Lowell, Selectman James P. Dunigan and Frank A. Mallory, chairman of the reception committee. The marshal for the St. John's T. A. society was John E. Harrington, and the marshal for Court Wannalancit was James B. McQuaid.

From the parochial residence the parade passed along to Main street to Princeton street to the town hall. As the barouche containing Mayor Casey the two clergymen, and the general manager stopped in front of the hall door, the horses became frightened at some red fire that was burning close by and they made a dash to run away, but they ran only a few feet when they were stopped, and the only damage done was to the harness of one of the horses, which was broken.

All along the line of the parade, red fire was burned, and gave the village a lively appearance.

Seats on the stage were taken by the clergymen and invited guests and the carnival was formally opened by Selectman James P. Dunigan, who welcomed all in a neat address. He also took occasion to thank his fellow-townsmen for the handsome vote given him in Chelmsford. Brief remarks were then made by Rev. Fr. Schofield, Rev. Fr. McNamara, Mayor Casey and Col. Carmichael. The guests were then entertained at the refreshment table after which the following concert program was enjoyed:

James E. Donnelly, song; William F. Thornton, reading; John Drury, [illegible]; Miss Marie O'Donnell, violin solo; [illegible] Blanche Kelly, song; Miss [illegible] Lowe, reading; Miss Lizzie [illegible], song; Frank Dolan, cornet solo.

The visitors from Lowell then visited all the tables and were very liberal in their patronage.

The interior of the hall was very handsomely decorated for the occasion. Large streamers of red, white and blue bunting were strung from the cluster of electric lights in the centre of the hall, to the side walls. The stage decorations were red, white and blue in the back part, while in the front of the stage were red, white and blue, together with green and white bunting.

The first table on the left of the entrance was the candy table, which did a fine business. The next table to attract one's attention was the St. John's Total Abstinence Society's table, which looked beautiful. Next to the temperance table was the Young Ladies' Sodality table, which also presented a striking appearance. Besides the sodality table was the fishing pond.

On the right side, near the stage, was the parish table, and it looked very pretty. Next to the parish table was the table of Court Wannalancit. One of the side features was the Japanese ping pong table, and the other side feature was the novelty table.

Those in charge of the affair were: Chairman of general committee, John D. Harrington; secretary, James F. Leahey; treasurer, William H. Quigley; general manager, John E. Sherlock; assistant general managers, Stephen T. Ward and Mrs. William J. Quigley.

KEATING SAFE

HAD BEEN MISSING FOR FOUR MONTHS.

NEWTON, Nov. 9—After having been missing from his home at 462 Langley road, Newton Centre, since June 29, Dennis Keating, a gardener employed by Richard M. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill, has returned to this city to his family, who feared that he had met foul play.

Aided by the police of this city and Boston members of the family scoured the large cities and hospitals in the state, hoping to find some trace of his whereabouts, but to no avail.

Last week, however, Keating's son received a letter from his father stating that he was in a hospital at Bridgeport, Conn., and desired to come home. He closed by asking his family to forgive his extended absence.

The son immediately went to Bridgeport and returned bringing the elder Keating with him. The family were not inclined to talk about the cause of the man's disappearance. How he reached Bridgeport or why he went to that city is not known.

BOGUS "LORD"

SAID TO HAVE BEEN MARRIED TO SEVERAL WOMEN.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 9—Whether the charming "Lord Birtie Cavendish," who, after a two days' courtship, convinced Miss Gladys Simmons of this place that he loved her, and after a ceremony took her away into Central Mexico, since which she has not been heard from, is the notorious "Lord Douglas," known to have victimized at least five women into marriage, all of whom are living, is what the detective bureau and the young woman's friends are trying to decide.

Lord Birtie, who later told of his name being Cavendish, of gold mines in Mexico and of diamond mines in South Africa, of fighting on the Boer side in the war, and of being prevented from inheriting an English estate, registered at a local hotel and in just 48 hours led Miss Simmons to the altar.

With her entire possessions, amounting to several hundred dollars, they started, ostensibly to visit the "lord's" mines in Mexico, but they have not been heard from since.

The girl's friends fear for her safety, as it is quite certain that they crossed the border into Mexico, and it is feared she may have been deserted and robbed of her money.

GUARDED BY POLICE

Hearst Men Presented Order of Judge Gaynor—The Police Immediately Produced the Ballot Boxes and Confusion Followed—Wild Reports Conciliated by the Hearst Men

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Aided by an array of legal talent in which are lawyers of great prominence not only as masters of their profession, but also as leaders in more than one movement for good government in this city, Wm. R. Hearst has begun his fight in the courts for the mayoralty, which he believes he won on Tuesday, and his first step has created a situation apparently without precedent. Last night he obtained an order from Justice Gaynor of the supreme court directing the police to turn over all ballot boxes to the board of elections at once. The police obeyed the order as far as they could, but when they proceeded in the after-midnight hours to the election board's office there was none there to take charge of the boxes and the policemen had to remain in the street for hours guarding the repositories of the people's vote. Later, John R. Voorhis, president of the board, declined to accept responsibility in them after pending advice from the corporation counsel. Mr. Voorhis is a democrat, and when his decision was made known the Hearst men turned to Charles W. Page, a republican member of the board, but he also declined to act and then the police were left in the strange position of trying to carry out the court's orders, but unable to do so. The street in the vicinity of the election board offices presented a strange sight as hundreds of policemen stood on guard around the patrol wagons and other vehicles in which the boxes had been conveyed from the precinct station houses.

Mr. Hearst's order was obtained from Justice Gaynor after the circulation of a story that a printing firm had been turning out large numbers of facsimile of the official ballot and that these were to be marked for McClellan and placed in the ballot boxes in place of Hearst ballots to be removed. The moment this rumor reached the Hearst headquarters it was decided that the ballots ought not to remain longer in the station houses and the application to Justice Gaynor was made as quickly as the papers could be drawn up. Among the attorneys aiding Hearst is Wm. M. Ivins, the republican candidate for mayor in Tuesday's election. Mr. Ivins volunteered his services to Mr. Hearst and the offer was accepted. Another attorney acting for Hearst is John F. Dillon who was at one time judge of the supreme court of Iowa.

WAS OBEYED BY THE NEW YORK POLICE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Sensational developments followed rapidly this morning in the fight of Wm. R. Hearst to contest the mayoralty election of George B. McClellan. Having secured last night an order from Justice Gaynor in Brooklyn, directing the police department to deliver the ballot boxes to the board of elections forthwith, the Hearst men lost no time in despatching fifty automobiles carrying men armed with the court's order to the various police stations where they demanded the ballot boxes. In most instances the officers in charge at police stations directed that the boxes be placed in patrol wagons and each lot guarded by five policemen hurried to the office of the board of elections at 107 West Forty-first street. Meantime other Hearst men had gone to the home of John R. Voorhis, president of the board of elections, at 786 Greenwich street, arousing him, asked him to immediately go to his office and receive the ballot boxes as fast they reached his office. President Voorhis was surprised at the peremptory demand and was quickly informed of the court's order. Later he appeared at a window and addressing the Hearst men, who fairly surrounded the house, said that he would not go to the office of the bureau of elections at such an unreasonable hour, but that he would appear at his office and open the same at 9 o'clock, the usual hour today. At 8 o'clock this morning, wagons and automobiles filled with ballot boxes, police officers and Hearst watchers began to arrive at the office of the board of elections and an hour later, West Forty-first street in that vicinity, was fairly impassable. Unable to get rid of their charges there was nothing for the police to do but to await the opening of the office and as every twelve or fourteen boxes were guarded by five policemen, a most impressive array of officers were soon in evidence. As the morning advanced the balance of the 8000 boxes continued to arrive and Hearst watchers as numerous as the police helped to swell the crowd which was further added to as the report spread that some startling political move had been made necessitating a great body of officers at the office of the board of elections.

When they failed to secure the presence of President Voorhis, Hearst men called upon A. C. Allen, chief clerk of the board at his home on 89th street. Mr. Allen could do nothing for them and expressed the opinion that the court order had resulted from a misunderstanding. He said that a literal compliance with the order would be impossible as the 8000 ballot boxes used in Greater New York could not by any means be gotten into the room occupied by the board. His understanding of the law, he said, was that the boxes should remain in the possession of the police for six months following an election. He could give no advice as to the immediate disposition of the fast accumulating boxes and thought that there was nothing to do but to await the opening of the board's office and let President Voorhis decide what to do with the 8000 ballot boxes.

It was said this morning that the sudden move made by Mr. Hearst last night followed a report received by him that a printing company had been at work Tuesday night printing ballots. The report was further to the effect that the ballot boxes were to be opened while in the hands of the police and stuffed. Mr. Hearst decided to act at once.

The order secured from Judge Gaynor directed the police commissioner and all his subordinates in the five boroughs to turn over to the board of elections forthwith all ballot boxes containing ballots and stubs of ballots, and also to file with the county clerk before noon today all envelopes containing tally sheets, inspectors' returns, defective ballots and ballots marked for identification.

The order was issued on the affidavit of Mr. Hearst himself. The affidavit states Mr. Hearst's belief that he received a plurality of the votes, but that according to the returns, 3000 more votes than he himself received were counted for Mr. McClellan.

Captain Cruise, in charge of police headquarters, read the order to Commissioner McAdoo, over the telephone. The commissioner's reply was an order to the captain directing him to read the Gaynor order over the telephone to the captains. Mr. Hearst and Max Ihmsen left the Hoffman house for their homes as soon as the last of the men had left for the police stations. The headquarters were then closed.

Mr. Voorhis is a democrat and president of the board of elections. After he had declined to leave his home and go to the board's offices to accept custody of the ballot boxes, an appeal was made to Charles W. Page, a republican member, but he too, was unwilling to take custody of the boxes. Mr. Voorhis told the representatives of Mr. Hearst who called at his home that he construed the order of Justice Gaynor to mean that in directing the delivery of the boxes by noon today, opportunity was left to the Tammany forces up to that hour to seek to obtain an order to show cause why the boxes should not be delivered.

When the drivers and policemen guarding the wagons found that the unwillingness of President Voorhis to open the office meant a long wait out in the cold for them, they were angry, but they made the best of it. Col. Alexander S. Bacon, one of Mr. Hearst's lawyers, who played a prominent part in the doings of the night made a plan for the police to get breakfast in a nearby restaurant. Police Captain Becker of Brooklyn who came over with the load of ballot boxes from his station, to make sure that they were cared for and who was the senior police officer, present, assumed charge of the situation, and did what he could to bring order out of the confusion caused by the unusual situation.

John R. Voorhis, president of the board of elections, refused early today to receive the official ballot-boxes. Before refusing he consulted Police Commissioner McAdoo, Atty.-General Mayer, corporation counsel Delaney and Supt. of Elections Morgan were notified of the situation and the boxes were kept in the police-wagons in front of the office of the board of elections, pending a decision by the corporation counsel.

Mr. Voorhis said, that the New York state supreme court had held in a recent decision that the board of elections is not the proper custodian of the boxes but that the police are.

When Mr. Voorhis refused to accept the ballot boxes he ordered that they be returned to the police station houses. At that time twenty-five police wagons were lined up in front of the office of the board of elections and policemen were unloading some of them. When they learned of the order of Mr. Voorhis they placed the boxes in the wagons again but did not at once return them to the police stations.

Mr. Voorhis said he had asked the corporation counsel for an opinion as to whether he should receive the boxes and would not accept them until he had received that opinion.

President Voorhis said that even if the legal decision should be that his board must receive the ballot boxes, he would have them sent under police guard to some strong place other than his office, which was too small for the purpose.

In Brooklyn also, the ballot boxes were not accepted by the board of elections. Here however, the board permitted the police to carry the boxes into its rooms in the Temple Bar building. The police had to guard the ballots because the clerks of the election board were instructed by election commissioner Michael Dady not to give any receipt for the boxes. By six o'clock this morning all the ballot boxes were in the offices under guard and Mr. Dady had gone to New York to confer with Commissioner Voorhis upon the situation.

It was reported that many of the ballot boxes in Brooklyn were not properly sealed and that their covers were merely pasted down, making it possible for any person to open the box and close it again without detection. The law requires that the boxes be closed with sealing wax.

Shortly before noon extra police to keep order in the vicinity of the ballot boxes in Manhattan were called. For three blocks near 41st street, Sixth avenue was lined with ballot box wagons and extra lines were forming east and west of 41st street.

TWO NIGHTS' FAIR

Opened at Y. M. C. A. Last Evening

Woman's Auxiliary is in Charge

The two nights' fair in aid of the new building fund, under the direction of the Woman's auxiliary of the local Y. M. C. A. was opened in the association building last evening and was a tremendous success. Over 1000 tickets have been sold for the affair, which extends over this evening and hundreds were in attendance last evening, including a most fashionable gathering. The ladies had worked untiringly to carry out elaborate plans and they met with complete success. The hall and adjoining rooms in which the festivities were held were picturesquely decorated, while the many young women in charge of the different features and booths were charmingly gowned.

The fun opened with supper which was served from 6 o'clock until 8 and several hundred partook of the bountiful menu provided. Mrs. Burton A. Kinney was mistress of ceremonies and she was ably assisted by Mrs. J. H. Blake.

The wants of the patrons of the dining hall were attended to in faultless manner by the following named young ladies who served as waitresses: Misses Alice J. Fleming, Jessie McAdams, Jennie M. Walker, Jessie Fraser, Mary R. Campbell, Bertha E. Walker, Anna E. Irving, May Irving, Lena Danforth, Mattie Barris, Ina Jamieson, Blanche Fleming and Faith Doty.

The sale was on from 7 o'clock until 10 and during the evening French's orchestra furnished an agreeable concert program. Perhaps the most popular table last evening was the Japanese pagoda in the centre of the hall, and in charge of Miss Grace Hatch and a charming corps of young ladies. This table had many innovations in the way of novelties, but the best attraction was the Chinese laundry, where a miniature "Chink" manipulated by the nimble fingers of Miss Hatch, was the inducement for one to spend money. The Chinaman's proposition was something similar to the fish pond and grab bag ideas and so great was his business that he sold out long before closing up time arrived.

The fancy table, in charge of Mrs. C. E. Meader, was well patronized, and Mrs. Henry Fuller's flower table was a financial success. The apron table was in charge of Mrs. N. W. Peabody. Mrs. Eugene F. Ferrin had charge of the souvenir table, and Mrs. W. E. Morse of the candy table. These ladies were ably assisted by a large corps of ladies.

The fair continues this afternoon and evening. Special arrangements have been made by the management for the entertainment of children this afternoon. An entertainment of interest to the little folks will be given, and ice cream and other goodies will be available. This evening supper will be served again, followed by the sale and a concert.

HEROE'S ACT

TWO SEAMEN COMMENDED BY SECRETARY BONAPARTE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Secretary Bonaparte has written letters to two enlisted men on the battleship Ohio, commending them for their heroic conduct in rescuing a fellow bluejacket from drowning. While the Ohio was off Taku, China, recently, J. Clegg and A. I. Froman, ordinary seamen, were thrown into the water by the breaking of a staging rope. Froman attempted to rescue Clegg, but the latter seized him around the neck. Frederick W. Klaus, another sailor, jumped overboard and saved Clegg, Froman saving himself. The bravery of Froman and Klaus has been personally recognized by the secretary.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

To say that the popular comedy, "When We Were Twenty-One," which is being played this week at the Academy of Music by the members of the Huntington-DeDeyn Stock Company, is good, is putting it in a very light manner and does not do justice to either the author or the members of the company now playing the piece. The piece as well as the rendition is excellent and the pen cannot bring forth the good qualities of the piece or the manner in which it is played. The only way to appreciate the production is to witness one of the performances.

To those who are unfamiliar with Nat Goodwin's great success, it might be well to mention the plot of the play—that is, if it might be called a plot. A young man, called The Imp, is left to the care of a Richard Carew, who undertakes to guide the young man along the right path, but naturally he strays away and though engaged to a young lady of excellent character, marries a burlesque queen. Carew and his friends do their best to prevent the marriage, but arrive too late. The actress upon finding that the Imp hasn't any money casts him aside for a former lover.

Phyllis, whom the Imp was to marry, prefers Carew with the result that a marriage takes place and matters are straightened out to the satisfaction of everybody. For the benefit of the hundreds of patrons who were disappointed at not receiving tickets last week owing to the large houses, it might be well to advise them to make an early application at the box office, or have their names placed on the subscription list.

Coachman Has Gone Into Bankruptcy

BOSTON, Nov. 9. There are few families that can have a coachman able to go into bankruptcy with liabilities to the tune of $85,811.81, as John J. Merrigan, coachman to Mrs Louisa A. Kohl of 42 Marion street, Brookline, has just done.

There is a certain amount of mystery about the affair that those who could seem indisposed to explain, but according to Mr. Merrigan himself, in an interview with a reporter, he has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the U. S. district court, admitting that he has assets to the extent of only $200, and these in the form of household furniture, which being exempt, he professes to be unable to pay the $30 fee for filing the petition.

Mr. Merrigan was for many years coachman for the late John A. Kohl, vice-president of the Houghton brewing company of Roxbury, and he still fills that useful and responsible position for Mrs. Kohl, who lives in a costly and beautiful house in Brookline, not far from the village.

Of Mr. Merrigan's total liabilities $75,600 is secured, $9806 unsecured and $608 is for taxes. The unsecured claims are for small amounts, for merchandise, repairs and money loaned. The largest secured creditors are Mrs. Louisa Kohl and her daughter, executors under the will of the deceased brewer, who had some sort of financial dealings with his coachman that is said to have led up to the present situation.

The claim just referred to is for $26,000 and is secured by mortgages on property on Aspinwall avenue and Harvard street Brookline, some of which mortgages have become overdue and have been foreclosed.

Other secured creditors are H. M. Squire of Brookline, $22,000; the Boston Penny Savings bank, $6700; D. W. Chever, 30 Court street, Boston, $3500; all secured by mortgages on the property above referred to.

That there is apparently the best of feeling existing between the coachman and the principal creditors appears in the fact that he is at his duties about the Kohl place every day.

FOR THE GOOD OF LOWELL

WHAT IS MOST NEEDED

In order to make our city prosperous we want a greater diversity of industries; we want industries that pay higher wages than do the cotton mills; and to induce such industries to locate here, we should offer the most liberal terms in regard to sites, buildings and railroad facilities.

Too long has the prosperity of our city been linked with that of the cotton mills. Now that we are a city of about 100,000 inhabitants with unrivalled facilities and resources for manufacturing industries of every description, we should bend our efforts to the establishment of new lines of industry so that a depression or a temporary shutdown of the cotton mills may not be regarded in the nature of a calamity.

In regard to new industries let it be remembered that enterprise and public spirit are needed on the part of our own citizens. If we cannot induce a sufficient number of new industries to come here, let us establish new industries for ourselves. Do not mind if the beginnings be small; some of the best industries in Lowell today arose from small beginnings.

In spite of having re-elected McClellan mayor of New York, Tammany was hit hard in Tuesday's election, having let the board of aldermen pass into republican control. Besides it lost a large number of state assemblymen while the election of Jerome is a guarantee that for Tammany there are lively times ahead.

John B. Moran's victory over Sughrue for district-attorney of Suffolk county was one of the surprises of the Boston election. Sughrue was endorsed by both parties and was regarded as a most able and popular man, but his opponent came out as a second Jerome, promising to stop bribery, corruption and vice and to drive out the murderous malpractice dens that infest the city. With the indignation caused by the Geary case the game worked like a charm and so it is that John B. Moran will be district attorney for the next two years.

THE OVERSEERS AND THEIR SUCCESSORS.

For better or for worse the overseers of the poor and every official and employe of the pauper department, are elected to go out of office on the fifteenth day of next January.

It is not always easy to foretell just how any new act will work in practice; but here is the guarantee that the new method of conducting the business of the pauper department will not be a failure—to wit, that the public is aroused upon the question and determined to see that the poor of the city shall be properly looked after without such extravagance as has been shown in the management of the pauper department for many years past.

The expense of the farm itself, and the unreasonably large amount expended for outdoor relief would suffice to condemn the institution in the estimation of every honest citizen; but the wrangling among the overseers, the exhibitions of asinine folly and the continuous dickering and trading over the offices, so disgusted the people at large that they longed for the opportunity to wipe the entire board out of existence.

That they did with a whoop, as it were, and so we move forward to new conditions. At present the cost per capita of the inmates is the largest in the state and the new board while providing necessary relief for the poor will be expected to reduce expenses, to cut off all unnecessary grafts and run the department upon an economical basis.

That the five members of the board are to be appointed for from one to five years need not worry anybody as they are all removable at the pleasure of the mayor and the mayor, whoever he may be, will find it mighty uncomfortable if he permits any abuse to lift its head in the department.

The full term will be reserved only for the member of the new board who does his full duty. To use the place for the purposes of graft would be a proper cause for removal by the mayor.

The public will look to the mayor alone for results as he has absolute control of the new board to be known as the board of charities.

It is the first time in which such an important department shall have been placed in charge of a body subject entirely to the pleasure of the mayor. The experiment will be watched with interest. The principle is new to Lowell, and we contend that it is necessary to place such authority in the hands of the mayor as agent of the people so that they can tell where the responsibility rests. With the board just abolished, the body was responsible only to the people and though they betrayed the people's interests there was no remedy. The new method will place the responsibility on the mayor's shoulders, and if he abuses it; if he uses the power thus vested in him for selfish or political purposes, his tenure of office will be brief and he will go down on the first opportunity in ignominious defeat. The people do not want this department to be the football of politics and they will not have it such. It is just to prevent such condition that the old board was abolished. The new board so far from taking power away from the people brings the power more close to the people by placing it entirely and absolutely in control of the mayor, their chief executive and agent, and if they cannot trust him is there anybody who can be trusted?

As to the character of the new board, the members should be above suspicion—men and women of probity, tolerance and humanity. They should be possessed of that spirit of christian charity which revolts at the idea of leaving the deserving poor to suffer while a lot of official red tape is being evolved. The members in order to carry out the wishes of the public in regard to economy and the proper care of the poor, should possess sufficient business capacity to ensure the successful performance of the work. We believe that the board should have at least two women and that it should have no clergymen for the reason that if one denomination were represented on the board, the others would claim an equal privilege. We believe also that public sentiment is opposed to the employment of any of the present or past executive officials of the department as to the appointment on the board of any former overseer. The public demands an entirely new administration and this we believe is necessary to the successful application of the new law.

SEEN AND HEARD

The excitement over the state election has almost subsided at the present time and now every one turns his thoughts to the city election.

The six days' race will be on in another month and while Lowell has been represented in the great international race for the past three years it looks as though we would be out of the running this year owing to the fact that Speicetville will be the home of Pat Keegan during the race.

What is more annoying than to go to a theatre and sit in front of a person who has seen the performance before and who keeps telling in advance what is going to happen?

"Murder! Murder! Help! Police!" were the cries which startled the writer as he passed through Hildreth street the other evening. With an incentive for news the reporter rushed up the street in the direction whence the dire shrieks emanated, expecting to find two or more people in a deadly struggle with the result that there would be a good story for the following day, but investigation proved that it was nothing more or less than a family quarrel. It is needless to say that drink was the cause.

The Manchester Union thus describes the cosmopolitan character of New York:

It has often been asserted of London that it contains more Irish than Dublin, and the idea has been expanded and applied to New York, which is declared to have more Germans than Dresden, more Italians than Naples, more Scandinavians than Stockholm, "and thrice as many Jews as can be found in any other city on earth." Five-sixths of the voters are foreign born or the sons of the foreign born. During the campaign, political speeches have been delivered in nineteen different languages and fifteen distinct dialects.

HOW TO SUCCEED

Practical Hints for the Ambitious

The assistant manager, after an investigation, recommended that the new department be installed at once, but in his report he ventured the opinion that it would be no easy matter to find a suitable man for the executive position.

The company employed more than 50 well-paid men in their administrative work, and many of these had been with the company five, ten or fifteen years. Did the assistant manager look among these for a David to tackle the new giant in their work? I do not know, but the incident made an impression on me, writes S. Roland Hall in the Business Man's Magazine.

In these days we hear much about the way promotion is earned, of how big concerns are always ready to give responsibility to the man who has manifested ability to shoulder it. It is logical reasoning, but does it always prove true in practice? Is it not a common sight nowadays when a big company desires to expand to see the managers mount the ramparts and with powerful telescopes search the horizon until a new man is found not a whit better fitted for the proposed work than one or more already within their own walls—often not nearly so well qualified? But he is secured at a large salary, creating jealousy and dissatisfaction among old employes longing for a chance to show what they can do in a larger sphere.

HONOR IN BUSINESS.

"A little incident came under my observation a few years ago," said a well-known insurance man the other day, "which illustrates the qualities of character necessary for success in business. At the time of which I speak, the Hon. William T. Cobb, now governor of Maine, was at the head of the Cobb Lime Co. in the city of Rockland. The company had a fire in a lime kiln or trestle connected with its business, and a claim was made against the insurance company carrying the risk for the loss. The adjusters of the companies met Mr. Cobb, went over the matter and figured it up as best they could but owing to the nature of the property it was difficult to estimate the damage closely, but an adjustment entirely satisfactory to both sides was arrived at. The adjusters went away assuming that this would be the end of the matter. Mr. Cobb went about the work of repairing the burned property. When the repairs had been completed he found it did not cost so much as he and the insurance men had estimated by, as I recall, more than a thousand dollars. Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Cobb and his family were the largest owners in the burned property, he did what I have never, in an experience of thirty years in the insurance business, heard of being done before. He voluntarily wrote each company and returned them a check for the unused balance, saying in the very brief letter accompanying the checks that he was only entitled to money enough to cover the actual damage. It was a most unusual surprise to the insurance companies."

BUSINESS SUCCESS.

"A fortune cannot be built up around any fixed idea, or, in other words, without the exercise of plain common sense. I buy when things are low and no one wants them. I keep them, just as I keep a considerable number of diamonds on hand, until they go up and people are anxious to buy. That is the general secret of business success."—Mrs. Hetty Green.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Who is the best football player in the country? One way at which to arrive at an opinion on this subject is to consider which man plays his position best; another, to consider which combines to the most extent football brains with the necessary physical qualifications; still another, to deal with the question from the standpoint of the greatest all around ability. And the question of the player's value as a unit in team work cannot be overlooked. Football brains, or instinct, or whatever one is a mind to call it, the knack of being able to cope with emergencies on the field and if necessary assert individuality and get away from the requirements of a cut and dried policy, are mental qualifications without which no footballist could ever be considered in the best class. One difficulty in arriving at a conclusion is that much of the very best work in football is done in the line where it does not come under general observation, as does the work of the backs, who sometimes get all the glory when the forwards do all the work. Shevlin, the Yale end and captain, comes pretty near being the best football player in the East. Blessed with a physique that makes him not only very strong but very fast, he is also a player who uses his head to good purpose. He has shown ability as a leader, and while sensible enough to follow out the policy of the coaches and advisers, has just the right amount of self dependence to make whatever departures are necessary to deal with situations that cannot possibly be foreseen. In short, he has football instinct, is not so well pleased with himself as not to abide by the advice of older and wiser heads, but yet has enough assertiveness to handle situations when they are up to him. Defensively and offensively he is the best end in the country and by his individual ability is conspicuous in every game. He knows when to take a chance and when to cling religiously to orthodox tactics. He is one of eleven or an individual as the occasion requires. In addition to all this he comes as near being an all around player as any football player. He has played tackle and full back with success and is heavy enough to play guard or centre in a pinch. Then again, his all around ability in his position is equalled by few contemporaries. Whether carrying the ball, breaking up plays, tackling or getting down under kicks he does them all well.

Hurley, the Harvard halfback and captain; Cooney, the Princeton tackle and captain; Stevenson, the Pennsylvania quarterback, and Eckersall, the Chicago quarterback, are other players whose work makes them worthy of consideration. Hurley knows the game from A to Z, plays the halfback position in first class style, is thoroughly game and makes as much out of his position as any player in the country. Cooney, like all of the other men mentioned, is greatly in evidence in games, and that because his high grade play warrants it. He is a fighter, like all of the others, and a man whose natural attainments on the checkerboard made him an inspiration for others to do their best. He may not be as good an all around man as some, but his spirit and his proficiency as a tackle put him in the first rank of players.

Stevenson is a great player in his position. His generalship, betokening instinctive knowledge of the game, and his individual prowess, making him at all times dangerous to the other side, and his ability to get work out of his players put him in the top notch class; but he is overscrappy and needs to acquire better control of his feelings before he can be classed as the best. Eckersall, while a small man, is as good a quarterback, as football ever produced, if not the best. He is a wonderful kicker, swift runner, fine dodger, good general, sure tackler. To call him great is not laying it on too thick. He is an important factor at all times, as much so as any other one man in football, despite his comparative small size, and it is close between him and Shevlin as to which is the best player in the country.

FOR CONGRESS

Gov. Douglass May be a Candidate

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Gov. Douglas was at the state house early yesterday morning and the business of the day proceeded as if there had been no cruel war of ballots.

Today his excellency leaves for a week's absence. During that week of absence he will go to Washington with the members of the executive committee of the national association of boot and shoe manufacturers and he will plead before the chief executive of the nation for the removal of the duty on hides and sole leather.

That the governor is impressed with the vote of Tuesday cannot be doubted. No matter what the recount on lieutenant governor, if there is, may show, his excellency still believes that the citizens of the state are unmistakably in favor of the sort of tariff revision which he has advocated publicly for over a year.

Not only that, but it is stated that his excellency will enter on a systematic and strenuous campaign in this matter. It will begin with his visit to the president next week.

It will be continued without cessation and the fight will be made all along the line next year at the congressional elections.

It is also predicted by the friends of Gov. Douglas that his excellency himself will be a candidate for congress, and some of these friends do not think it a bit too early to make known the fact.

The governor has received numerous letters from different parts of the country asking him if any steps have been taken toward organization for reciprocity and tariff reform. And these letters are not from near home.

DENS OF MURDER

Officials Intend to Wipe Them Out

By Federal, State and City Officials

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Judge Emmons, representing the Board of Police, combined with Deputy Chief Neal of the state police, Postoffice Inspector W. H. Snow and Dr. Edwin B. Harvey of the State Board of Registration in Medicine, began at noontime today a war on "medical offices" in Boston where, it is declared, at least six girls a week are sent to their doom.

Today's war, growing out of the "suit case" crime, where Susan Geary was killed and cut up, will be waged relentlessly until malpractitioners' establishments cease to exist in Boston. Deputy Neal declares that none exists in near-by cities.

Deputy Neal declares that it is very difficult for the police to secure evidence against the proprietors sufficient to put them behind prison bars, but believes that something can be done to force the closing of many establishments.

Judge Emmons said yesterday that a thorough investigation will be made, and hopes that something will be accomplished.

Postoffice Inspector Snow says that he will keep right after these offices, and prophesies that the "malpractitioner will be exterminated."

He has a complete list of all offices in Boston, and will submit unlimited information to the police regarding the names of the owners, the proprietors and consulting physicians.

Valuable assistance is expected from the newly-elected district-attorney, John B. Moran, who about a week ago vowed that if he were elected he would close malpractitioners' offices.

Speaking of the proposed war, Inspector Snow said yesterday: "The federal government, the state police and the local police, all combined, can drive malpractitioners out of business in this city. We hold a conference tomorrow in Judge Emmons' office. We shall proceed with an avowed determination to rid this city of these murder dens.

"In one Tremont street office we learned that 83 cases were treated in one week. This represents a conservative average.

"Deaths occur by wholesale in these places. The case of the Geary girl was no exception.

"Moreover, unfortunate girls are swindled in these places.

"One patient paid $1600 in one week for treatment.

"It is hard to get evidence, but not impossible.

"One establishment readily furnishes damaging information against another. I have already cut off a certain branch of the advertising business which lures girls into the net from little New England towns. The business of many of these dens has already been crippled. What we have done will save country girls from death and ruin.

"These places are hard to fight. The proprietors secure the ablest lawyers for defence, but much can be done. They have even lobbied at Washington. 'The Dr. Jane Bishop office' netted $100,000 a year.

"Others are far less powerful, and when the proprietors are arrested they do not generally put up a hard fight, as many of the malpractitioners have criminal records.

"The test comes in securing incriminating evidence.

"One way we can cripple Boston's 30 dens is to terrify the 'reputable' physicians who act as consultants, and others who receive patients who are destined to die. By sending fatal cases to these physicians the dens have been guarding themselves against the police."

Deputy Chief Neal says: "Many of these dens thrive in Boston. We know where they are. I am willing to cooperate with the local police."

WILL BE THOROUGH.

Judge Emmons said: "It is hardly possible to tell what we shall accomplish; but investigation begins today, and it will be thorough."

Dr. Harvey's part will be to furnish data regarding registered physicians in Boston and in near-by places.

GOLD ORE FOUND

Was Dug Up in the Green Mountains

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 9.—What is believed to be a vein of rich gold ore has been discovered in the Green Mountains near this place by Aldos Vondette of West Rutland—an old and experienced quarryman and prospector, who yesterday brought in several pieces of quartz containing heavy deposits of virgin ore.

Vondette, who has been in the mountains for some time, guards his secret carefully, but he showed the specimens to several business men here yesterday and declared he has uncovered a vein of gold containing untold wealth.

The news circulated rapidly last night and has caused considerable excitement in this city. It is probable that several parties will be organized this week to make a search of the mountains.

CALL SPECIMENS GENUINE.

Those who examined the specimens pronounce them genuine and of great value.

Vondette has been a prospector for years and has made a reputation in this line among quarrymen in this vicinity. The truth of his story is not doubted by those who know him best.

Vondette is enthusiastic over his find and makes no effort to conceal his jubilation. "I will yet become a rich man," he said yesterday.

Gold in small quantities has been discovered in the Green Mountains at several points during the past few years, but no one as yet has cared to try the experiment of installing machinery and sinking a shaft.

PRETTY GIRL

OFFERS TO SELL HER BODY FOR $25.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 9.—A pretty girl of 18 or thereabouts, neatly dressed, having the appearance of a girl reared in comparative comfort, and who said she is Rose Rau of West Liberty street, tried to sell her body yesterday to the doctors at the city hospital.

"You see, I need the money so much, and I don't care what they do with my body after death, and I have heard that you pay $25 for bodies, so I wanted to sell mine," she explained.

Investigation showed she had tried to get work, had failed and could not bear to live at home in idleness and be supported by her father, who has a number of children to support.

LOSES HANDS

MAN WAS PLAYING WITH A GUN.

GLOUCESTER, Nov. 9.—Benjamin Lynn, 19, of West Gloucester, lost two fingers of his left hand and one of his right hand, and had both hands terribly lacerated yesterday, while gunning on the Essex river. Lynn placed his hands over the muzzle of the loader gun when the charge exploded. A companion rowed him to Essex, where he was attended by Dr. Towne, and later came to this city, where the fingers were amputated at the Emergency hospital. Both hands are so badly lacerated that the doctors doubt whether they can be saved.

FOR GRAND OPERA

Superb Theatre Will be Erected

IT WILL COST ABOUT $2,000,000

Wealthy New Yorkers Subscribe to Fund

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—With a subscription in all of $2,000,000 from the city's wealthy New York men, prominent in finance, patrons of art, and staunch supporters of grand opera at the Metropolitan; with the purchase of the entire block front from Sixty-second to Sixty-third street, facing Central Park west; with plans ordered for a superb theatre to cost $2,000,000 containing an immense foyer, enriched with treasures making it the greatest art gallery of New York, with the exception of the Metropolitan Museum of art; with a committee of women, who are leaders in New York society and who are to decide who shall be accorded boxes in this artistic and social rival to the "Golden Horseshoe" of the Metropolitan; with these and other details quietly arranged, America's national theatre, long dreamed of, has been founded in New York, with Heinrich Conried at its head.

The plans, aims and general details of the establishment of a theatre to do for the drama in this country what the theatre Francais has accomplished for France, or the Burg theatre for Germany, were explained yesterday by a well-known financier whose patronage of artistic efforts in America has caused his name to be widely known. He said:

"For some years there has been much and earnest talk about the founding of a national theatre, which has been sadly needed but its worthy promoters were not equipped with financial means toward its accomplishment.

"I and other men, blessed with means and an inclination to bring about a dramatic consummation devoutly to be wished, met Heinrich Conried and talked it over with him.

"To make a long story short, a number of gentlemen were approached and it was at once found that they were heartily interested in the project. I need not mention them but may say that among them were Clarence Mackay, Henry Morgenthal, James Speyer, James Stillman, Daniel Guggenheim and many others.

"The plan was that thirty gentlemen should subscribe $100,000 each, and for their investment, they should have as collateral as it were, a site to be purchased for about $1,000,000 and the theatre to cost $2,000,000 more. The thirty were readily found. The theatre will be begun next spring and will take over a year to complete. No one will be permitted to own a box unless accepted by the committee.

"The company will be the best that unlimited money can command. The theatre will be an authority in its acting. It will aim at purity in English pronunciation, passed upon, where there is difference of opinion, by a committee from Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Princeton. A committee of artists will be consulted as to the scenery and costumes.

"The season will be thirty weeks. There will not be any long runs. Ten plays will be produced the first year; ten each year following. And on two nights each week, there will be opera comique—not "comic opera," as Broadway unhappily knows it, but genuine, delightful opera comique with artists drawn from Paris, Berlin, Vienna and other foreign cities, as well as home singers and a contingent from the Metropolitan opera house."

COUNTRY QUIET

Peace Party Won in San Domingo

SAN DOMINGO, Nov. 9. The country is perfectly quiet. The municipal elections held Nov. 1, deciding which party shall conduct the next presidential elections, were orderly throughout the republic, which is unusual.

The peace party was overwhelmingly victorious. The rumors that a revolution had broken out in Santo Domingo probably resulted from some wild talk on the part of unsuccessful candidates which resulted in a few arrests.

The alarming reports in circulation in the United States are not understood here. Business is improving. Large importations are being made. Two hundred Europeans, immigrants have just landed here.

WOMAN HURT

WHILE RIDING TO HOUNDS IN VIRGINIA.

RICHMONDTOWN, Va., Nov. 9.—Riding to hounds is rivalling football as a strenuous sport.

That those who are thrilled by the music of the pack and exhilarated as they bound along meadow, upland and hedges on the back of a hunter are not immune from danger has this season been frequently evidenced.

Mrs. Thomas L. Pierce of Boston fell off her hunter at the fourth meet of the English hounds in the Middlesex-Grafton hunt yesterday, knocked out a tooth and sustained scratches and bruises about the face.

Mrs. Pierce was not the only rider to take a cropper. Mrs. Grafton Abbot of Concord and Mrs. Lackenburg came to the ground with a thud when their steeds failed to clear difficult jumps.

Several of the men also fell, but they were in such good training that no bones were broken.

"I thank the Lord!"

cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. WILLIAM HICKEY

VICTIM OF SPOTTED FEVER

Died at the Lowell Hospital Yesterday

William Hickey, the well known local ball player, died Tuesday night at the Lowell hospital, death being due to cerebro-spinal meningitis. The deceased was 23 years of age and resided at 65 Willie street. He had not been feeling well for some time, but Tuesday morning he was seized with severe pains and Dr. Frye was summoned. The doctor advised the young man's removal to the hospital but the sick man's people were unwilling to have this done.

Dr. Frye called in the afternoon and became convinced that his first diagnosis of the case as spotted fever was a correct one. On the second visit the doctor ordered Hickey's removal to the hospital and this was done without delay.

Upon arrival at the hospital, Dr. Simpson verified the diagnosis by Dr. Frye, and little or no hope was entertained for his recovery.

The suffering was relieved as far as possible, the only help that could be given, but Mr. Hickey died before midnight.

The case was reported to the board of health yesterday and the usual directions customary in this disease were given, that the burial be made as soon as possible, and that no persons be allowed to attend.

Deceased was the most promising amateur baseball player in the city last season. During the earlier part of the summer he played with several of the teams of the New Hampshire towns, and later, when the New England league baseball team went from this city he came here and became associated with the Ketchup club, and it was largely through his splendid work as a pitcher that that club won the honors of the championship of the city.

His sudden death will be learned with profound sorrow by all who knew him.

The funeral took place at 10 o'clock this morning, Rev. Mr. Jenkins of St. Anne's church officiating at the grave. The bearers were Thomas and William Roddy, Thomas McGovern, William Martin. Burial was in the Edson cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Welnbeck.

TO AILING WOMEN

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Lowell

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Lowell woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. L. A. Clifford, of 331 Northern st., Lowell, Mass., says: "I had quite a severe attack of kidney trouble seven years ago. Sometimes the pains were so severe that it was difficult for me to attend to my work, and when I found relief through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store I was so delighted that I gladly recommend them through our local papers. Ever since then I have used Doan's Kidney Pills whenever I felt any symptoms of kidney troubles coming on and they have always given me the same prompt and complete relief."

THE MAN WHO WILL STUDY THE CURIOUS AFRICAN PYGMIES

PROFESSOR FREDERICK STARR, the well known and rather erratic anthropologist of Chicago university, who sailed recently for Africa, expects to spend a year in the intimate study of the pygmies, yellow men and cannibals who are to be found in the mysterious interior of that continent. A few of the early discoverers who penetrated the heart of Africa reported the existence of a race of dwarfs in the far interior, but for some reason their accounts of these strange people were believed to be akin to those of the imaginative Marco Polo in point of veracity. Even the testimony of so recent an observer as Paul Du Chaillu was discredited, although it was corroborated by so reliable a witness as the late Henry M. Stanley.

Now that the existence of these remarkable lilliputians is no longer a matter of speculation, bands of them having been exhibited in Europe and at the St. Louis fair, Professor Starr hopes to throw additional light upon their origin and ancestry by making a series of plaster casts, physical measurements, phonographic records, moving pictures and hundreds of photographic negatives. For this purpose he took with him Manuel Gomez, an expert young Mexican photographer.

For the study of the pygmies Professor Starr has made the most careful and elaborate preparation. It is his intention to dwell with them in their forest retreats and to maintain a vigilant observation on their methods of living. He is of the opinion that they are an unchanged race from the time of their creation and that they have not suffered degeneration. It is also his intention to investigate the peculiar yellow and copper colored races of Africans made known recently by Samuel Verner, the missionary scientist, now in that country. The traditions of these curious yellow people indicates no white ancestry. They seem to be perfectly distinct from the black tribes and are their superiors in intelligence and are averse to marrying among them. It is believed that these yellow folk number about the same as the negroes of the United States. They are scattered among various tribes, and the theory has been advanced by scientists that they are the survivors of a people that emigrated centuries ago from the region of the Nile into Africa's interior.

The field is a rare and fascinating one for an ethnologist, and Professor Starr will undoubtedly make the most of his opportunity. His headquarters will be 1,100 miles in the interior of the continent, at Ndombe, in the Belgian Congo protectorate, the capital city of King Ndombe. That powerful African potentate will aid him in conducting his researches and has engaged to safeguard him in all his undertakings. Large bands of the Batwa pygmies live in King Ndombe's territory and are under his protection. They pay him tribute in the shape of meat and game supplies for his large household. King Ndombe is of the copper colored race and is a majestic savage six feet six inches in stature and of herculean physique. He has a decidedly intelligent and kindly face, and his eyes are brown and soft. His domain is about the area of the state of New Jersey, and he is the husband of thirty-one wives and the father of forty children.

Samuel Verner, whose long residence as a missionary among these strange tribes qualifies him to speak authoritatively, says that a band of about 300 of these pygmies lives on the outskirts of King Ndombe's town in beehive-like huts formed of bent twigs and forked sticks covered with palm fiber and leaves. There is an opening in the bottom of each of these diminutive structures just large enough for its occupants to crawl through, and this cramped interior shelters a man and his wife and sometimes half a dozen children. A full grown man could neither stand erect nor lie at full length in one of these small dwellings.

Farther in the interior and remote from any settlement is to be found another race of pygmies, the tree dwelling dwarfs. Scarcely anything is known of these curious beings from actual observation, but it is Professor Starr's purpose to unravel the mystery which has always enshrouded these small specimens of humanity. With pygmy guides and armed attendants provided by King Ndombe he will penetrate the forest inhabited by the tree dwellers and gather all the information concerning them that is obtainable. They are reputed to be exceedingly shy even of other Africans, and they are also said to be expert archers and to use poisoned arrows of an especially deadly character.

All of these little people live by hunting and fishing and never till the soil. This accounts for their proficiency with the bow, which is frequently longer than the body of its owner. The poison with which they tip their arrows is vegetable and so effective that it kills almost immediately. A slight scratch with one of these poisoned darts will cause convulsions and sometimes insanity, and there is no antidote. The average stature of the men of the race is four feet. A few of them are a trifle taller and many are less. The women are a few inches shorter than the men. They appear to be monogamists, although that point is not well established. They do not intermarry with the other African races even though they live in the same community, nor do they seem to adopt the customs of their neighbors. Strangely enough, they are sun worshipers and build "spirit houses." Their language is extremely ingenious, the names of animals, for instance, being formed from the sounds made by the animals themselves. A special effort will be made by Professor Starr to secure a full record of this odd speech on the phonograph.

Professor Starr is prepared to make himself a very acceptable visitor at the court of King Ndombe. He is provided with a large number of lantern slides which he will exhibit at the royal palace, some of them showing the pygmies at the St. Louis fair and how they were lodged in the African village at that international show. He also took with him a large and varied assortment of the especial trinkets that are dear to the heart of the African monarch, and it is likely that he will be a person of great influence at court as long as the gewgaws hold out. The result of his explorations will be awaited with great impatience by the scientific world, now that it has been compelled by actual demonstration to accept the fact of the pygmies' existence.

Professor Starr was born in Auburn, N. Y., in 1858, and was graduated from Lafayette college in 1882. He taught scientific subjects at several colleges after graduation and in 1889 had charge of the department of ethnology at the American Museum of Natural History. Professor Starr has done much field work in ethnography and physical anthropology, especially in Mexico. He is a frequent contributor to magazines and has lectured on his travels and anthropological investigations.

The professor is a devotee to his profession and has never found the time to marry. He is reputed to be a woman hater, but he declares that he has no well founded aversion for the sex, but has had absolutely no time to acquire a proper knowledge of the cult. He is one of the best informed men on the subject of the American Indian now living. He has been adopted regularly as a member of the Onondaga tribe and is known among them as Haiesatha (Wisest Spanker of the Council).

The noble monument herewith pictured has recently been unveiled at Vouziers, the birthplace of Hippolyte Adolphe Taine, the famous historian and critic. No modern French writer has been more successful in gaining English literary appreciation than M. Taine. His "Notes on England" and "History of English Literature" have had an immense popularity in English speaking countries. Even when one cannot agree with him it is possible to obtain the greatest pleasure from his admirable diction.

SECOND DOCTOR

Was Called in the Susan Geary Case

SUCH IS THE BELIEF OF POLICE

Knew Nothing of the Girl's Death

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Another young doctor of excellent standing and reputed to be a capable surgeon, will probably be brought into the Susanna Geary case.

He may not be charged as one of the principals, but it is likely that he will appear, at least, as a witness.

The connection which this physician has with the case of Miss Geary, the "Shepherd King" dancer, is alleged to be as one of the surgeons who performed the operation of laparotomy a few days before the girl died, the operation being undertaken as a desperate means to save her life.

It is not claimed that this doctor was present at the dismemberment of the body, or that he knows anything about the case beyond what he has been told since the body was disposed of.

The fact of this doctor's probable participation in the abdominal operation came the day Dr. Percy D. McLeod was arrested. At that time it appeared probable that he had been called in to treat Miss Geary when peritonitis developed to a critical point.

Investigation since then has shown, however, that this physician was not the first regular practitioner summoned, that he was not the doctor in charge of the case. But when the heroic operation was decided on by the physician in charge, alleged by the police to have been Dr. McLeod, this physician was taken to the house at 68 Winthrop street, Roxbury, to assist.

This man, according to the information received, did all he could to save the girl's life. After the operation there seemed to be a chance of Miss Geary's recovery, although a slender one.

This second physician left the house after the operation and was not called in afterward. Miss Geary lived four days after that operation. The doctor was not present when she died, nor did he know of her death until several days afterward.

That he did later learn the fate of the girl and the disposition of the body there is little doubt.

The doctor in question has, it is alleged, treated other patients convalescing in the Winthrop street house.

Friendship is said to have been one of the reasons for this doctor's presence the night he tried to save the girl's life. He and Dr. McLeod have been intimate for several years.

This physician lives in Roxbury and in an emergency it would not take him long to go from his office to the house where Miss Geary died.

It was not this doctor's duty to sign a death certificate, that being the business of the physician in charge who treated Miss Geary before and after he and the other performed the operation. But he knew the character of the initial operation which had resulted in peritonitis, knew it was a criminal one, and he was under as great obligation as was the physician in charge to notify the authorities.

As far as is known, only two occupants of the house at 68 Winthrop street knew of the presence of this second doctor at the operation. One is Mary S. Dean, in charge of the house, and the other is the physician in charge of the case.

The Roxbury doctor's name was not given to Supt. Pierce or Chief Inspector Watts by William E. Howard or Louis W. Crawford in New York. Neither Howard nor Crawford knew of the Roxbury physician's connection with the case, and evidently were not told.

The Roxbury physician is attending to his practice as usual. He was questioned yesterday about his connection with the case. He denied that he knew anything about the operation on Miss Geary, and said he was not called in consultation to attend her or any other patient at 68 Winthrop street.

He admitted he and Dr. McLeod had been warm friends for years and had consulted each other about their patients.

Supt. Pierce and Chief Inspector Watts waited in vain last night for word from Halifax, N. S., regarding the woman the police of that city have under surveillance, suspecting she is the missing Mary S. Dean for whom the Boston police have a warrant.

FUNERAL OF VICTIM.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The body of Susanna Agnes Geary, the suit-case victim, will be taken to Leominster for burial, after it is turned over to the family by Boston authorities.

Mrs. Geary is on the verge of collapse at her home, 595 Main street, Cambridgeport. She was ill, pale and nervous yesterday when seen by a reporter.

She said she did not know yet regarding the details of the funeral, because Capt. Dugan had not yet told her when she could have her daughter's body.

MADE BIG GAIN

Bishop O'Connell May be Coadjutor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The trustees of the Catholic University held a session yesterday afternoon and another last evening, when the reports of various committees were considered.

Cardinal Gibbons, the chancellor, presided. The other directors present were Archbishops Williams of Boston, Ryan of Philadelphia, Farley of New York and Bishop Maes of Covington, Foley of Detroit, Harkins of Providence and the rector, Mgr. O'Connell.

The treasurer, Michael Jenkins of Baltimore, was present at the morning session, and presented the financial report recently embodied in the letter which Cardinal Gibbons issued in regard to the annual collection to be taken up for the university. This report shows an encouraging gain since the last meeting.

The question of endowing a chair with the fund recently bequeathed by Miss Gardiner of Baltimore, and the election of a successor to Mgr. P. J. Chappelle, a charter member of the board, will be considered today.

Last night a special committee conferred in regard to the present needs of the institution, and took up a number of reports submitted by various members of the faculty. The conclusions of the board regarding certain radical changes in the conduct of the university will probably be announced today. These pertain in part to the permanent duties of the vice-rector and a stricter enforcement of the terms of the constitution.

Yesterday afternoon the trustees and faculties of the university were the guests of Trinity college, and participated in the presentation of the $10,000 scholarship by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. This scholarship is only open to members of the order, and then by competition in every part of the country. Delegates from every section where the order is established were here to take part in the ceremonies. Among those from out of town were James O'Sullivan of Philadelphia, who, in the absence of the national president, James E. Dolan, made the presentation; Mrs. Mary E. Quinn of Joliet, Ill., national president of the Ladies' Auxiliary; Miss Anne Malia of Pennsylvania, national secretary; Miss Katherine Sheridan of Randolph, Mass.; Miss McCann and Miss O'Donnell of Connecticut and Miss McWhorter of Chicago.

Archbishop Williams, accompanied by the Rev. F. X. Dolan of the Cathedral, occupied a seat on the stage, and afterward manifested his interest in Trinity college by being presented to the present graduating class. Four out of six of the prospective graduates are from the Bay state. They are Miss Mary Agnes Kennedy of Charlestown, Miss Sara Treanor O'Neil of Somerville, Miss Anna Ivius Collins of North Adams and Miss Mary Elizabeth Doherty of Worcester.

The appointment of the coadjutor to the archbishop of Boston is of much interest among the prelates now at the university. The opinion prevails that Bishop Harkins of Providence, who was first on the list both of bishops and priests, is not very desirous of the appointment, and that he so informed the Roman authorities during his recent visit. Bishop Harkins would like an assistant in his present field if he continues there.

It is said that Bishop O'Connell of Portland, who has been a candidate for the coadjutorship from the beginning, stands a good chance of winning. Archbishop Williams, however, is committed to Bishop Harkins.

TRIED SUICIDE

MALDEN MAN DRANK CROTON OIL.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—N. B. Lavers, 28 years old, of Malden, attempted suicide about 10.15 last night by drinking croton oil because of unrequited love. The act was committed in front of the home of Miss Grace Hutchinson of 1 Hull row, off Mill street, Charlestown, to which the young man had been refused admittance.

After Lavers had rung the doorbell and found that he could not see Miss Hutchinson, he sat on the step for some minutes.

Suddenly he arose and in desperation smashed the plate glass door window, and then drank five drams of croton oil from a bottle.

The young man was taken to the police station, and Dr. Duff ordered his removal to the City hospital relief station. There he was treated, with good results, and at an early hour this morning he was resting comfortably.

$5000 LOSS

BRANCH OF BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY DAMAGED BY FIRE.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The old Every Day Universalist church in Shawmut avenue, between Canton and West Brookline streets, now occupied by the South end branch of the Boston public library, was damaged by fire, which was discovered at a few minutes after 2 o'clock this morning. The loss is placed at about $5000.

The blaze gave the firemen one of the hardest battles they have had for a long time, and on account of the surroundings it was necessary for Chief Cheswell to sound three alarms. At 2.45 o'clock the fire was still burning, but practically under control.

1400 MILES BY WIRELESS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The navy department has been informed that the wireless telegraph operator at San Juan, Porto Rico, read signs which were being sent from a wireless station in the vicinity of New York. The distance as computed at the navy department is approximately 1400 miles.

This encourages the belief at the department that it will be possible to establish wireless telegraphic communication between San Juan and the Washington navy yard in the near future.

ROYAL ARCANUM

Attorney General May Give Decision Today

BOSTON, Nov. 9—Atty. Gen. Parker still has before him the application for the use of his name in a bill in equity to enjoin the officers of the Royal Arcanum from putting into effect the new rate schedule.

Present indications are that the attorney general will not grant the use of his name.

He gave several hearings to counsel representing those who protest against the new rate schedule and to counsel for the supreme officers of the order.

Counsel for the order urged, in the first place, that the attorney general had no legal right to grant the use of his name for the extraordinary remedy proposed, and that the situation did not call for an injunction. It was further argued that the insurance commissioner had made no complaint.

Finally it was suggested, also by counsel for the order, that the bringing of a bill in equity for injunction would hurt the order, and perhaps destroy it.

The attorney general, therefore, had the legal question to settle first. Then, if he found he had the legal right to grant the use of his name, he would still have to decide whether, in view of all the facts, he should do so.

Yesterday the insurance commissioner was considering the Royal Arcanum matter under section 19, chapter 122, revised statutes.

This section provides, in brief, that if the insurance commissioner on investigation is satisfied that a corporation organized or conducting business under the provisions of that chapter has exceeded its powers, or has failed to comply with any provisions of law, etc., he shall report the fact to the attorney general.

That the insurance commissioner is at work under this section is regarded as indicating that the attorney general has not found that, as a matter of law, he has the right to lend his name to the petition for an injunction.

The insurance commissioner has already practically approved the new rate schedule in his annual report, by explaining its necessity.

For a Day of Public
THANKSGIVING AND PRAISE.

In accordance with custom, I, with the advice and consent of the Council, hereby appoint Thursday, the thirtieth day of November, as a day of Thanksgiving and Praise.

On that day the people of this Commonwealth should join in the praise of the Almighty for the bounteous crops and the abundance of the harvest garnered from the many fields of industry; for the continuance of peace and prosperity; for the extension of the great work of education; for the broadening influence of Christian charity, and its practical manifestation in the more human consideration and treatment of the sick, the unfortunate and the afflicted; for the broader spirit of toleration and the nobler relations of brotherhood existing between our citizens, which marks the progress of our Commonwealth and our nation.

Given at the Council Chamber, in Boston, this eighth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirtieth.

WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS.

WILLIAM M. OLIN, Secretary.

GOD SAVE THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Senator Foraker on the Ohio Election

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 9—Following the defeat of Gov. Herrick and the republican party in this state and city at the election Tuesday, Senator Foraker last night authorized the following statement:

"The defeats we have sustained in the city and state have no relation to national politics, but are due solely to local and other causes. Whether right or not, the belief obtains that the great mass of voters have not had any proper representation in nominating conventions, and that a man with an ambition to engage in the public service had no opportunity unless he was fortunate enough to be put on a prearranged slate. It was natural to expect that sooner or later this would be resented. In large part that is what the defeats of yesterday meant.

"It will be easy to cure this trouble. The way is to return to the old-fashioned practice of having real conventions, at which all who aspire to nominations will have an equal chance. There were other causes that contributed to our defeat that will occur to every one familiar with the situation, but I do not care to discuss them, for they will pass away with this election."

That John M. Pattison, democrat, of Cincinnati, has been elected governor of Ohio for three years by a plurality running above 40,000, over Gov. Herrick, republican, is settled, as also is the democratic working majority in both houses of the legislature, but there is still some uncertainty as to the rest of the state ticket.

Earlier returns were apparently from sections favorable to Gov. Herrick, for he had a lead over the remainder of the republican ticket until today, when fuller returns from country regions cut into Herrick's vote severely.

Chairman Garber of the democratic committee last night figured a plurality for Pattison that aggregated close to 55,000. If these figures hold true, the entire democratic ticket is elected.

The republicans have given out no later estimates than that of Chairman Dick, conceding the election of Pattison by 25,000 plurality.

TEXTILE NOTES

Interesting Items From Mill Centers

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 9.—The same interests which have been identified with the successful Queensbury Mills in Worcester, Mass., with spinning mills in Somersworth, N. H., and with a lining plant, the Alexander Silk Mills, in Passaic, N. J., are about to start another novelty yarn plant for the spinning of mohair, worsted and novelty yarns in Providence, R. I. W. S. Hodgson, Sr., the manager of the new plant, states that most of the machinery, which was all specially imported from England, has arrived and it will be ready to start by Nov. 9. Several varieties of yarns will be made in the new plant, including bourette, boucle, flakes, spots, spirals, etc., in white and colors.

Walter Huby, formerly overseer of the twisting department of the Cranston Worsted Mills, and Fred Latham, boss machinist of the same plant, have connected themselves with Mr. Hodgson in the new enterprise.

MILL OPERATIVES RETURN.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 9.—The Attawaugan Co., operating the cotton mills at Pequot, has now fully recovered from the effects of the recent strike among its weavers. Gradually, since the 15 striking weavers left their looms, their places have been filled by others. The mills have never stopped in consequence of the strike, but have been running, although several of the looms were idle for a time. There was never any reduction of wages in the mill.

MILL CONSOLIDATION.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 9.—Preliminary steps have been taken toward the consolidation of the Estes Mill and the Seaside Mill of Fall River, Mass. Although no details are given out, it is understood that the Seaside Mill will be abandoned and the machinery transferred to the Estes Mill. The two companies in question are large manufacturers of absorbent cotton to be used for medical purposes. William J. Dunn is the owner of the Seaside mill, while J. H. Estes and his three sons control the Estes plant, which was recently incorporated with a capital of $250,000.

TO INCREASE HANES PLANT.

WINSTON, N. C., Nov. 9.—A big enlargement will be undertaken by the P. H. Hanes Knitting Co. of this town and the output of the plant will be increased by 100 dozen garments daily. It is now 300 dozen garments men's fleeced and ribbed underwear. The improvements will include the erection of a five-story, 30x50-foot building, and the installation of new knitting machines and complement of sewing machines, etc. In the mill now operating there are 30 knitting machines with complement of sewers, etc., employing 150 persons.

WORKING FULL NIGHT FORCE.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Nov. 9.—Forty looms in the Silver Lake Mills of the W. E. Tillotson Manufacturing Co., Pittsfield, Mass., have been started on a night schedule, and this number will be increased as fast as additional weavers can be secured.

MADE RECORD

ED. BRYAN WENT THREE MILES IN 7.03½.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—The final races of the season over the Point Breeze race track yesterday were most successful from every viewpoint, and Ed Bryan, 2.16¾ added another world's record to his credit by covering three miles to wagon, unpaced, in 7.03½

In 1857 a gelding by the name of Prince stepped three miles to a high-wheel wagon in 7.53½. Ed Bryan's miles were to a modern bike wheel wagon, but the performance, nevertheless, establishes a new world's mark for the distance. Ed Bryan also holds the two-mile world's wagon record. He finished the last quarter of his record-breaking trip yesterday in the remarkable time of 30⅛s, or at a 2.26 gait.

The match race between The Friend, 2.05¼, and Harry L, 2.08¾, drew a large crowd. The event was well contested and furnished plenty of excitement. Harry L. drew the pole, and the pair were sent away on the first score down on good terms. The Friend, however, made a break on the turn, but came up quickly. Coming down the stretch he gained, but Harry L won the heat by a head in 2.08¼, just equaling his former mark.

The pair were again sent away on the first score for the second heat. The Friend made a break on the first turn, which left him no chance for the heat, and Harry L won the heat in a jog. The time was 2.12¾.

They got away well again in the third heat and were well bunched all the way around. The Friend forced Harry L to the half at a 2.05½ gait, and, finishing good and strong, won the heat by a nose in 2.07¾.

The fourth and final heat found The Friend again unsteady, and Harry L won, pulled up in slow time, although the three-quarters was paced well below a 2.10 gait.

LIKE A LUNATIC

Chinese Emperor Held Prisoner Cries Wildly

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 9.—Telegrams from Pekin to Japanese papers say movements to overthrow the present Chinese dynasty are developing with incredible rapidity.

Advices from Pekin published by Japanese vernacular papers received by the steamer Empress of China state that when the Empress Dowager of China returned hastily from her summer palace because of the bomb outrage at Pekin, she summoned the emperor and asked what he knew of the outrage, whereupon the emperor showed much confusion.

At a signal from the empress a party of guards appeared and led the emperor to a hall, where he has been since confined, no one having access to him and food being thrust in through a window. The Hochiu Shinbun says the emperor occasionally raises shrieks like those of a lunatic.

CLUB SOCIAL MET.

A well attended meeting of Club Social de Centralville was held last night in West Sixth street, the affair being in honor of Representatives-elect Joseph H. Hibbard and Charles J. Wier.

Mr. Wier was unable to be present, but Representative Hibbard was on hand and delivered a hearty speech of thanks and gratitude to his loyal supporters. He was enthusiastically cheered and warmly congratulated.

Refreshments and cigars were passed and a rousing program of songs was given by Hector Houde, president of the club; Hector Monette, Ernest Landry, Mr. McKinnon and other members present.

SOMETIMES

Everyone wants money, no matter how saving a person may be one cannot foresee everything. We give the money so cheap and make the repayments so easy that it helps over a rough place in life's pathway without a jar.

CASH LOANS TO ANYONE with a salary. No security asked; a plain note is all we require.

KELLEY, the Money Lender,

EMBARRASSMENT

That's the condition we all strive to avoid. If you are on a salary and have not sufficient money to accomplish a desired end, we can be of assistance to you.

We have salaried people on our books who receive from

per year, so you see that it's not the amount of salary a person receives that makes a borrower—it's circumstances—an unexpected condition arising that makes borrowing necessary.

Your dealings with us are strictly confidential.

Joined American In New York Harbor

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The squadron of Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, consisting of six armored cruisers, passed in Sandy Hook at 7.15 o'clock this morning. The flagship Drake was in the lead followed by the Bedford, Berwick, Cornwall, Essex and Cumberland in that order.

As the ships neared the quarantine station the flagship Drake lowered her small storm color and hoisted in its stead, the large white ensign which she immediately dipped in salute to the British steamer Atrato lying at anchor. The flagship's example was followed in order by the remainder of the cruisers. As the warships steamed up the bay they were constantly saluted by passing craft.

As the British squadron passed Governors Island, the headquarters of the army of the east, each cruiser gave the national salute of twenty-one guns which was answered by the guns of Governors Island. The cruisers then passed up the Hudson river and dropped anchor in the stations assigned to them north of 34th street, beside the American squadron.

Messrs. Joseph and Wilfrid Normandin of Manchester, N. H., have been the guests of their brother, Mr. Z. A. Normandin.

Mrs. P. W. Farrell very charmingly entertained the Cercle Albani last night at her home in School street.

Dr. Henri E. Langis, Mr. Stephen Rochette, Mr. Fortunat Pelletier, Mr. Ovide E. Ledoux and Mr. Joseph Roy formed a theatre party who heard "Faust" at the Boston theatre last night.

Mrs. Edwin Farnham of Milltown, N. B., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas McPhail, of 52 Franklin street.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Silk of 607 School street, Monday.

The Choral society will meet this evening in Odd Fellows' hall, Middlesex street, for the rehearsal of "Faust."

Mrs. Charles Clark of Washington, D. C., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clark of Stackpole street.

Mr. Isaac Blanchard, formerly of this city but now of Wilton, N. H., was a visitor in town yesterday. Mr. Blanchard has entered in the poultry business, and has large houses erected just outside of Wilton Centre.

A large number of people visited the Day Nursery of Kirk street yesterday afternoon, the occasion being a pound party given for the benefit of the Nursery. Each visitor brought a pound of some useful article which is much needed in supporting the home. Twenty-eight children were present and entertained the visitors with songs and recitations which they are learning at present for Thanksgiving. No special preparation was made for the occasion, the purpose of which was to give the people of Lowell a chance to see the nursery as it is ordinarily run, and to get them interested in its support.

SEVERE TYPHOON

CAUSED GREAT DAMAGE IN GUAM.

GUAM, Nov. 9.—A severe typhoon, accompanied by a deluge of rain, took place here yesterday. The damage done to property is considerable, but its extent is unknown. The towns of Agana and Piti were inundated. No lives were lost.

POLITICAL NOTES

Fred Evans at the request of his friends is going to run for the common council in ward nine on the republican ticket. As the state election figures indicate that ward nine has passed body and boots into the democratic column Fred will have to stay out late o'nights to overcome the adverse majority.

In Captain Fairweather's "ad" in a morning paper today, the writer says that the captain has a record at city hall that his opponents cannot bring under the limelight. The writer evidently meant just the opposite of what he wrote for a record that won't stand the glare of publicity is hardly worth talking about.

The "ad" writers of both Hill and Fairweather call attention to the big vote that each received when running for aldermen. Col. Carmichael's vote showed that there is a big difference in votes received when running in a field of nine and when running in a field of two or three.

Michael Quinn, the well known electrician will be a democratic candidate for alderman.

Even the 1905 red book forgets to mention that James G. Hill was once acting mayor of the city of Lowell and during a very strenuous period, the height of the wood famine. The red book mentions Ex-Alderman Badger but omits mention of Mr. Hill.

WET WEATHER

HAS HELPED LUMBER INDUSTRY IN MAINE.

WATERVILLE, Maine, Nov. 9.—The past three days of inclement weather has been of incalculable value to the lumber industry of the state and the industrial plants located along the Kennebec river. Water in the greatest storage basins had become very low and the ground along the river watershed dry. In the Moosehead Lake region rather more than one foot of snow has fallen. It is expected to melt during the next few days if warm weather prevails as expected and the drought will be greatly relieved. This followed by the average wet weather due between now and the first of the new year is believed to make certain sufficient water to save the mills and factories along the Kennebec river for the entire winter. Hunting conditions have been ideal.

SPECIAL MEETING

Of City Council Tomorrow Evening

A special meeting of both branches of the city council has been called for tomorrow evening to take action on the death of Councilman John Donohue of ward five. Councilman Donohue was one of the most popular members of the democratic minority and his death will be widely mourned. He was a steadfast friend and a staunch democrat.

Both General Shields and John McManus have announced themselves at city hall as candidates for positions on the board of charity under the incoming mayor. They don't say which mayor, but claim that with their experience as friends of the poor any mayor should be glad to appoint them regardless of politics.

POLICY HOLDERS

Will be Fully Protected Says Counsel

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—"The policy holders in Missouri will not be hurt by the action of Insurance Commissioner Van Diver in suspending the license of the New York Life to do business in this state. We will see that their interests are protected to the fullest extent. The attorneys will hold a meeting today, but until then we cannot tell what we will do to meet the emergency," said Edward C. Crow, former attorney general and one of the attorneys for the New York Life when informed of Commissioner Van Diver's action.

"They had to do it at night," remarked Attorney F. N. Judson, also counsel for the insurance company, when told. Neither of the attorneys would state what would be the next step of the company to meet the emergency.

NATIONAL LIBRARY HEADQUARTERS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—E. C. Hovey, of Boston, a member of the American Library association, is here in the interest of a fund which it is proposed to create for the establishment and maintenance of national headquarters to raise $100,000 to start with, and to supplement this with $1,000,000 for permanent endowment. Men of wealth are being appealed to in furtherance of the plans.

CRUISER DENVER

Was Dispatched to San Domingo City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The navy department has been advised by cablegram that the cruiser Denver left Guantanamo yesterday for San Pedro Marcoris, San Domingo, to which place Rear Admiral Bradford was ordered to send a warship because of reported trouble. The Denver should reach there today. The department, also, has been advised that Rear Admiral Bradford sailed yesterday with his flagship, the cruiser Olympia from Guantanamo for San Domingo City.

The gunboat Eagle, which has sailed from Newport News for Monti Christi has been temporarily assigned to Rear Admiral Bradford's division in Dominican waters.

The war department has received a cablegram from Colonel Colton, who is chief of the government agents in San Domingo dated at San Domingo, Nov. 8, which says:

"Everything perfectly quiet."

SECRETARY TAFT'S REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—While Secretary Taft is away officials of the war department are preparing data for his annual report to congress. It has not yet been determined whether the report will embrace the Panama canal but it is supposed that the canal will be considered in a separate department. As to army matters, it is known that the secretary does not intend to make very many recommendations, but will strongly renew his recommendation for an increase of the medical corps and for legislation which will increase the efficiency of the ordnance corps, which is now short of officers. Various recommendations have been made by various officers for increases in the army.

MAY BE MURDER

Man Lured to a House and Killed

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Lying in a pool of blood, the body of a man was found yesterday in a room on the second floor of a house in the southern part of the city. The skull was crushed and the body gave other evidence to warrant the police in believing the man had been murdered.

The authorities decline to make known the identity of the man, beyond saying that he is supposed to have been an Italian tailor of New York.

Two men and two women, all Italians, who occupied the room in which the body was found, disappeared yesterday, and the police are making a search for them.

The authorities believe the unknown man was lured to the place and then assaulted and robbed.
